JUDGE'S WIFE ADMITS FRAUD

HITLER FORBIDS MRS. GOEBBELS TO GET DIVORCE

Acts Swiftly to Head Off Scandal.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York News Syndicate, Inc.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 30.—Determined to prevent a public scandal among National Socialism's top men, Reichsfuehrer Hitler acted swiftly today to prevent Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels from being divorced by his wife, Magda. Mrs. Goebbels is first lady of the reich and Hitler's official hostess at most state functions.

She is irate over her husband's latest mishap, in which he was beaten almost to death by friends of the beautiful actress, Lida Baarova, but has been forbidden to leave Germany, the New York Daily News correspondent learned tonight.

Mrs. Goebbels had been preparing to leave for Denmark to file action against Goebbels. Not only will Hitler's move prevent her getting a divorce — since German courts would hardly grant a decree without Hitler's approval—but also Mrs. Goebbels will be blocked from giving interviews that might prove embarrassing.

Report Nervous Breakdown.

Other developments came rapidly as a result of the disclosure yesterday that Goebbels, reported suffering from acute intestinal influenza, actually was in a closely guarded Berlin clinic, cut and bruised. This was a result of his attentions to Miss Baarova, whose actor husband, Gustav Froelich, had been banished to a concentration camp by Goebbels.

Goebbels, when told the affair had received publicity abroad, suffered a nervous breakdown, fearing — and with reason, said Nazi circles—that his official career might be at an end.

Hitler, while publicly silent, conferred with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop regarding the affair. No word was allowed to leak out as to the result of this conference, but it was pointed out that there was no official denial of the story.

Seize Six of Actress' Friends.

At the same time it was learned that six actors and actresses, friends of Miss Baarova and Froelich, have been seized, and others are being hunted for participation in the beating.

Miss Baarova herself was reported in hiding in a villa at Wannsee lake, near Berlin, uncertain as to what her fate might be. Official displeasure against her already has been shown in the banning of her pictures in Germany.

That Goebbels actually might be on his way out as a Nazi leader was suggested by those who recalled that there long has been professional jealousy between the propaganda minister and Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler's right hand man. Goering previously expressed his displeasure at Goebbels' attentions to Miss Baarova.

Challenged to a Duel.

Goebbels' attachment to Miss Baarova has been the subject of gossip for some time. His influence was not sufficient to prevent the jealous Froelich from challenging Goebbels to a duel because he made love to lovely Miss Baarova. It was as a result of this challenge that Froelich went to a concentration camp.

Hitler intervened then, quieted Goebbels' wife, and all seemed smoothed over until the night of Dec. 21. It was on this night Goebbels was surprised in Miss Baarova's apartment by a group of her friends, and the horse-whipping followed.

Divorce Report Discounted.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 30.—The report that Mrs. Paul Joseph Goebbels would seek a divorce in Copenhagen was discounted here. In the first place, inquiries instituted in Berlin by the Politiken revealed that the propaganda minister's wife is spending a New Year's vacation with Minister of Interior Wilhelm Frick.

Under Danish law Mrs. Goebbels could not obtain a divorce in Denmark without the authority of the German government.

Goebbels to Talk Over Radio.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The propaganda ministry said tonight that Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels had recovered sufficiently from his illness to make a New Year's address tomorrow night. The ministry spokesman said Goebbels would speak for about twenty minutes, starting at 10 p. m. [3 p. m. C. S. T.].

INDICT BUCKNER AND AID ON BOND FRAUD CHARGES

Allege Million Loss in Securities.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—William P. Buckner Jr., whoopee party host for congressmen and close friend of Loretta Young, film star, was indicted today by the federal grand jury on charges arising from an alleged $1,000,000 fraud in the "kiting" of Philippine Railway bonds.

Wm. P. Buckner Jr. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Indicted with Buckner was William J. Gillespie, his partner in the promotion scheme. They were named in five counts for mail fraud and one of conspiracy for which conviction would carry a possible maximum prison sentence of 27 years. Buckner, at liberty in $5,000 bail, received permission from Federal Judge Bondy on Christmas eve to go to the west coast on "business." He attended church with Miss Young on Christmas day.

Lobby With Chorus Girls.

The indictment, which was obtained by Assistant United States Attorney William P. Maloney, charges the two men made fraudulent promises to bondholders that their paper would be redeemed in full by the Philippine government. Besides lobbying with chorus girls among the Washington statesmen, Buckner made several trips to Manila. From there, it was alleged, he sent out false reports about the bonds which resulted in a loss of a million dollars to investors.

Maloney declared other indictments would follow. Investigators are seeking reputed co-conspirators who worked among prominent members of the Hollywood film colony and interested them in the Philippine securities.

Movie Actors Called.

Thirteen motion picture actors, actresses and executives have been subpenaed to appear before the grand jury here in New York City. It was said, however, that investigators might take statements from several of the group on the west coast and bring them east to testify only at the trial. The trial probably will start in March or April.

Those subpenaed are: Leon Errol, Frank Morgan, Bing Crosby, Herbert Marshall, Miriam Hopkins, Phyllis Brooks, Binnie Barnes, Ronald Colman, Cary Grant, Joseph M. Schenck, Nick Carter, Jean Mogilioski and Nola Hahn.

Cary Grant has discussed the case here with Maloney. John Stuart Hyde, former captain in the British Royal Engineers and now a Hollywood producer, also was questioned here recently. Hyde is said to have introduced several of the film folk to Buckner. Maloney described Hyde as a voluntary and "very material" witness.

Three Congressmen Mentioned.

Thus far the names of only three congressmen have been made public in connection with Buckner's Washington expeditions, although he said he met "dozens." They are Leo Kocialowski, Chicago Democrat and chairman of the house insular affairs committee; James J. Lanzetta, New York Democrat, and a member of the same committee, and Robert Crosser, Ohio Democrat, and a member of the interstate and foreign commerce committee.

Testimony on the Washington phase of Buckner's activities is expected to be sprightly inasmuch as it will include a description of a $5,000 party given in a hotel. The affair was attended by members of congress and five New York night club entertainers. One of the chorines, Noel Carter, said she made the trip by airplane and only went for the ride. There were other Washington parties, too, and several in New York City at which some of the nation's lawmakers were present.

The purpose of entertaining the legislators was to persuade them to introduce bills in congress which would have demanded that the Philippine government redeem the bonds. The

If Chimp Could Only Imagine, He Would Talk

Richmond, Va., Dec. 30.—(AP)—If the chimpanzee, the nearest living relative of man among the apes, had a little bit more imagination it would develop human speech.

Dr. Robert M. Yerkes of Yale university told the American Association for the Advancement of Science today that the chimpanzees in his laboratory simulate young children in their activities.

They communicate with each other by various positions in standing and sitting, by gestures and sounds, and are well understood by each other, as shown by their coöperation in activities requiring more than one individual.

Illustration Is Given.

If two of these ape-children, one well fed and the other one very hungry, are put into the same cage, the hungry one can always get the help of the other in pulling a box of food into the cage, thus simulating human behavior, Dr. Yerkes declared.

The chimpanzees are also like human beings in the way they take care of their children, he added. Young chimps are cared for solicitously by their mothers for the first few years of their lives. For the first two years the baby chimpanzee plays about like a young human, being unable to get along without the care of its parents.

Other Traits Develop.

Later it develops most of the traits of human beings, becoming difficult to get along with, especially during adolescence, and becoming increasingly grouchy toward middle age. And, like human youngsters, chimpanzees learn from each other as much or more than they learn from their parents.

Other human traits the Yale chimpanzees have shown are solicitude for others in time of illness, belligerence, tyranny, cruelty, injustice, courage, and selfishness. They also prove that might does not always win, because some of the puny individuals have overcome the huskier ones by superior thinking and by outmaneuvering them in a fight.

Nemo, an Elephant, Put Up as Collateral on $700 Loan

Belleville, Ill., Dec. 30.—(AP)—A 5,000 pound elephant named Nemo was put up as collateral today on a $700 loan. The loan was made by O. N. Walters of Kansas City to John Francis of St. Louis. The papers were filed in the recorders' office here.

EASES HIS CONSCIENCE BY PAYING BACK U. S. WITH A POEM AND $300

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—(AP)—A person who signed himself "An Ex-recipient of Home Relief" sent $300 to the treasury's conscience fund today, accompanied by the following verse:

"The reason why I send this card
Is plain enough to see,
For who could have a better friend
Than you have been to me."

The conscience fund is composed of remittances from persons who feel they owe the government money. Another contribution, a $1,000 bill, was received today from "a well meaning person."

STAR SPEEDS OFF AT RATE OF 124 MILES A SECOND

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Astronomers today told of a rare, hot star which is speeding away from the earth at a rate of 124 miles a second.

The star was discovered recently by the Carnegie institution's Mount Wilson observatory and Dr. Paul W. Merrill has shown it to be the fastest of its type.

Dr. Walter Baade told of observing a gaseous nebula, half of which vanished as if it had been sliced off with a knife.

"It was cut smoothly in half," Dr. Baade said. "Three months later it was whole again."

Synagogue Burglars Flout the Eighth Commandment

Burglars who entered the Agudath Achim North Shore Congregation temple at 5029 Kenmore avenue early yesterday exhibited a fine disregard for the eighth commandment. They stole four silver and gold ornamental door plates, a silver benediction cup, and a gold shield. Embossed on the shield were the Ten Commandments. In case you have forgotten, the eighth commandment, according to Jewish reckoning, declares: "Thou shall not steal."

After 49 Years Iowa Town Resumes Action to Be City

Shenandoah, Ia., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—On Feb. 5, 1886, the city council held a special meeting to incorporate the town of Shenandoah into a second class city, but an election was never held. Now, fifty-two years later, the present council is correcting that error. The council has passed a resolution calling for an election to decide whether Shenandoah, population 6,514, is to be a city or is to remain merely a town.

A Gold Tooth Puts the Bite on a Burglar

"Going to the colored charity ball tonight, Brother Cole?" asked Albert Dunham.

"I'm broke, Brother Dunham," Robert Cole confessed. "Those tickets cost half a dollar."

"Mmmm," said Dunham.

When he went to the ball in Joliet Thursday night, though, there was Cole, dancing the ladies off their feet.

"Mmmm," said Dunham.

Burglars, Then a Suspicion.

And when he went home to 112 South Joliet street burglars had been there. He thought about his Joliet neighbor, Cole, and tickets at 50 cents, and said "Mmmm." Yesterday Dunham had Cole arrested in his home at 204 South Des Plaines street.

Capt. Irvin Boe of Joliet police searched Cole and found two $1 bills, 13 Indian head pennies, and a Canadian cent.

"About the dollars I couldn't say," conceded Dunham. "Dollars are all alike. But I can identify the pennies. I'm a coin collector. They're mine."

"I'm a coin collector, too," said Cole. "The pennies are mine."

Capt. Boe searched Cole again. In a vest pocket he found a gold tooth.

"You gentlemen ever heard of King Solomon?" asked the captain. They had.

"Well, now, Cole," said the captain, "show me where this tooth fits."

No Place for a Gold Tooth.

Cole ran an appraising finger over a perfect set of the whitest teeth in Joliet. There wasn't any place for it in his mouth at the moment, he reported sorrowfully. But it was a gorgeous tooth. He could make a place, he ventured hopefully. Indeed he had that very thing in mind when he bought it.

"Dunham, where would you put it?" asked the captain.

"Right here," said Dunham, pointing to a void where there once had been a molar. Well, sir, it was a perfect fit.

Capt. Boe handed the tooth, two $1 bills, 13 Indian head pennies and a Canadian cent to Dunham. He sent Cole off to the lockup. And he said: "Mmmm."

Painters Blown Through House; Go Get First Aid

Salem, Ill., Dec. 30. — (AP) — Two painters were blown through the side of a house by an explosion today—but they were able to go home for first aid. The men, Charles Hoover and Neil Wheeler, were decorating the interior of a newly constructed home at nearby Selmaville when the explosion occurred.

French Finery Smuggled In, She Confesses

New York, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Across the street from the county courthouse on Foley square, where State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer presides, Mrs. Elma Lauer, his wife, walked into federal court this afternoon and pleaded guilty to a smuggling-conspiracy charge. She faces a maximum sentence of eight years in prison and a fine of $25,000.

The plea came as a surprise. Two weeks ago Mrs. Lauer, accompanied by a nurse, a physician, and two attorneys, had entered the same courtroom and pleaded not guilty to the charge that she tried to cheat the government out of duty on clothing she bought in France.

Doctor and Nurse with Her.

A physician, a nurse, and one attorney, Theodore Kiendl, appeared with her today. They took seats at a table reserved for attorneys. Federal Judge John C. Knox sat behind the bench. The government was represented by John L. Delaney, assistant United States attorney.

"Your honor," said Delaney, "I understand that the defendant wishes to change her plea of not guilty to guilty. Her trial was scheduled to begin Tuesday. The government was informed only today of the change in plea."

Mrs. Lauer, who, according to her husband, is "a very sick woman," was assisted to the court clerk's desk by her physician. Her face was half buried in the collar of a beaver coat, and the brim of her hat was tilted down.

Gets Cue from Lawyer.

"Do you want to plead guilty?" the clerk asked.

Mrs. Lauer glanced at her lawyer. "You say, 'I do,'" said Kiendl.

"I do," said Mrs. Lauer.

Judge Knox continued Mrs. Lauer's $1,000 bail and postponed sentence until after the trial of Albert N. Chaperau, a co-defendant who has insisted he is innocent. His trial is scheduled to start Tuesday.

Mrs. Lauer got into difficulty with customs agents eighteen months ago when she returned from a trip to France and failed to declare some wearing apparel she brought in with her. Justice Lauer straightened out that matter by paying the government $10,400 in duties and penalties.

Clothing Seized in Raid.

Last Oct. 26 customs agents raided the Lauer apartment at 570 Park avenue and confiscated seventeen or more articles of wearing apparel. They charged that Mrs. Lauer had purchased the clothing in France and had turned it over to Chaperau, a motion picture agent, who represented himself as a commercial attaché of the Nicaraguan consul general.

The government charged that Chaperau brought the clothing into the United States on Oct. 8, his baggage being passed under diplomatic courtesy without customs examination.

Before a federal grand jury began an inquiry Justice Lauer said that a mistake had been made and that an

U. S. DEFICIT 4 BILLION IN 1939; 10 YEARS IN RED

Congress Will Sift New Deal Waste.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Public spending will be one of the most important issues before the 76th congress. There may be more controversial questions, such as President Roosevelt's stupendous armaments program and the bi-partisan movement to take the relief administration out of politics, but they are closely related to spending.

When Mr. Roosevelt transmits the budget for the 1940 fiscal year to congress next week the tenth successive year of deficits will be in prospect. The deficit for the 1940 fiscal year, beginning next July 1, will be added to an aggregate deficit of approximately 24 billion dollars for the fiscal years 1931 to 1939, inclusive.

The current fiscal year will end next June 30 with a deficit estimated at 4 billion dollars and the national debt will be close to 41 billion dollars. This is exclusive of some 6 billion dollars of contingent liabilities represented by government guaranteed bonds, debentures, and notes sold to the public by government corporations.

Will Set All Records.

Federal expenditures for the current fiscal year are estimated officially at 8 billion 985 million dollars, greater than the record expenditures of 8 billion 666 million dollars for 1936, and 8 billion 442 million dollars for 1937, the fiscal years in which the 2 billion 237 million dollar soldiers' bonus was paid. Actually, expenditures for the current fiscal year will be considerably higher than 9 billion dollars, for the administration will request a deficiency relief appropriation of probably $750,000,000 immediately after congress convenes. This is to run the WPA from Feb. 7 to June 30.

Reliable reports are that the budget for 1940 will begin at not less than 8 billion dollars and be increased by at least another billion before congress adjourns. The administration, it is understood, will attempt to hold the WPA down to 1 billion 500 million dollars for the 1940 fiscal year, as compared with 2 billion 200 million dollars in prospect for the current fiscal year.

Garner Calls for Curtailment.

The reduction in relief expenditures, however, will be small compared with the proposed outlays for armaments. The President's national defense program is expected to call for the spending of at least 2 billion dollars in the first fiscal year.

Not only the Republicans, with their greatly increased numerical strength, but influential Democrats led by Vice President John N. Garner, are demanding a curtailment of the New Deal's spending orgy. Senator James F. Byrnes, [D., S. C.], who was the President's senate spokesman on the 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief appropriation bill in 1935, served notice in a recent speech before the New York Southern society that waste and politics in relief must be eliminated and that congress must resume control over its appropriations. This would mean the end of blank check appropriations.

Harrison Demands Cuts.

Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the powerful finance committee and another administration stalwart of earlier days, has been making speeches about the country demanding a start toward reducing not only the cost of government but the tax load.

The revolt against reckless spending may make substantial progress during the next session toward eliminating politics and waste from relief and designating the purpose for which funds appropriated by congress may be spent. Informed congressional opinion, however, is that no appreciable reductions in the total annual outlays will be accomplished until a new congress is elected in 1940.

Eccles Clamors for Spending.

The administration's spending advocates, led by Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board, are clamoring again for continued and more spending. Last winter they had their way with President Roosevelt after a controversy with the mildly hesitant Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury, over the proposition of spending the country out of the Roosevelt depression.

It is Eccles' contention that "a cessation" of government spending in 1937 produced a deflationary condition that brought on the Roosevelt depression. Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] says the Eccles theory is ridiculous, since there was no cessation of government spending. He cites the treasury figures to show that expenditures for the fiscal year 1938, which included the last half of last year and the first half of this year and spanned the worst of the Roosevelt depression, totaled 7 billion 626 million dollars. This exceeded by 616 million dollars the expenditures during the more prosperous fiscal year 1935, and excluding the bonus payments, was greater than the total expenditures for either the 1936 or 1937 fiscal years.

According to the Eccles theory, however, it is not the government's actual expenditures but "net contribution to purchasing power" that brings prosperity. He described this net contribution as the amount the government spends over and above the amount it collects in revenue.

Replies to Senator Byrd.

"On this basis," said Mr. Eccles in a letter to Senator Byrd last Sunday, "the government not only drastically withdrew its stimulus to consumption in 1937, but contrary to your apparent belief, actually had a balanced budget and a cash surplus of about $100,000,000 from the period from June 30, 1937, to March 30, 1938."

Mr. Eccles referred to the first nine months of the fiscal year 1938. The deficit for the whole year was 1 billion 384 million dollars. Under his theory, presumably, the budget never could be safely balanced, no matter how prosperous the country might become. The greater the prosperity, the higher would be the national income and consequently the higher the government's take in taxes. And the more taxes the government collected, the more it would have to spend to maintain a "net contribution to community buying power."

This is the sort of thing the congressional economy advocates will have to contend with.

Whether the administration will seek new general tax legislation at the next session has not been revealed and probably will not be known until after the first quarterly income tax payments are made, next March 15. It is believed, however, that congress will be asked to levy processing taxes aggregating about $200,000,000 a year to help finance the farm subsidies under the AAA. An appropriation of $750,000,000 is to be sought for next year's farm bounties.

Punitive Tax Faces Repeal.

If any revenue bill is submitted, it is believed certain that congress will repeal the last vestige of the administration's punitive undistributed profits tax. The 1938 tax law reduced the tax on undistributed corporate profits to a maximum of 2½ per cent and the whole corporate tax section expires by limitation at the end of the calendar year 1939. Income tax payments for the calendar year 1939, however, are not due until March, 15, 1940, so that congress could wait until the 1940 session to draft a new law.

Besides spending, relief and armaments, the issues before the new congress include modification of the National Labor Relations act; extension and liberalization of the social security system. President Roosevelt's government reorganization [dictator] bill; railroad relief legislation; modification of the administration's farm dictatorship law; neutrality legislation and probably the administration's so-called war mobilization bill, which would make the President an absolute dictator in time of war.

GOV. EARLE VISITS WHITE HOUSE TO ASK U. S. SPENDING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—The march of the lame ducks to the White House continued today as Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, Democrat, who was defeated in the last election, came and gave his opinions on government spending and relief.

Aware that President Roosevelt was taking care of his lame duck friends, Earle agreed in full with Mr. Roosevelt's policy of spending toward prosperity. He knew that another defeated Democratic governor and close friend of the President, Frank Murphy of Michigan, is slated for appointment as attorney general.

Earle, who was accompanied by Mrs. Earle, urged the President to continue government spending on even a greater scale "to prevent economic collapse." The governor is now under investigation in his own state on charges of too lavish spending in his administration, with graft charges leveled at him and subordinates.

NEW DEAL TAXES STIFLE BUSINESS, AL SMITH'S VIEW

New York, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—The excessive taxation levied against industry by the national administration is the essential factor retarding the return of true prosperity in this country, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith declared today.

He was interviewed at his offices on the thirty-second floor of the Empire State building in honor of his 65th birthday. The former governor held that unless governmental coöperation was given to business and the "uncertainty of the future" lifted, industry of necessity would have to curtail its program, thus hindering the reëmployment of the nation's unemployed.

"Taxation is the one thing that is holding everything back," he contended. "Business men are not going to venture into anything new until they know just exactly where they are at —where they stand."

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday gave the Chicago Relief administration $2,642,419 to meet relief needs during January. Leo M. Lyons, CRA head, estimated that 101,340 cases will be on the CRA rolls during the month. He has $600,000 in gasoline tax funds to supplement the state grant.

TANGLED LOVES BARED AS 3 DIE OF AUTO FUMES

Bodies Found in Car; Two Notes Add Mystery.

Police delved into a tangled love triangle last night in an effort to solve the strange deaths of two young women and a man. They were found asphyxiated by motor exhaust fumes in an automobile at 104th street and McCarthy road, in Palos township.

The three were Fred Miller, 35 years old, who lived with his wife at 741 North Wolcott avenue; Mrs. Hazel Lefler, 33, of 866 Irving Park road, a divorcée, and Miss Lorraine McNichols, 19, of 7542 Parnell avenue.

Inquest to Be Held Today.

After a day of investigating a possible triple suicide pact, or a double murder and suicide, police admitted they had little but theory to work on. They hope to obtain material clews at the inquest, which is to be held today at 2443 Burr Oak avenue, Blue Island. Relatives of the victims, including Miller's widow, Theresa, are expected to testify.

The bodies of Miller, Mrs. Lefler, and Miss McNichols were found slumped in his new car. Carbon monoxide fumes were being pumped into the interior of the car through a rubber hose attached to the exhaust. A revolver was found on the road outside the car. It was identified as Miller's. He worked as a messenger for an armored car service. Police surmised Miller might have intended to shoot himself at first, and had changed his mind to die by fumes.

Notes Add to Mystery.

Two notes added to the mystery. One, dated Dec. 26, written by Miss McNichols, but not addressed to any one, spoke of her love. One sentence read: "Merry Christmas to the best friend and pal I ever had and ever want to have. In other words I love you [and I am not ashamed of it, nor ever will be"]. The other note, dated Dec. 29, written by Miller and addressed to Miss McNichols, described his love for Mrs. Lefler, asked Miss McNichols' forgiveness, and asked her prayers for "both of us."

This note indicated, police said, that Miller intended to kill Mrs. Lefler and himself. How Miss McNichols happened to be with the two puzzled police. It is known that the three left the Terminal cafe, 541 Madison street, together Thursday night. Mrs. Lefler worked there.

Miller's widow told police she knew of her husband's romance with Mrs. Lefler. He had promised to end it, she said. Mrs. Lefler's mother, Mrs. Virginia Mills, also knew of the love affair, but thought Miller was unmarried. Miss McNichols' family said she was a close friend of Mrs. Lefler.

ROBBER FLEEING WITH RING SHOT BY JEWEL CLERK

A holdup man was shot and seriously wounded last night by a clerk in the jewelry store he tried to rob. At the Bridewell hospital he gave his name as Victor Stewart, 33 years old, 6540 Ellis avenue.

Edward Gildea.

Stewart entered the Loftis Jewelry company store at 838 East 63d street and told the clerk, Edward Gildea, of 1025 East 80th street, that he wanted to buy a diamond ring. Unsuspecting, Gildea showed him a $350 ring which Stewart tried on. With the ring still on his finger, Stewart examined a $60 wrist watch. Then he put his right hand in his coat pocket, as if he had a gun, and told Gildea it was a stickup.

The bandit ran out the door and turned west in 63d street. Gildea grabbed a revolver from beneath the counter and chased him. As Stewart ran up the steps of the elevated station half a block away Gildea fired and brought down the robber with a bullet through the right lung.

Ax Squads Wreck 5 More Books on Far North Side

State's Attorney Courtney's ax raiders devoted their activities yesterday to the far north side. They raided and chopped up five alleged handbooks at 5024 Sheridan road, 5063 Broadway, 5100 Broadway, 948 Eastwood avenue, and 939 Wilson avenue. This brings the total ax raids up to 761 since the prosecutor started his campaign last August.

50 TO BE CALLED DAILY IN POLICE JOB SALE INQUIRY

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, said yesterday fifty men will be questioned daily at the state's attorney's office in the investigation of alleged sucker payments for preferential places on the police eligibility list.

Those questioned, he said, will include some of the 3,251 whose names appeared far down on the list and a cross section of the several thousand who failed to pass the civil service tests.

The inquiry, begun several weeks ago, was expanded at the direction of State's Attorney Courtney. Assistant State's Attorney Thomas J. Bugan and Gus Bartels, who have been investigating sales tax frauds, will aid Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan in questioning the men.

Seven persons, including Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th], have been indicted in connection with the investigation.

PHYSICIAN FINDS POTTER BOY IS OUT OF DANGER

Raymond Potter, 14 years old, yesterday appeared to have made a remarkable recovery from an active staphylococcus infection of the meninges, or brain envelope. The disease usual is fatal. He still is ill, the infection having localized in the bones, but he is definitly out of danger, said his physician, Dr. Luther M. Lorance.

Tests of blood taken from the boy continued to show that the dread staphylococcus bacteria no longer are in his bloodstream. During the day an abscess that had formed in the ankle was drained. Relief from pain is expected to follow.

Raymond should continue progress to full recovery, said his physician. Seventeen blood transfusions were given the boy in nineteen days of his stay at the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital. His home is at 11347 Church street.

3 GUNMEN SEIZE 35,000 $1 BILLS IN EXPRESS RAID

Terrorize 20 Employes in Agency Office.

Youngstown, O., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Ohio state police tonight blockaded highways in a search for three gunmen who robbed the Youngstown office of the American Railway Express agency of $35,000 in one dollar bills.

The bandits, who were armed with sawed off shotguns, escaped this morning after forcing a motorist from his automobile and fleeing in it when their getaway car crashed into a bridge near the express agency.

Police expressed belief that the loot—a bundle of currency weighing more than 65 pounds—would be of assistance in tracing the bandits, because it made a somewhat bulky package. Authorities also said that while it would be easy to pass the 35,000 bills one at a time, attention would be attracted to the gunmen if they tried to dispose of them in large numbers.

Raid Carefully Planned.

The holdup apparently was planned by persons familiar with the agency's daily routine, as it was committed while the day guards were relieving the night shift. G. W. Stover, an agency officer, said that the night guards had just taken off their revolvers and the day men had not yet strapped on theirs.

The gunmen terrorized twenty workers during the raid. One herded the office employés into a warehouse at the rear of the agency while another stood guard over the warehouse workers. The first gunman then went to the loading platform and marched several truck drivers into the warehouse.

The two kept the workers from sounding an alarm while the third bandit went to the money room in the main office and seized the package of currency from H. T. Harris before he could draw his gun.

Radio Aids Search.

When the gunmen wrecked their car on the bridge they leaped out, stopped the first motorist, forced him from his automobile, and sped away in it. The motorist, Joe Carsso, said there was only a few gallons of gasoline in his car. State police placed a highway blockade into operation by radio.

The $35,000 was a consignment which was being shipped to the Federal Reserve bank in Cleveland by a Youngstown bank. The express agency is on the edge of the Youngstown business district.

OPPOSES PAROLE OF ANY FELONS BETWEEN 19-24

Ex-convicts between the ages of 19 and 24 have the worst criminal records. As a general rule they should not be paroled. Wayne L. Morse, dean of the Oregon university law school, so declared yesterday at the closing session of the annual meeting of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association in the Morrison hotel.

Prof. Morse was the administrative director of Attorney General Cummings' recent survey of prison release procedures.

"Every prisoner should be paroled at some time as a method of adjusting him to society again," he said. "But the records show that the young criminal is the most vicious and as a general rule should not be paroled. Too much sentiment is wasted by judges and the public on the young law violator."

Records gathered by the attorney general's survey committee, the speaker continued, showed that ex-convicts older than 35 had the best parole records.

PLANES TO TRY TAKING ON MAIL WHILE ON FLY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Airmail planes of the future will pick up mail on the fly, if the postoffice department succeeds in a nonstop experiment it will undertake next spring.

The principle is somewhat like that used by trains in picking up mail bags with a hook at small stations. At each of 55 towns in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia a pair of tall masts will be erected—these masts connected by lines permitting an airplane to lower a grappling hook and haul in the mail without stopping.

Another device to be tested is designed to permit lowering of bundles while in flight.

bonds went into default in July of 1937.

Bonds Rise Rapidly.

Today's indictment is built around the unusual activity of Philippine railway bonds on the stock exchange last February. On reports from the islands that the commonwealth government was planning to redeem the bonds, they rose from 11 points to a high of 30.

An official denial from President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines punctured the balloon with the resulting heavy loss to the public.

Buckner, who is 31 years old and a nephew of Thomas A. Buckner, chairman of the board of the New York Life Insurance company, had formed a bondholders' protective committee and made himself chairman. Gillespie was vice chairman. Thereafter, according to the indictment, the defendants solicited funds from all holders of ten or more of the bonds on a basis of $10 for each $1,000 held.

Estimate $50,000 Collected.

These advances were secured by notes of the committee, but investigators thus far have been unable to determine just how much money the committee received. More than $50,000 is a conservative estimate.

According to the letters of solicitation sent out by the defendants, the funds were to be used "to meet necessary expenses which are currently occurring, such as printing, legal fees, and committee expenses."

The indictment charges, instead, that after the funds were received the defendants "converted them to their own use and benefit and spent and dissipated them for personal living expenses while otherwise engaged than in the representation of and the protection of the interests of the bondholders."

The list of victims, contributors to the committee fund, included individuals, corporations, trust estates, savings banks and other financial institutions.

MOTHER MAKES BOGUS MONEY; SON PASSES IT

Jailed with Ex-Convict in Counterfeit Racket.

Six months ago Franklin Greenfield was freed from the Leavenworth penitentiary. He had spent thirteen months there for counterfeiting half dollars. When he got out he hadn't forgotten how to make them, but he was wary.

In Dewey, Okla., last August Greenfield met a pair of hitch-hikers, Mrs. Florence Foster and her son, Jackie, 12 years old. Mrs. Foster was a friendly brunette of 35, the same age as Greenfield. They decided to travel together.

They went to Omaha, Neb., Council Bluffs, Ia., and Fort Wayne, Ind. Then they came to Chicago and took a room in a hotel at 506 North Clark street.

Makes Lots of Purchases.

In all these cities it might have been observed that Jackie did most of the buying for his mother. He would run into a candy store and buy a chocolate bar and come back with 45 cents change. Or he would get a nickel apple in a fruit store. Mother always waited outside for the change.

It was always 45 cents because Jackie made his nickel purchases with half dollars. Merchants later found they were made of lead.

In Chicago Jackie also did a lot of shopping. But he and his mother visited a neighborhood once too often and on Dec. 21 were arrested by the Hudson avenue police. Greenfield was picked up at the hotel.

Woman Shoulders Blame.

Mrs. Foster tried to shoulder all the blame yesterday when they were arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker. She denied Greenfield had taught her how to make the half dollars.

"I learned it from a fellow named 'Chisam' I met out in Nebraska," she said in response to a question by A. Bradley Eben, assistant United States district attorney. She said she made the coins at the hotel, destroying the molds after each batch was turned out. No coining equipment was found in the room by federal agents. Greenfield declared he had often urged her to stop making them.

Both were held to the grand jury in $1,500 bond and locked up in the county jail. Jackie is in the juvenile home. Eben said efforts will be made to place him in a private family, where they buy their chocolate bars and apples with nickels from the mint.

IN PRISON 10 YRS.; FLEES; NOW HE IS FOUND INNOCENT

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 30.—(AP)—The science of ballistics, unknown in 1919 when Alex Ripan was convicted of murder, exonerated the escaped prison inmate and he will be freed.

Ripan, now 48 years old, was convicted of murdering a neighboring farmer, and was sentenced to life in the southern Michigan prison. Ten years later he escaped, fled to East Chicago, Ind., and opened a shoe repair shop. Recently he was recognized and returned to the prison, but friends who said he had been a good citizen succeeded in having the case reopened.

Ballistics experts examining the fatal .32-caliber bullet reported that it could not have been fired by a gun belonging to Ripan. Circuit Judge James E. O'Neill today ordered a new trial and then granted a petition to nol pros the case. Ripan will be freed next week.

effort to embarrass him and his wife was being made by a disgruntled employé. In an indictment voted Dec. 5, however, Mrs. Lauer and Chaperau were accused of smuggling clothing valued at $1,833 into the New York port.

Chaperau Indicted Second Time.

After Mrs. Lauer's original plea of not guilty the same grand jury indicted Chaperau again, charging that he had smuggled jewelry into the United States for George Burns, a radio and screen comedian, who teams with his wife, Gracie Allen.

The indictment was voted Dec. 12 and Burns appeared in court that day and entered a plea of guilty. The jury, before which several motion picture actors and actresses have been questioned, is continuing its investigation.

Before her marriage to Justice Lauer in October, 1932, Mrs. Lauer was the former Mrs. Elma M. Kramer, widow of Albert M. Kramer of New York and Paris. She is said to possess independent wealth.

LOG OF COSTER'S YACHT SEIZED IN SWINDLE INQUIRY

New York, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—The log book and guest record of the yacht Carolita, owned by Philip Musica in his rôle as F. Donald Coster, president of McKesson & Robbins, have been seized by federal officials.

Members of Acting United States Attorney Gregory J. Noonan's staff have been assigned to study the records, both to trace the operations of the yacht and to see just who accepted the hospitality of Coster before his unmasking as a convicted swindler led him to kill himself.

It has been reported that persons high in political and financial life were used by Coster in his scheme to build up McKesson & Robbins, with its $18,000,000 shortage in assets.

It also is possible that some conferences concerning alcohol diversion and arms smuggling may have taken place on the craft.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY IN G. O. P. SPEAKER BATTLE

Schnackenberg and Cross Each Confident.

BY PERCY WOOD.

The two Republican state representatives who are fighting for the speakership of the Illinois house traded victory predictions yesterday. Each claimed he would carry the caucus next Tuesday night in Springfield.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago issued the first statement. He invited his downstate opponent, Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville, to withdraw in the interest of party unity.

Cross replied by saying he had more than 50 votes pledged and had no intention of withdrawing. The 50 vote figure is claimed by both men. Forty votes will decide the issue.

Questions Party Harmony.

"Inasmuch as a clear majority of the Republican caucus has pledged support to me as the Republican candidate for speaker of the house," Schnackenberg's statement said, "many of my supporters are inquiring as to how party harmony can best be preserved.

"Representative Cross, who has made a valiant fight for the caucus indorsement for speaker, should by this time realize what the probable outcome will be.

"The margin by which the Republicans will control the house is precariously narrow. A contest in the caucus, under present conditions, will serve only as a threat to party harmony.

"Mr. Cross' withdrawal as a candidate would be looked upon not only as an expedient move but as an honorable contribution to party unity. There is important work for all of us to do together in the 1939 session."

Refuses to Withdraw.

Representative Cross heard in Springfield of the Schnackenberg invitation to leave the fight and immediately issued an answer.

"I fully realize," the statement read, "that the probable outcome of the Republican caucus is that I will be chosen. For this reason it is obvious that I will not withdraw."

Cross was indorsed last night by five Chicago representatives and by Representative Edward P. Saltiel who announced his candidacy several weeks ago. Presumably these five had been pledged to Saltiel, who said he was withdrawing in favor of Cross.

Besides Saltiel, those signing a letter to the seventy-nine Republicans elected to the house are: William S. Finucane, Michael A. Ruddy, John A. Pelka, Arnold L. Lund, and Elroy C. Sandquist. Part of their letter read:

"As residents of Cook county we believe that in selecting the next speaker of the house, the state must be considered as a unit. We believe that Hugh Cross is qualified and accordingly are pleased to join his many downstate friends in indorsing his candidacy for speaker."

Informed of the letter, Schnackenberg said that he had never claimed nor had expected the votes of the six. His fifty votes, he said, were exclusive of them.

Horner Leaders Meet.

Democratic leaders also discussed organization of the legislature here yesterday. Acting Governor John Stelle, who is functioning as head of the state government during the illness of Gov. Horner, met with Horner leaders and talked of house and senate leadership and the party's plans for the opening of the session on Wednesday.

Meeting with Stelle were James M. Slattery, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, and Charles K. Schwartz of the tax commission.

Phone Girl Routs Bandits; 2 Bound Employes Freed

Miss Agnes Gerns, switchboard operator, foiled an attempted robbery of the Joseph Triner corporation, 1333 South Ashland avenue, wholesale liquor dealers, yesterday. Unable to get a response in calling the shipping room, Miss Gerns went there. At the door she saw two employés lying face down on the floor. Two armed and masked men were standing over them. Miss Gerns screamed and fled. The robbers ran to their parked automobile and sped away.

Young Democrats Start Button Drive for Kelly

Distribution of 10,000 buttons reading, "Young People Want Kelly" will be started today. This was decided last night at a meeting in the Morrison hotel of ward leaders of the Young Democrats of Cook county. The organization recently urged Mayor Kelly to run for renomination. Also to aid Kelly, they will hold a Jackson day dance Jan. 7 in the hotel in connection with a new membership drive.

HINKY DINK FILES FOR COUNCIL SEAT OF JOHN THE BATH

Again in Aldermanic Politics at Age 80.

Michael [Hinky Dink] Kenna stepped back into aldermanic politics yesterday when he filed for the 1st ward seat left vacant by the death on Nov. 11 of his old partner, Ald. John J. [Bathhouse] Coughlin.

Michael Kenna.

At the age of 80 years The Hink or The Little Fellow, as he is also called, will run for the council seat he held from 1897 to 1925.

During those twenty-eight years each ward elected two aldermen. Coughlin and Kenna jointly represented the 1st. In 1925, when representation was cut in half, Kenna stepped out and Coughlin remained. The latter had been a member for forty-six consecutive years at his death.

Files Own Petition.

Kenna, now white haired but ruddy faced and erect, presented his petition in person at the office of the election commissioners, getting in with the early candidates on the first day of filing. Some politicians had thought he would pick a younger man from his tight little organization that has ruled the 1st ward for almost half a century.

The petition was The Hink's answer to that. He is also expected to seek reëlection as Democratic ward committeeman, a post he has held for many years.

Several incumbent aldermen were early in the filing line. One of them, William J. Cowhey [41st] was accompanied by a delegation of northwest side business men and by his father — Division Marshal James E. Cowhey of the fire department.

Also in the Cowhey delegation was Lawrence J. Fenlon, past Cook county commander of the American Legion.

Ald. Thomas J. Daley [7th], Ald. Mathias Bauler [43d], Ald. James F. Kovarik [15th], and Ald. Edward J. Upton [30th] presented their petitions. Most of the other sitting councilmen are expected to follow suit.

Girl, 22, Seeks Seat.

The first woman to file was Eileen M. McCarthy, 6840 South Elizabeth street, who seeks to represent the 18th ward. She is only 22 years old.

Miss McCarthy, who works as a stenographer for a factory, is opposing Ald. Harry E. Perry.

"I have decided to enter politics by starting at the bottom," she said. "I'm sure I can handle an aldermanic position because I took a course in government at Rosary college, from which I graduated last June. I also took a course in political science."

The first candidate to present his petition was Robert J. Palese, 1107 Huron street, a candidate in the 26th ward. The second was Alexander J. Ciok, 2513 South Halsted street, in the 11th ward.

A candidacy against Kenna was filed by Thomas Michael Keyer, 120 East Cermak road, in the 1st ward. William F. Becker, 2157 West Fletcher street, filed from the 46th ward. John S. Ignaszak, 5416 South Carpenter street, filed from the 14th ward.

Newfoundland's Dole List Up 11,000 to 45,000 in '38

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Dec. 30.—Newfoundland's dole recipients increased 11,000 in 1938 to a total of 45,000, it was announced today. The dole is 7 cents a day for each person. The country's population is 285,000.

DEMOCRATS WAIT HORNER VIEWS ON MAYORAL FIGHT

Both Kelly and Courtney Forces Seek Support.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

What position Gov. Horner will take on the mayoralty, following State's Attorney Courtney's entry as a contender against Mayor Kelly, puzzled Democratic workers yesterday.

In a radio address Thursday night Courtney announced himself as a candidate in the Democratic primaries Feb. 28. He assailed the Democratic city organization and Mayor Kelly. The politicians yesterday were looking for plenty of fur to fly in the campaign. One week before, Mayor Kelly, in announcing his candidacy, said he hoped for a dignified campaign, but if his adversaries defamed Chicago he would carry the fight to them. So it appears Chicago is set for another sprightly political show.

Horner Ill in Florida.

Gov. Horner is recuperating in Florida. Whether he will stay out of the fight or support one of the contenders filled the gossip yesterday. Democratic leaders believe the governor will be unable to take an active part in the primary campaign because of his convalescence. Some believe he will let his Chicago lieutenants follow their own judgment in deciding whether to line up with the mayor or the state's attorney. Politicians said there is plenty of time for that to be worked out.

Mayor Kelly is in Florida and is reported to have called upon Gov. Horner. The results of their conversations have not been disclosed to the Chicago politicians.

Kelly managers claim the support of 43 of the 50 Democratic ward committeemen. Courtney said the seven who stayed out will stand with him.

Seven Withhold Support.

The committeemen who held aloof from Kelly indorsement are Horace G. Lindheimer [5th], ex-county treasurer; Michael J. Flynn [13th], county clerk; Peter J. Brady [18th], city clerk; John J. Touhy [27th], drainage trustee; Martin J. O'Brien [29th], Clayton F. Smith [33d], president of the county board, and Joseph H. Donahue [47th].

Kelly managers yesterday said the situation was not materially changed. Some of the committeemen who held away from Kelly were out of town. Some of them were said to have reached no decision. Others were deemed to be waiting to learn Gov. Horner's views.

First day for filing petitions is next Wednesday. Slates for city clerk and treasurer were talked of, but a day or two after New Year's will suffice to do the picking.

TOWN REFUSES TO PAY TAX FOR FLOOD CONTROL

Newcomerstown, O., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Mayor Charles E. Mugford toasted his shins on the town hall stove today and announced that Newcomerstown folk aren't going to pay "a damned cent' on an $881,000 flood protection bill.

Property owners declare that the levy would bankrupt them. The state attorney general ordered the county treasurer not to accept taxes without the flood levy, and citizens have decided to pay no taxes at all until the levy is removed.

"The government can come and take over the town—lock, stock, and barrel—but it won't collect a damned cent on this flood bill," said Mayor Mugford. "Think of it—more than $7,000 levied against the First Methodist church, which can't even pay its parson. And yet we've never had a flood here that cost $10,000."

EIGHT COURSE DINNER THROWN AT G-WOMAN, SO SHE GETS DIVORCE

G-Woman Irene Meltreger cooked an eight course dinner as a surprise for her husband on Nov. 15. But he didn't like it. He threw it at her, course by course, she told Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday, starting with the shrimps, the soup, and the soufflé. The judge gave her a divorce from Edward Meltreger, chief claim investigator for a cab company. She received in addition $5,000.

Irene Meltreger.

Mrs. Meltreger is 35 years old. She lives at 4316 North Keystone avenue. As an undercover investigator for the government, she is credited with helping to trap the late Gus Winkler, gangster, when he was negotiating for the disposal of loot taken in a $3,000,000 bank robbery. She recently resigned from the narcotics division of the internal revenue department.

YOUNG HUSBAND SLAIN; ACCUSE FATHER-IN-LAW

Midland, Tex., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Col. John Perkins, well known west Texas attorney and army reserve officer, today was charged with slaying his son-in-law, Donald D. Traynor, 28 years old, University of Illinois graduate and former resident of Centralia, Ill. Col. Perkins was released under $5,000 bond.

Donald D. Traynor. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Traynor was shot five times last night as he stood on the back steps of the Perkins home quarreling with his father-in-law, who refused to let him enter. The young man had made three visits to the home during the evening in an effort to see his estranged wife and his daughter, 10 months old.

After graduating from the University of Illinois in 1931 and then obtaining a law degree at the University of Texas, Traynor came here in 1936 and joined Col. Perkins' law office. A romance and marriage with Perkins' daughter followed, but they recently became estranged and Traynor resigned from the law firm Dec. 1. He spent the past month with his parents in Dallas, returning here Tuesday.

SUES FOR $370 HE SPENT TO SQUIRE A WOMAN AROUND

New York, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Robert Grimes of the Hotel Marguery was sued in Municipal court today by Capt. P. T. Lindner, who asserts he spent $370.40 squiring her about town and he wants his money back.

Capt. Lindner said that for more than forty days he was with Mrs. Grimes. He lists flowers, tips, taxicab fares, a dinner, a luncheon, the expense of moving from one hotel to another, and even the price of rehabilitating his wardrobe as items for which he wants Mrs. Grimes to pay.

The expenditures were undertaken, Capt. Lindner declares, at the instance of Mrs. Grimes.

GREEN RENEWS PLEDGE TO HELP YOUTH OF CITY

Keeps Pace with Mayoral Fight by Telephone.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Dwight H. Green yesterday kept pace by long distance telephone with developments in his campaign for the Republican mayoral nomination. The former United States district attorney is presiding as supreme justice of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity in national convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Green reiterated that when he starts his active drive next week he will tackle the problems of Chicago's youth and of the outlying districts. He talked with his campaign manager, Ferre C. Watkins.

Pledges Help for Youth.

"Chicago's future demands the development of outlying areas and the provision of more opportunity for our youth," Green said.

"There is a real need here for new and more vigorous leadership, especially for those who will be our citizens of tomorrow. Chicago can become even greater—not by complete changes overnight, but by steadily fostering two relatively neglected assets: youth and the outlying neighborhoods."

Green, who is 41 years old, has long been a quiet worker in many boys' movements. He believes that all boys are essentially of good character and that they are quick to respond to leaders they respect.

Leads Flying Cadets.

A world war aviator, Green recently was selected by flying cadets of the Morgan Park Military academy as their honorary leader on an air tour of cities in behalf of a national Crime Prevention week.

Watkins said that the public is continuing to sign nomination petitions for Green at the rate of 10,000 a day. In the La Salle hotel headquarters, which were opened this week, there are about 60,000 signatures. At least 300,000 is the goal.

Watkins has made a record of the comments of some of the petition signers. He quoted:

B. H. Emmons, stationary fireman, 6420 South Hermitage avenue:

"Green is a new type of candidate for Chicago. He is absolutely clean, young, and vigorous. I like his progressive attitude."

A Housewife's Opinion.

Mrs. Anna Good, housewife, of 6035 South Green street:

"Dwight Green is a candidate of whom the women of Chicago can be proud. Every statement he has made shows that he wants to serve the city, not dominate it. He will make Chicago safe for our children."

Charles W. O'Connor, insurance man, 1336 West 64th street:

"Business men want a leader who will give them an honest, sincere progressive city administration. Dwight H. Green's record shows he is such a man."

AFRAID TO LIVE, GIRL KILLS SELF UNDER A TRAIN

Leaves Note Telling of Her Fears.

Miss Princess Trowbridge, 21 years old, daughter of a Baptist minister, couldn't face life. So she confessed in a brief note last night. Then she walked to the Rock Island railroad right of way at 112th street and Hale avenue, and threw herself on the tracks.

A few minutes later Engineer Thomas O'Neil, 8740 South Sangamon street, pilot of a north bound suburban train, saw the girl lying on the rails. He jammed on the brakes. "I could not stop in time," was all he could tell police later.

Note Pinned to Dress.

Policemen Ray Kelliher and John Clifford of the Morgan Park station took Miss Trowbridge's body to a neighborhood undertaker. There they found the note pinned to her dress. In two paragraphs, it revealed Miss Trowbridge's fear of the world. The note read:

"Dear Mother:

"Do not make yourself too unhappy over this. Think that I am happier this way. I was not made for this world. I am afraid of people and all competition. This is a callous thing to do, but though I do not have the courage to face life, I will have the courage to face death.

"You have done much for me, but I think I always will be a disappointment to you. I cannot go through another year of hating myself. Please believe me that no one is responsible for my action. It is all in my own mind. I have tried to take a different viewpoint of life, but I seemed to have been an introvert. O, it's terrible to torture yourself with deprecation. I am not able to get away from myself. I hope that people will understand, PENNY."

Leaves in Cheerful Mood.

At the home of the girl's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Leonard B. Trowbridge, 2138 West 110th place, it was said that she had left home in a cheerful mood. Miss Trowbridge was a junior student at the National College of Education in Evanston. She seemed to lead a normal life, an aunt said.

The Rev. Mr. Trowbridge is an officer of the Chicago Tract society. He is a former field secretary of the Chicago Boys' club and is a member of various ministerial and church organizations. He is also the author of a book and many articles dealing with church and sociological studies.

WARN NATION'S FUTURE LIES IN JUSTICE FOR ALL

Lawyers Differ Widely Over Legal Curbs.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Speakers before the Association of American Law Schools, meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday warned that if administrative law fails to solve the economic conflicts of a complicated social structure, the alternative will be recourse to force.

Joseph C. O'Mahoney.

The speakers, however, held a wide variety of views on the manner in which governmental administration agencies can function efficiently and still respect the bill of rights. Their viewpoints varied from that of Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], who held that any discretion to rule, placed in the hands of man, will sometime be abused, to that of James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school. He flatly told his hearers they should expect administrative tribunals to be partisan.

Others Express Views.

Other views were presented by J. Warren Madden, chairman of the labor board; Chester T. Lane, general counsel of the securities and exchange commission; Elmer A. Smith, general counsel for the Illinois Central railroad; Ralph Horween, Chicago attorney, and Prof. Ray A. Brown of the University of Wisconsin law school.

The importance of efficient and impartial personnel in assuring fairness of administrative tribunals was stressed by several of the speakers.

Senator O'Mahoney's opposition to administrative law and burocratic regulation was voiced at the morning session of the association. He pleaded for his bill to impose federal licenses on corporations. Denying that that bill contemplates another burocracy, he said:

"The general feeling is that the SEC under its present personnel has done a good job. But what about the personnel a few years from now? When you lay discretion in the hands of man you must expect that discretion some time to be abused. Let us lay down the rules in law so there is no opportunity for exercise of discretion by a government board on one hand or an F. Donald Coster on the other."

Other Leaders Disagree.

The senator's voice was a lone one, however. The other speakers were in substantial agreement that the present social system presents regulatory problems too complicated to be dealt with by the simple rules of statutory law. It was the railroad lawyer, Mr. Smith, who said dictatorship is inevitable if administrative law cannot solve these problems and at the same time respect the rights of citizens.

He suggested the commerce commission as a model of fairness on which to pattern newer administrative tribunals. Only twice in its fifty-one years of existence, he said, has the Supreme court overruled the commission on the ground that it failed to give due process of law.

Defends Labor Board.

Madden, whose labor board personnel has been under repeated fire on charges of partisanship, described the machinery of procedure used by the board. He said this is designed to assure both fairness and speedy determination of issues. He attacked as unfair the attempts of lawyers in the Ford and other cases, on appeals in the courts, to investigate the internal procedure of the board to determine whether the members had read the records on which they based their orders. The size of the records, and the number of cases handled, make this impossible, he said.

In his discussion of SEC procedure, Lane stressed the effort of that commission to segregate functions of the attorneys who prosecute cases, the trial examiners who hear and recommend action, and the attorneys who draft the board's opinions. Such segregation is desirable to meet the objection against the same body acting as both prosecutor and judge, he said. He added that if carried to the extreme of giving the different functions to separate bodies it will destroy the efficiency of administrative procedure arising from the specialized knowledge of the commission's personnel.

Differs with SEC Aid.

Prof. Brown differed on that point. He said:

"The ancient precept that no man be judge in his own cause is still valid as applied to administrative tribunals. Combining the two functions means that the body either dulls its zeal as an advocate or warps its judgment as a tribunal."

This brought a vigorous retort from Dean Landis, the next speaker. He asserted that in dealing with administrative justice its critics compare it with a system of ideal justice in courts that they know does not exist. Judges, he said, also have their partisanships and prejudices, adding:

"You know very well that anybody who has had to plan a legal strategy embracing the whole country picks his judges and his courts."

It was because of the prejudices of courts, he asserted, that administrative tribunals were established by legislative bodies. It was the antagonism of the Grangers toward the courts that brought the interstate commerce commission into being a half century ago, he said.

"Partisanship is to be expected," he added. "The tribunals are there to carry out the provisions of specific legislation. A political party has the right to see that its policies are carried out in the field of administration just as they are carried out in the field of legislation."

SCIENTISTS JOIN IN WAR AGAINST DICTATORSHIPS

Unite for Fight to Keep Freedom of Mind.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Richmond, Va., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—A movement to form an American Association of Scientific workers, with the primary objectives of applying science to social problems and maintaining the freedom of science to follow the truth wherever it leads, developed here today among the younger members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, now in its closing convention sessions.

The huge parent body, with 166 affiliated societies and a million members governed by a council, has upheld the principle that science is wholly independent of national boundaries, races, and creeds, and can flourish only where there is peace and intellectual freedom.

The dangers in the world today, from economic dislocation and the disregard of scientific freedom by dictator states, have led many to think that the time has come to make this resolution effective by stepping into the political arena with a strong, national representative body to act on social and political questions.

Movement Is Spreading.

The movement started in Philadelphia and Cambridge, Mass., simultaneously, and has spread to Seattle and Washington, D. C. Other organizations are to be formed as the result of a meeting here and a national voice raised in social and international questions of the day.

As part of the program here a manifesto on the freedom of science, signed by 1,284 American scientists, including three Nobel prize winners, was distributed. This was prepared by a committee of which Prof. Frank Boas, Columbia university anthropologist and former president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, is chairman.

The committee calls on scientists to participate actively in the defense of democracy as a sole means of preserving intellectual freedom and insuring scientific progress.

It calls attention to the Nazi position to divide physicists into good—that is nontheoretical and "Aryan"—and bad—defined by the Nazis as theoretical and Jewish.

Point to Persecutions.

These ideas, it is said, have found concrete expression in the dismissal and persecution of more than 1,600 teachers and scientists [up to the fall of 1936] from universities and research institutes in Germany [and now in Italy and Austria, too] and to the restriction of higher education to students with the "proper" political and racial qualifications.

"We firmly believe that in the present historical epoch democracy alone can preserve intellectual freedom," says the manifesto. "Any attack upon freedom of thought in one sphere, even as nonpolitical a sphere as theoretical physics, is in effect an attack on democracy itself. When men like James Franck, Albert Einstein, or Thomas Mann may no longer continue their work, whether the reason is race, creed or belief, all mankind suffers the loss. If we American scientists wish to avoid a similar fate, if we wish to see the world continue to progress and prosper, we must bend our efforts to that end now."

Warns Against Dangers.

Dr. Oscar Riddle, biologist and research director of the Carnegie institution at Cold Springs Harbor, N. Y., presided at the meeting. There is danger, he said, in the gradual encroachment on the freedom of the scientific worker, and in the whole structure of society, which is attacked by governments founded on force rather than on freedom of expression and opinion.

"There is danger," he said, "that the products of science will be turned on us to destroy us. Science must ultimately take its place in government. We can no longer remain isolated. Scientists as citizens must acknowledge their share of responsibility for the things that are happening around us; take part in the application of science to a world which they have reshaped."

Harvard Professor Elected.

Prof. Walter B. Cannon of Harvard, world renowned physiologist, was elected today as the new president of the American association. He was born in Prairie du Chien, Wis., in 1871. He is chiefly noted for his discoveries in the glands of internal secretion, the effects of the emotions on bodily processes and the autonomic nervous system.

Prof. Roger Adams of the University of Illinois was chosen head of the chemistry section, and Prof. Neil E. Stevens of the University of Illinois was selected as head of the botany section.

Defends Board

Increased union membership has resulted from operation of the National Labor Relations board, J. Warren Madden, chairman of the board, said yesterday. He also claimed that better employer-employé relationships and fewer strikes have been achieved.

Madden did not mention charges that the board has favored the Congress of Industrial Organizations against the American Federation of Labor. He spoke at a luncheon of the Chicago chapter of the National Lawyers' Guild in the Hotel Sherman.

Others who addressed the meeting were Federal Judges Michael L. Igoe and William Holly, and William J. Campbell, Igoe's successor as United States district attorney for this district.

FREE SPEECH HIT BY PICKET BAN, UNIONS CONTEND

Ask Appeals Court to Review Ruling.

A court order restraining peaceful picketing, regardless of the nature of a labor dispute, is a denial of a citizen's right of free speech. The Illinois and Chicago federations of labor set forth this view yesterday in a petition asking the Illinois Appellate court for a review of a recent ruling curbing picketing.

The petition was accompanied by a brief quoting numerous court decisions in support of its contention that only illegal acts and not peaceful picketing may be enjoined. The petition was filed by Attorney Daniel D. Carmell for Victor A. Olander, secretary of the state federation, and John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago federation.

No Dispute With Workers.

The case involves an opinion handed down by the Appellate court last week. It reversed a lower court opinion denying an injunction to prevent the Hairdressers' and Cosmetologists' union, an A. F. of L. unit, from picketing a beauty shop at 5558 North avenue.

Ross W. Swing, owner of the shop, had no dispute with his workers and they were not union members.

The city and state labor leaders assert that the injunction is a serious setback for organized labor and in violation of Illinois law and constitutional rights. They contend that picketing is permissible even if there is no dispute between the employer and his workers.

Asserts Appeals Court Erred.

The brief asserts that the Appellate court erred in holding that the Illinois 1925 anti-injunction law applies only to disputes between the employer and his workers. That act, it contends, deliberately dropped the limitation requiring an employer-employé relationship before picketing is allowed.

"The purpose of the picketing in this case was to present the facts to the public, which can judge of the merits of the dispute and, by granting or withholding patronage, favor one side or the other," the brief said.

"Since the union was not requiring the employer to do anything unlawful, there was no occasion for the court to enjoin picketing."

2 PLAYWRIGHTS WIN $532,153 IN PLAGIARISM SUIT

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Edward Sheldon and Margaret Ayer Barnes, authors of the play, "Dishonored Lady," won $532,153.48 damages today in federal court for alleged infringement by the motion picture, "Letty Lynton."

The defendants were Metro-Goldwyn Pictures corporation, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing corporation, Loew's, Inc., and the Culver Export corporation.

Federal Judge Vincent L. Liebell approved the recommendation of a special master in making the award, after the United States Circuit court reversed a lower court decision dismissing the complaint.

WANTS MARRIAGE ANNULLED; CITES REASONS A AND B

Elmer Jung married Miss Anna Phelan, he told Judge Robert C. OConnell yesterday, because: [a] Her mother said she understood he was going to and she'd make it hot for him if he didn't; and [b] some one telephoned that he'd get fired and be arrested unless he proposed.

Jung, who is 28 years old, asked the judge to annul the marriage. The judge said it all sounded quite strange and that Jung, who lives at 7121 South Paulina street, must let him have time to think it over.

SPANISH LOYAL ARMY OPENS BIG COUNTERATTACK

But Rebels Report Foe in Rout South of Lerida.

HENDAYE, France, [at the Spanish frontier], Dec. 30.—(AP)—Spanish government troops launched a counterattack against the center of the insurgent lines today. The mission was to split the northern and southern wings of the offensive which Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander in chief, is aiming at Barcelona, government capital.

The counterattack developed south of Lerida in the direction of Sarroca, an important communication center three miles behind insurgent lines.

An announcement issued by Gen. Juan Hernandez Sarravia, commander of the government's Catalonian armies, said a few hours after the drive began that it was proceeding satisfactorily. Gen. Sarravia expressed confidence it would force the insurgents to withdraw and halt their push in this area.

Rebels Intensify Drives.

Insurgent reports reaching the border, however, said that the advances of Franco's southern column beyond Granadella and of the northern column against Artesa were increasing in intensity.

Insurgents reported they had broken the government's strong line of fortifications along the border of Tarragona province in the southern sector. The 5th Navarrese division under Gen. Bautista Sanchez was said to have turned the government retreat south of Granadella, which lies due south of Lerida, into a rout, capturing the villages of Pobla de Granadella and Bobera. The rebels reported capture of Granadella yesterday.

The insurgent dispatches indicated the offensive was driving along highways to Falset and Tarragona, opened up by a hard day's fighting.

Report Communications Cut.

In the north the insurgents reported they had pinned down the government's shock troops by cutting important communication lines. Insurgent dispatches said the highways were under such heavy artillery fire that government troops had lost all freedom to maneuver.

The insurgents reported they occupied Camarasa, twenty-two miles northeast of Lerida, which put them within ten miles of strategic Artesa, "gateway to Catalonia," and about seventy-five miles from the ultimate objective—the government capital of Barcelona.

At the same time a second column pushed south toward Artesa, fighting to form a junction with the Camarasa unit.

Artesa is on the Segre river and on the main Lerida-Balaguer-Puigcerda highway, from which other trunk roads penetrate nearly all of northeastern Spain.

Drive Against Italians.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT ARMY, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The government army's first major counterattack against the insurgents' eight-day-old offensive was launched today.

The counter assault was led by some of the government's toughest troops, and was directed against a sector believed to be held largely by Italian troops.

It was recalled that a similar maneuver resulted in the rout of Italian troops in the Guadalajara mountains northeast of Madrid in March, 1937.

British Detain Crew.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GIBRALTAR, Dec. 30.—The captain, officers and crew of the disabled Spanish loyalist destroyer José Luis Diez were placed under detention in military barracks at Gibraltar today, British authorities announced. They were taken off their ship when it was grounded after a battle with rebel warships outside the harbor early today.

The José Luis Diez had been here since being disabled in another battle Aug. 27, and sought today to run the gantlet of the insurgent craft lying in wait for it ever since. It was driven back, its engine room damaged, but not until it rammed and sank the rebel sloop Jupiter.

Five members of the destroyer's crew were killed in the battle and were given burial at sea today by a British destroyer. Eleven wounded were receiving treatment in Gibraltar.

Four Britons were in hospitals, one seriously wounded, as a result of the battle. Shells which fell in a village on Catalan bay near where the destroyer was grounded caused the casualties.

FOURTH TEACHER REVOLTS AGAINST UNION'S RADICALS

New York, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—The revolt of distinguished American educators against what has been termed the dominance of the "Stalinists" of the communist party in locals of the American Federation of Teachers, an American Federation of Labor union, was heightened today by a critical pronouncement from George S. Counts.

Prof. Counts, considered to be the leader of progressive education in the United States and a member of the faculty of Teachers college, Columbia university, threatened to resign from the union if it did not repudiate a publication called the Vanguard, published by members of the communist party on the Columbia campus. He said it printed "malicious reports with no regard to the truth."

Three other members of Teachers college faculty, all well known as liberal supporters of labor, resigned from the union within the last year, it became known yesterday. They were Prof. John L. Childs, Prof. F. Ernest Johnson, and Prof. R. Bruce Raup.

FALLS OFF LADDER; DIES.

John Flentz, 49 years old, 1713 North Kedzie avenue, died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital. He was injured on Nov. 26 in a fall from a ladder.

U. S. IN NEW NOTE INSISTS ON OPEN DOOR IN CHINA

Hits Tokio Claim Pact No Longer Applies.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 [Saturday].—(AP)—The state department this morning announced that Ambassador Joseph C. Grew today delivered a new note to the Japanese government at Tokio, which it was understood here contained a firm but flat refusal to recognize Japan's effort to establish a "new order" in war torn China.

The note replied to a Japanese note of Nov. 18, in which Japan attempted to maintain that the principle of equal opportunity and the "open door" to China had become obsolete there in view of changing conditions.

Protests Treaty Breaking.

It was understood the United States flatly rejected the Japanese contention that obligations of treaties to which this country is a party could be unilaterally broken and that the only way treaties could be brought up to date was by international agreement.

The note followed repeated protests, representations, and notes to the Japanese government with respect to American property rights and interests, which had been discriminated against in China since hostilities began in July, 1937.

Urges China to Talk Peace.

HONGKONG, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Wang Ching-wei, former premier of China, came forward today in favor of peace negotiations with Japan on the basis of terms set forth by the Japanese premier, Prince Fumimaro Konoe, on Dec. 22. At that time Konoe made a declaration of policy concerning China.

Wang sent a telegram to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese commander in chief, declaring Konoe's terms offered a "fair basis" for peace discussions. His telegram was sent from Hanoi, French Indo-China.

Informed Hongkong circles looked upon Wang's action as a bold gesture on his own initiative. He is a member of the central political council of the Kuomintang, Chinese government party, and a leader of the party's peace faction. He was said to have split with Chiang because of the general's admission of communist influence in the Chinese government.

Debate Wang's Position.

Unanswered was the question of how far Wang represented any element of the Chinese government. He was once among the most powerful of China's leaders and a favorite disciple of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic.

Wang took up in his telegram the main points of Konoe's terms. They were: A declaration of Japan's readiness to aid China in abolishing foreign privileges and extraterritoriality and the formation of a political-economic bloc composed of Japan, China, and Manchukuo "for common defense against communism and for economic coöperation."

Predict Jap Cabinet Shakeup.

TOKIO, Dec. 30. — (AP) — A third major reorganization of the cabinet of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe was predicted tonight as a split developed over internal application of wartime policies. The premier himself and Home Minister Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, an outspoken advocate of Fascism, were reported to be the leaders of contending factions in the ministry.

Bomb U. S. Missionaries' Homes.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Southern Baptist headquarters received a telegram today reporting Japanese planes had bombed Shiuchow, 120 miles north of Canton, severely damaging two missionary homes. No casualties were reported. Americans living in the damaged houses were Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Saunders of Adamsville, Tenn., L. A. Thompson of Springfield, Mo., and M. W. Rankin of Newberry, S. C.

[A report from Kweilin, political center of southwest China, said an American Baptist hospital was fired and wrecked by incendiary bombs. Patients were saved, but valuables, equipment, and supplies were lost.]

BOOKS

14 Books Pass 100,000 Mark in 1938 Sales

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

One of the most interesting as well as illuminating backward looks at a year's literary output is a survey of the year's best sellers. It is a rare book whose sales reach 100,000. Some years not even one book achieves so large an audience [for the number of copies sold is only a fraction of the number of times the book is read, what with the prevalence of rental libraries].

In 1938, surprisingly, 14 books have sold more than 100,000 copies. One of them was published in 1936 and three in 1937 and another is a juvenile more than two years old.

Ferdinand, published Sept. 11, 1936, is probably unique in the history of juveniles, for this year more than 150,000 copies have been sold, which brings its total sales to date just under 250,000. The Walt Disney movie was partly responsible for that, but the sales of a popular juvenile, more than any other type of book, are like a snow ball rolling down hill in a high wind. They grow almost automatically, and for years.

Gone With the Wind, reprinted in a cheaper edition, this year added 338,425 copies to its previous sales, bringing the total to 1,788,000 copies. Reprints, however, are not listed on the current best seller lists.

Of the 14 books which have sold more than 100,000 copies in 1938, eight are nonfiction. Five of those eight are either frankly autobiography or books of intensely personal experience, and two are biographies. The other is a holdover from two years ago, the most popular "how to" book of our day, How to Win Friends and Influence People. It was published Dec. 17, 1936, and its sales of 183,000 copies in 1938 brought its total to date to 885,889.

Only five novels were in the 100,000 class, and one of them, The Citadel, was a 1937 book with a total sale to date of 304,284 copies.

As far as we are able to judge by the necessarily indefinite figures at our disposal, the year's best seller among new books has been With Malice Toward Some, which has sold 365,000 copies to date.

The book clubs give any book an enormous start in sales, and for that reason I have marked with an asterisk [*] all the books thus boosted on their way.

Following is a list of the books which have sold more than 100,000 copies in 1938:

The Importance of Living, by Lin Yutang. [Reynal & Hitchcock, $3.] Published in November, 1937; 250,000 copies to date.

My Son! My Son! by Howard Spring. [Viking, $2.50.] Continuous best seller since publication; 125,000 copies.

Here's Fine Sea Tale by a Chicagoan, and History of Smuggling

"Midshipman Davy Jones," by Lieut. Raymond J. Toner. [Albert Whitman & Co., $2.50.]

"The Compleat Smuggler," by Jefferson Farjeon. [Bobbs Merrill, $3.]

A native Chicagoan has written and illustrated one of the best sea stories in many a year. This is "Midshipman Davy Jones," by Lieut. Raymond J. Toner. The author is now executive officer of the 19th fleet division, U. S. N. R., stationed at Michigan City, Ind. He has painted a colorful and authentic picture of the life and customs aboard a United States man of war in the war of 1812. The well plotted story is told with vigor, humor, and charm. The author has done his own black and white illustrations of action, color sketches of uniforms and flags, and colored end paper maps showing all sea engagements of the war of 1812.

Jefferson Farjeon, an established writer of mystery novels, has turned to facts for his newest book. "The Compleat Smuggler" is a well rounded history of one of the world's most picturesque crimes. Farjeon covers England, America, France, and other countries in his entertaining stories of smuggling from early days down to the modern customs evader.

2 Poets Linked with Flowering of New England

BY RUSSELL MAC FALL.

"Edward Arlington Robinson," by Hermann Hagedorn. [MacMillan, $3.]

"This Was a Poet; a Critical Biography of Emily Dickinson," by George Frisbie Whicher. [Scribner, $3.]

The lives of Edward Arlington Robinson and Emily Dickinson spanned a century of the finest flowering of New England culture. She was born in 1830; he died in 1935. To modern minds they are the most acceptable of New England poets, although Emily's tensely wrought lyrics were regarded even by her friends as "too elusive of criticism" to be poetry, and Robinson struggled until middle age to find a publisher.

Their unpopularity was rooted in one of the fundamental similarities of these two New England geniuses. Both scorned the pinchback glitter which was fashionable in poetry; both strove for common, honest diction, for lean, crisp verses, and unsentimental realism. Emily, from a first family of Amherst, Mass., and Robinson, of good Gardiner, Me., stock, were born Puritan aristocrats, saturated with the awareness of God in the midst of life [although both were unorthodox], permeated with shy Yankee humor, eccentric as the world judges, and gifted with a keen sense of observation inherited from generations of shrewd traders.

Mr. Hagedorn's book is a "portrait and a record for those who loved the man or cherish the poetry." In style and proportion it is admirable, and its appreciation of the character and genius of a man who by temperament and disappointment appeared unamiable to the world is a moving story. Robinson knew tragedy from childhood, when misfortune swept away his family and deafness crippled him. Two years at Harvard started him on his long battle to find a public and a publisher for his gaunt, somber poems. He starved in New York garrets, helped dig a subway, drank too much, tried to write plays and novels as pot boilers, but his only rewards were a few faithful friendships, one with President Theodore Roosevelt, who gave him a sinecure for a few years. Others were the coming young poets, Moody, Torrence, MacKaye, Josephine Preston Peabody, and Edmund C. Stedman.

Then he was lured to the new Peterborough colony organized by Mrs. McDowell, widow of the composer; his friends subsidized him; he quit drinking, and fickle success at last became his. A prize brought fame in 1921; the publication of "Tristram" in 1927 brought modest wealth. He rocked on in his cottage at Peterborough, its first citizen, until the end.

The life of Emily Dickinson is an oft told and mistold story. Prof. Whicher's contribution is a scholarly attempt to fit her into the pattern of New England life, to rectify the careless accounts of her so-called love affairs, and to analyze the elements of her greatness as a poet.

Her love affairs he reduces to something less sensational, yet even more curious, than the previous accounts. The first of the two men who influenced her and who became the subject of her amatory poems was Benjamin F. Newton. She looked to him as her preceptor, her intellectual adviser, and was greatly grieved by his early death. The second was the Rev. Charles Wadsworth of Philadelphia, a great preacher of that day. Although she saw him only a few times, she always felt herself his "scholar," and identified him, poetically at least, in her gradual withdrawal from the world, as her spiritual companion.

Out of the elements of such a provincial life, "too simple and stern to embarrass any," as she described it, she struck off the intense fragments of her lyrics, putting them away, where they were found and published after her death. From her constant statement of "the immaterial with startling elaboration in terms of the material" developed a style rich and perfect in metaphor. Prof. Whicher's study is highly readable and is a work of scholarship such as the literature of Emily Dickinson has sadly needed.

NAZIS SLAP U. S.; SEE NO CHANCE TO IMPROVE TIES

Statement Flays Stand on Ickes Speech.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—German relations with the United States took a new unfavorable turn today as a result of the recent speech by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, in which he berated the Nazi treatment of Jews as bestial.

A statement issued by DNB, Germany's official news agency, announced the German-American dispute to the German people and said "an improvement of mutual relationships lacks every foundation."

Seen as Hitler's Reply.

Rumors persist that Germany intends to withdraw Dr. Hans Thomsen, its chargé d'affaires in Washington, D. C. The Nazi ambassador, Hans Dietrich, already has been summoned home "for consultation."

Today's statement was the first word the German public has been permitted to have of the Ickes incident. It was considered Reichsfuehrer Hitler's reply to the sharp refusal of the American government to apologize for Ickes' utterances.

"Minister of the Interior Ickes of the United States delivered a speech before the Zionist society in Cleveland shortly before Christmas in which, in connection with thrusts at the third reich, he attacked its leadership in an unwarantable manner," the statement said.

"The German chargé d'affaires in Washington presented the sharpest protest on account of these attacks to the American vice foreign minister [Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles].

Says Policy Serves Jews.

"The American foreign office, however, did not—as is a matter of self-evident procedure otherwise in matters of this kind in international relations—disassociate itself from the utterances of the American minister of the interior, but tried to defend them.

"It must, therefore, be stated that as long as such a procedure, which obviously serves Jewish interests and leaves out of account the real German-American interests, continues in the conduct of relations of the United States of North America with Germany, the hope expressed by the American foreign office to the German chargé d'affaires for an improvement of mutual relationships lacks every foundation."

The official newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter published an editorial entitled: "Put an End to the Hysterical Agitation Against Germany." It declared that "the German people want to live in peace and quiet with the American people," and expressed its disbelief that "the majority of the American nation approves of the hysterical, provocative, and catastrophic policy pursued by Washington."

Charges Political Maneuver.

"A crisis in German-American relations would come in handy at this moment, when congress is assembling, so as to help Washington make the gigantic armaments program plausible to the American nation," the paper asserted. "The present American régime has expended five and one-half billion dollars on armaments. The new program is to put all the past expenditures in the shade. Does President Roosevelt want to exercise police control over the whole world?"

The Berliner Tageblatt spoke of "Europe's courtesy, which the Americans frequently lack in international intercourse," and declared that "Ickes compromised the American government in the gravest manner."

The Lokalanzeiger declared that "an improvement in German-American relations cannot be considered before the American people have liberated its government from the destructive influences of Jewish power and agitation."

HITLER CALLS '38 'YEAR OF RICHEST NAZI HARVEST'

BERCHTSGADEN, Germany, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler tonight termed 1938 the "year of the richest harvest in our history" in a New Year's message to the nation.

The Fuehrer of expanded Germany pledged continuance of Nazi education of the German people, the strengthening of the army, and execution of the four year plan [for economic self-sufficiency].

"In foreign affairs," he said, "Germany's course has been destined and fixed . . . the obligations which arise out of our friendship for Fascist Italy are clear and unbreakable." The message made clear that Germany's course was "stipulated" by the anti-communism pact with Italy and Japan, and added:

"But we have only one wish—that we may succeed also in the coming year to contribute to the general appeasement of the world."

He expressed gratitude to Mussolini for his aid in settling the Czecho-Slovak crisis and thanked the British and French statesmen for their efforts at Munich.

Son of Czecho-Slovakia Founder on Way to U. S.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Jan Masaryk, son of the founder of Czecho-Slovakia, and former minister to Great Britain, today received a warm farewell at Waterloo station as he left to board the liner Washington for the United States. Masaryk expects to make a three month tour of the United States to promote the re-establishment of Czecho-Slovakia's pre-Munich democracy. "I like the name of this ship," he said. "Washington would have understood what we are trying to do."

POLES PROTEST NAZI "DUMPING" OF DANZIG JEWS

Pushed Over Border, Warsaw Charges.

WARSAW, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Germany and Poland were entangled anew today over Jews.

The Polish commissioner in the free city of Danzig protested against expulsion from Danzig of Jews bearing Polish passports and threatened expulsion of Danzig citizens from Poland unless the action was halted.

The Polish press charged that Germany was "dumping" Jews into Poland through Danzig with the connivance of the free city's Nazi government. The protest as published here, however, did not mention this.

The Polish press charged that "a group" of Polish Jews who had resided in Germany was sent to Danzig and then pushed into Poland.

Aftermath of Nazi Roundup.

This was represented as an aftermath of Germany's roundup of Polish Jews in November and their hurried transportation to the Polish border, which, in turn, was a factor in the murder on Nov. 9 of Ernst von Rath, secretary of the German embassy in Paris.

Von Rath was shot by Herschel Grynszpan, a Polish Jew, who described his act as vengeance for his people. The Nov. 10 outbreak of anti-Jewish violence in Germany was described as vengeance for Von Rath's death.

Germany defended the November roundup of Polish Jews on the grounds that Poland had decided to cancel the passports of Jewish nationals who had resided abroad for a long time. German authorities said they feared they would be saddled with thousands of Jews without a country.

Negotiations Broken Off.

Thousands of Jews were stalled at the Polish-German frontier at that time. They were barred from entering Poland and barred from turning back.

The two nations agreed to negotiate the matter, but the negotiations were broken off after three days without disposing of those stranded along the border.

Danzig Pushes Racial Laws.

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Although this Nazi-dominated city is steadily adopting racial laws similar to those of Germany, its economic restrictions on Jews have not gone as far as those of the reich.

In order to protect its foreign trade, which means economic life or death for Danzig, the Free City government has given fifty Jewish export and import firms assurances that their business activities would not be molested.

On the other hand, said a spokesman for the Danzig National bank, Danzig is doing everything within its financial ability to facilitate Jewish emigration.

The spokesman pointed out that every wealthy Jew emigrating from Danzig is able to take with him $5,000. Later the National bank, he said, will transfer the remainder of such emigrants' fortunes.

Indict San Antonio Mayor and 2 Aids in Fraud Case

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Mayor C. K. Quin of San Antonio and two of his aids were indicted by a District court grand jury today for misapplication of city funds.

Mayor Quin said the grand jury's action was "a well devised but poorly concealed political plot to elect Maury Maverick or his nominee mayor of the city." Maverick, militant former congressman, was defeated in last summer's primary by Paul J. Kilday, San Antonio attorney.

HITLER TO DOUBLE TONNAGE OF NAZI SUBMARINE NAVY

Demands Right to Parity with British Empire.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Germany, it became known today, has notified Great Britain that it intends to modify existing naval treaties and launch a big building program to more than double the Nazi submarine fleet.

The notification came on the eve of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's proposed visit to Rome and at a time when the totalitarian powers are making a desperate effort to win new victories in the Spanish war.

The British admiralty apparently was so upset that it was officially announced only tonight that three British naval experts flew to Berlin yesterday to discuss the situation with German naval chiefs.

Want Equality with Britain.

Germany apparently wants to invoke the escape clauses of the 1935 and 1937 Anglo-German naval treaties which granted the Nazis the right to revise tonnage percentages if new conditions arose. The treaties restrict Germany to a naval tonnage of 35 per cent of the British navy except in submarines, in which the Nazis are restricted to 45 per cent of the British tonnage.

The Germans claim the right to build enough submarines to achieve full equality with the whole British empire and also to construct two more 10,000 ton cruisers. Parity with the British in undersea craft would involve construction of another 39,000 tons of submarines by Germany. She now has 71 submarines with a total tonnage of 31,000. Britain has 69 submarines totaling 70,000 tons.

Premier Mussolini of Italy possesses more than 100 submersibles. Germany's expansion thus would mean a substantial increase in the power of the Rome-Berlin axis partners to raid British commerce in event of war.

Britain May Boost Building.

In the face of this prospect British naval circles said that unless the admiralty representatives are able to persuade the Germans to modify their ideas Britain may be compelled as a precautionary measure to enlarge its present program of destroyers, escort ships, and other types needed for anti-submarine warfare despite the huge financial burden of naval armament.

Although the German demands ostensibly are centered on the menace of a growing soviet Russian submarine fleet, variously estimated at between 130 and 160 craft, the British appeared skeptical of this explanation. It was emphasized here that the weapon against submarines is not more submarines but destroyers and mine layers.

Germany is entitled by agreement to construct five 10,000 ton cruisers armed with eight inch guns, but under the Anglo-German naval treaty of 1937, which brought the reich within the scope of the three power London naval pact of 1936, the Germans agreed to build only three, "provided no further vessels of this category were laid down by any other power." Since then Russia is understood to have completed four ships of this class armed with 7.1 inch guns.

Britain to Get Report Today.

The British representatives who flew to Berlin are Vice Admiral A. B. Cunningham, deputy chief of naval staf; Capt. V. H. Danckwerts, director of the admiralty plans division, and C. G. Jarrett of the admiralty civil staf.

German experts at the conference included Admiral General Erich H. A. Raeder, chief of staf of the German navy, and Rear Admiral Otto Schniewind, deputy chief of naval staf.

The British delegation is expected to fly back to London tomorrow to report to the admiralty.

The terms of Germany's notification have been sent by the British government to the United States and France, co-signers of the 1936 London treaty, and to Italy, Russia, Poland, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, and Finland, all parties to bilateral naval treaties with Britain.

Refugee from Hungary Hangs Self in Hospital

He was recovering there from a suicide attempt on Dec. 20, when he slashed his wrists in the home of a friend. Miss Clare Liff, 18, and her mother, Mrs. Bessie Liff.

Miss Clare Liff is 18 years old. She's an attractive girl with light brown hair and wide blue eyes. She attended Roosevelt and Sullivan High schools and went to a business school for three months. But she couldn't find a job. "No beginners," they told her.

After a year of rebuffs, she felt that she couldn't face Christmas in her home at 3537 Ainslie street. So on Dec. 22 she went away. The same day Miss Virginia Lee, who produces the "I Need a Job" broadcast on W-G-N each Friday evening, found a job for Clare. But Clare was gone—gone to Milwaukee, it developed last night. She stayed there at the Y. W. C. A.

Last night her mother, Mrs. Bessie Liff, made a personal appeal for her return on the "I Need a Job" program. She knew her daughter always listened to it. And Clare was listening. She had returned to Chicago and was in a restaurant near the North Western station, wondering where to go next. She phoned the studio, and in a few moments mother and daughter were reunited. Just to make it a happy new year the phone rang again and it was an employer with a job for Clare.

FEAR HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE AS DAM ON ISLAND BURSTS

MANILA, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The bursting of a natural dam on Panay Island, central Philippines, hurled the waters of a huge lake upon a community of 15,000 persons, it was learned today, and heavy loss of life was feared.

The dam was formed during a recent typhoon and flood which caused land to slide into a river, creating a lake halfway up a mountainside.

The town of Calinog, surrounded by fourteen native villages, was in the path of the waters which swept through it with terrific force. The number of casualties has not been learned because the flood washed out all communications.

FRANCE HAS NEW TROUBLE; SYRIANS DEMAND LIBERTY

Ask Immediate Release from League Mandate.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Reports of a Syrian demand for immediate independence from France confronted the government today as it sought to put up a strong colonial front to deal with Italy's empire aspirations.

The independent Nationalist party of Syria was said to have sent a demand to the Nationalist premier, Djemil Mardan, calling for immediate release of the eastern Mediterranean state from France's league of nations mandate. Other reports told of widespread discontent.

The dispute was sharply drawn by the refusal of the French foreign relations committee to ratify the 1936 French-Syrian treaty promising Syria independence in 1939. This refusal was regarded as a direct result of French-Italian friction.

Premier Urges Patience.

The Syrian premier, who had just returned to his people from consultations in Paris, was quoted by one dispatch as saying in a public speech, "We shall have independence by legal or extra-legal means."

Mardan, however, was said to have called upon his nation for patience until the Syrian parliament has examined arrangements which he made at Paris, but which he himself called unsatisfactory.

A French government spokesman said France could not risk launching an independent Syria at this time when she needed all possible Mediterranean military and naval bases. Deputies said Premier Daladier would send a senatorial committee to Syria to propose a new agreement which would give Syrians a large measure of independence, but with French control of police and military matters.

One thousand Senegalese sharpshooters will embark tomorrow for French Somaliland to meet a military threat from adjoining Italian Ethiopia. They will be followed by more troops in the near future.

Nazis Desire Settlement.

ROME, Dec. 30.—(AP)—A desire on the part of Germany that France and Italy settle their Mediterranean dispute before it grows into another European war crisis was reported in Fascist quarters today.

The newspaper Il Lavoro Fascista reported from Berlin that Germany, like Britain, was trying to guard against the Mediterranean becoming another Czecho-Slovakia, and that the Nazis want the dispute settled along the lines of "the new balance of interested forces." This was described as Germany's "indirect interest" in the French-Italian dispute.

[In Berlin the organ of the German foreign office, Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz, welcomed France's desire to settle her Mediterranean differences without mediation by Britain.]

Italians considered it certain that Prime Minister Chamberlin of Great Britain would discuss the French-Italian dispute with Premier Mussolini when he comes to Rome Jan. 11. But how far Chamberlain would go as mediator remained uncertain.

Fascist Press Flays France.

The Fascist press assailed France today because of her refusal to have Chamberlain mediate her friction with Italy. The newspapers quoted London political circles as saying Chamberlain and Mussolini will discuss "all questions interesting to England and Italy with a view to a general European clarification and continuation of the peace policy so happily inaugurated at Munich."

Italians, in the words of the press, deem their dispute with France a chief obstacle to this "European clarification" now that it has reached a point of "acute tension."

As for the meeting Chamberlain is to have with Pope Pius on Jan. 13, Vatican circles said the pontiff would recommend that Europe settle its problems without war, but probably would refrain from talking politics otherwise.

LITHUANIAN CABINET OBEYS NAZIS; RECALLS POLICE FROM MEMEL

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The Lithuanian cabinet today bowed to the demands of the pre-Nazi Memel authorities for ousting of Lithuanian state police from the autonomous former German territory.

The cabinet ordered the state police removed and also decreed that Memellanders must be given preference in filling government offices in Memel.

The Memel administration refused to recognize the Lithuanian police after Memel Germans had turned the diet elections of Dec. 11 into a virtual "back to the reich" plebiscite. Germans were elected to twenty-five of the twenty-nine seats in the diet.

The 1,099 square mile Memel area was German before the world war, was occupied by the Lithuanians after the peace, and was awarded to Lithuania by the allied powers in 1923.

STUDY PAINLESS FINANCE PLAN FOR ISLAND AIRPORT

If Chicago's proposed downtown island airport is constructed with the help of the Works Progress administration, the city's share of the total cost is expected to be approximately 3 million dollars. This sum, it now is believed, can be obtained from the sale of revenue bonds to be paid off from income earned from the field.

A plan based on this painless method of financing is under consideration by the airport's supporters, it was learned yesterday. Chicago's share is expected to be approximately 20 per cent of the total cost of 13 to 15 million dollars.

The airport under consideration is a tract of 325 acres to be created by filling in an island at a point 2,750 feet east of Northerly Island. The axis of the flying field would be an extension of 16th street. This is the layout approved by the Civil Aeronautics authority.

Larger Field Planned.

This new plan calls for a field 125 acres larger than the old program which contemplated a 200 acre island. The old island was to cost 9 million dollars. This plan was condemned by the CAA on the ground that it was not large enough to accommodate the latest big planes.

The new field will be just over 7,000 feet long and 5,300 feet wide. It will be large enough for safe operation of the largest ships now planned. An idea of its great size can be gained from the diagram reproduced on the back page of this morning's edition.

Plan to Finance Project.

While the major cost of the field would be borne by the federal government through the WPA, the city's share as sponsor of the project would have to be available before work could begin. Engineers and members of Mayor Kelly's airport committee believe necessary funds can be found in this manner:

The legislature in 1935 passed bills granting the mayor of Chicago power to create an island airport authority. This authority also was given the right to issue revenue bonds based on earning capacity of the field.

The bonds could be issued to provide the city's portion of the cost. Revenue to retire the bonds could be obtained by charging a head tax for each passenger beginning or terminating a flight at the field, or by charging a landing fee for each airliner arriving or departing.

Studies of air line trafic made by the Chicago Plan commission with the help of a number of the air lines indicate that funds from this source could pay off a $3,000,000 bond issue in less than 10 years.

THE DOCTOR'S BILL.

The indictment of the American Medical association and some of its directing officials was not a courageous act in the sense that the administration is likely to lose great numbers of votes as a result of its action. The probabilities, unfortunately, are all the other way.

The doctor is welcome when there is illness in the family but the memory of his bill often outlasts gratitude for his services. Circumstances make it easy to think of the doctor as a profiteer on misfortune. When everybody else sends flowers the doctor sends a bill. All too frequently it arrives when the family is hard pressed because of loss of income resulting from the illness itself and because drugs, nursing, hospital care, and special diets have imposed unexpected burdens upon the family budget.

Illness itself inspires in the victim and his family a sense of injustice. He didn't ask for an inflamed appendix or an invasion of pneumonia germs. It was his hard luck to fall victim and it seems to add to the injustice to make him pay in money as well as in suffering. Worse still, the more serious the disease and the greater the suffering the heavier the bills are likely to be.

Accordingly, many citizens would welcome state medicine or socialized medicine. The medical association has resisted that trend with all the vigor at its command. The doctors believe that if they had to look to government for their support the quality of medical service and the competence of the profession would decline rapidly. There is much evidence to support this view and little to refute it. Any one who had contact with the medical corps in the war knows how wide was the gulf which separated the regular army doctors from the physicians who enlisted from private practice. There were exceptions on both sides, but it was clear that the standards of professional competence as of professional conscience were far higher among the volunteers than among the regulars. It was no accident that Jimmy Roosevelt in his recent illness preferred the Mayo clinic to the government hospitals to which he could have been admitted at small cost either as a high-ranking civil employé of the government or as an officer of marines.

The doctors may be wrong in seeing a trend toward state medicine in a number of recent innovations in medical economics but it would be astonishing, indeed, if the profession were not in a suspicious frame of mind. The present administration in Washington is eager for new fields of activity to dominate. It has given numerous evidences of its desire to include medical service within its grand scheme of social security. If that happens, the relations of doctor and patient will be radically altered and the overwhelming probability is that the change will be to the disadvantage of both.

Whatever the faults of the present organization of medicine may be, the fact is that disease and death rates have dropped to the lowest point in the history of this country. Medical science has made phenomenal progress, thanks in no small part to the activity of the medical association in forcing higher standards upon medical schools and hospitals, and in publishing scientific journals. It may well be true, as is often said, that the medical requirements of the family of moderate means [in contrast to the poor and the prosperous] are not fully met by present arrangements but the case has been greatly exaggerated. Families of moderate means constitute the largest single element in the population and if their needs were not being met pretty satisfactorily the death and disease rates would be rising, not falling.

The doctors have recently proposed a plan which deserves sympathetic study. They suggest that the risk of illness among persons of small income be covered by insurance with an annual premium which would not place an undue strain on the ordinary family's budget and would cover ordinary risks. The person [or family] so insured would receive, in case of illness, a cash payment sufficient to meet the reasonable costs of treating the disease contracted. The patient would still be free to choose his own doctor. It is thought that the obvious weakness in such a plan, the likelihood that some patients would take advantage of it to malinger and others would be encouraged in malingering by unscrupulous physicians, could be overcome by giving supervision of the plan to the medical societies. The proposal is intended to cover the cost of medical services much as the Plan for Hospital Care covers hospital charges.

Obviously the adoption of such a plan would not solve the last budgetary difficulty created by disease, nor would the plan revolutionize medical practice. Those who believe in state medicine will, therefore, reject the proposal out of hand. Others who have the wit to see that under present arrangements miraculous advances have been made in medical science and in distributing the benefits widely will hope that under this plan or some other the unavoidable costs of illness can be made less burdensome to the patient without at the same time destroying the professional pride and ambition of the physician.

In spite of the fact that its material rewards are not great, medicine today attracts and holds superior young men and women; it would not do so if they felt that their future depended on governmental favor rather than upon professional attainments. Experience teaches that there is far more reason to place confidence in the high purposes and altruism of the doctors than in the tall talk of politicians or the wishful thinking of professional reformers.

IN THE WAKE OF PERSECUTION.

Racial and religious persecutions in Europe have had a profound effect upon religious life in the United States. The common bonds of faith have been strengthened. The imperishable values contained in the bill of rights have been revived in the light of modern experience. They do not state truths applicable to other days, but truths forever necessary to human life.

The dignity of individual conscience has been brought to a better appraisal. The degeneration which follows prejudice and racial and sectarian hatreds has been made plain. The religious leaders of the country have been admirable for the most part in their treatment of a difficult situation. They have tempered indignation with understanding and have kept criticism from descending to hatred.

The rebirth of intolerance and persecution in countries which were regarded as cultured and civilized has been dismaying to estimates of human progress, but if there be any present compensation it is to be found in the reaffirmation of high principles in lands which are still free.

THE MOSCOW FIGHT IN NEW YORK.

The resignation of three members of the faculty of the teachers' college of Columbia university from membership in the New York branch of the American Federation of Teachers has just been made known. The three are Prof. John L. Childs, Prof. F. Ernest Johnson, and Prof. R. Bruce Raup. The instructors who resigned did so because the brand of Marxist workers' philosophy to which they were expected to conform was Stalinite.

Prof. Childs said that he joined the American Federation of Teachers because he believed in a workers' society, but that he soon discovered that the major questions were discussed "on the basis of political sects that stemmed from Russia's tragic divisions. The favored interests of the Stalinist group would always emerge in frequently wholly irrelevant resolutions."

A denial has been issued for the three New York locals of the union representing public school teachers and college instructors that any one economic and social philosophy as expressed by one group controled. Prof. Childs says he inferred that Earl Browder and Clarence Hathaway of the American communist party were to be consulted on all union questions.

The bitterest fight in America today is between communist sects. The American communist party, headed by Browder, is a mild spoken outfit of revolutionaries until its workers encounter their blood kindred, the Trotzkyites and Lovestoneites. Then it is a war of extermination, with no quarter asked or given. Two Minnesota assassinations are attributed by communist elements themselves to this Red civil war which is reproduced here in about the same intensity that it was waged in soviet Russia, where the Stalin purges were the outcome. A Red becomes red when he deals with his fellow Reds. Browder and his comrades find no names too vile to call Norman Thomas, the Socialist, and every adherent of Leon Trotzky and Jay Lovestone.

Apparently this fight has blossomed out in the teachers' union in New York and the Stalinites have succeeded in purging the dissidents. It might interest the city to discover more of the conditions which have allowed Stalin to impose his brand of Marxian doctrin upon the public school system and upon the training of teachers. The professors who got out apparently did not do so because of objection to the teaching of Marxian doctrins but to the peculiarly ferocious Stalin brand of them.

FEWER AUTOMOBILE DEATHS.

The National Safety council's preliminary figures indicate that automobiles killed between 7,000 and 8,000 fewer persons in 1938 than in 1937. The improvement will be in the neighborhood of 20 per cent.

The achievement is a remarkable one and not the least remarkable aspect of it is that no one seems to know just how it came to pass. The improvement was quite general over the country. Probably it resulted from a variety of influences, among them being more effective education in safety, safer automobiles, safer highways, better policing.

It is to be hoped that when the figures are complete they will be studied by competent statisticians with a view to discovering what lessons can be learned from them, if any. It would be most useful to know what effects may reasonably be attributed to the various methods of education in safety, to grade crossing eliminations, etc. If we were certain what caused the decline in the number of fatalities we might be able to combat the automobile massacre more effectively. The best preventive of automobile accidents is the elevated highway, but until such roads are built through congested areas full advantage must be taken of every other means of accident prevention that can be employed.

ITALIAN BABIES.

[Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.]

It must have been a "heart rendering scene" when Mussolini met and congratulated ninety-five Italian women who had done most to carry out his program of "Bear more children."

These women had borne a total of 887 children, and had won the prize which Il Duce hangs up for the mothers who bring the most children into the world "for the glory of Italy."

The high scorer among the mothers was the woman who has fifteen children, all born in the last ten years.

These wives were all farm women, and in his speech of congratulation Mussolini adjured them to keep their children on the farms, not let them wander off to the cities.

A total of $26,000 in baby bonuses was distributed by the Duce, some of the money in the form of bank deposits for the oncoming generation.

Statistics go to show that Italian women are more prolific than the women of any other nation in Europe.

But the onlooker from distant countries must wonder to what these children are born, over whom Mussolini makes such gorgeous ceremony. Are they born only to be cannon fodder in some of the wars for which Il Duce is forever preparing? Are they born to goosestep at a tender age, and eventually to be sent to some distant land of torture to carry the eagles of Italy under the burning sun of the tropics, or through the "green hell" of the jungles?

Mussolini promises to these prolific mothers no assurance that their offspring shall ever grow to the knowledge of the meaning of liberty. The children all belong to the state.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office.

IN FRONT OF THE 8 BALL.

The Linemaster expects to be in front of the 8 ball during 1939. The reason for this optimism: He has been given a No. 8 pool ball, standard size and composition, with a segment removed to form a base, which now is in service on his desk as a paper weight. He can look the ill-omened thing in the eye and say, "I'm in front of you, not behind you, baby."

This brings up the question: Why does the slang expression, "Behind the 8 ball," mean that one is in a difficult situation or suffering from bad luck? We have been at work on this problem for more than a year, but have not yet found a satisfactory answer.

Our own idea is that the 8 ball is regarded as ill-omened because it is the only black ball in the set of fifteen used in rotation pool. Theories on the subject will be welcomed. What is the true explanation of the saying? When did it originate, and where? This is a point in American folklore which has been neglected by the experts.

OLD ACTOR'S EXIT.

Now limpingly the Old Year trudges out,
Sore laden with the weight of all his days;
The cycling sphere again has come about,
And this Time-actor his finale plays.

Much to applaud, much to condemn he gave
In his four season-acts that set the earth;
To some his lines meant finis and the grave,
To some his part creation was, and birth.

He shuffles off, the next player in the wings,
His better, or his lesser, or his peer?
We shall not know till his four acts are done
And we, as now, review another year.

RESOLUTIONS, NEW STYLE.

Last year my resolutions read like this:
I will not drink or smoke, I won't say damn,
I'll never tell another dirty joke
Nor wear the styles that aren't for me, no ma'am!

I've modified them now to read this way:
I won't say damn out loud before the brats,
I won't smoke more than half a pack a day,
I promise not to wear such funny hats.

I don't say I won't drink—I won't get drunk;
I'll be impressive like my daddy is;
I'll pass up dry martinis and such junk
And take it straight, the way he guzzles his.

And next day, when my head's about to burst,
I'll say to people, "Thanks, I'm feeling fine."
I won't play horses till the rent's paid first,
And one thing more—by Jing, I'll make the Line!

Challenge to Florida.

I like to be shut in by a winter storm. I love to know the joy of shelter, the companionship of books, the peace of lamplight. I love to hear the wind sweep while I watch my fire blaze; to hear the rattle of sleet on the pane while my fern and begonia smile at me in tropical beauty. Others may go south and winter by a summer sea; I love my white vista of snow, the naked boughs of gaunt, bare trees. I am happy to live in a climate where all the varying year is a joy in its changeful beauty; where each season gives us its own special treasures. I thank God for the wonder and beauty of winter. HOLIDAY HOUSEKEEPING.

Christmas dwindles to the New Year;
there are many things to do here:

Hie us back to normalcy—
pick up sister's dolls and blocks, take down mistletoe and holly,
pack the tinsel in a box,
sweep pine needles off the carpet,
water plants and wind the clocks.

Merry Christmas came and went, and Time wheels down the firmament.

I have just been informed that Duke Bakrak and Snowshoe Al exchanged rubber checks for Christmas. Shanty Al.

IN MEMORIAM.

Let one and all now humbly kneel
Before the Old Year's bier,
And pray for his eternal peace
For granting things held dear;
Forgetting not his sterling worth
In sundry, divers ways—
The wealth of friendships given us
To cheer our lonely days.

And as we rise let's fondly greet
Young New Year at his birth,
And wish him joy in taking care
Of good old Mother Earth;
And pledge that we most earnestly
Throughout the year will try
To unto others daily do
As we would be done by.

Alonzo Newton Benn.

New Year's eve probably contributed to the American language the expression, "tin horn sport"; i. e., a person so thrifty or limited of means that his only method of celebration was blowing on the old fashioned tin horn.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

WATCH YOUR RESISTANCE AND AVOID PNEUMONIA.

PNEUMONIA is now on the loose. Slight colds—or rather those which are regarded lightly—usually pave the way. The whole affair may start with a sore throat or a case of snuffles—the individual conscious that he is a bit below par but sure that he is not ill enough to remain at home.

At any rate, after a week or two of smoldering the infection may manifest itself in no uncertain terms with a chill and a pain in the chest, which stabs with every breath. Because of the ensuing fever—which the patient realizes is far higher than he has experienced hitherto—he will go to bed and call the doctor. If he counts his pulse it may be well over 100 beats per minute and should the temperature be taken it may be as high as 104 degrees. If he gazes at himself in a mirror he may be struck with the fact that his cheeks are flushed and the eyes bright. Although the skin feels hot, chilly sensations may run up and down his spine. Then he becomes aware that he is breathing more rapidly than he should.

The cough by this time may be a bit tighter. Perhaps he has been raising a substantial amount of mucus but now none or but very little comes up and what is expectorated is peculiarly sticky and thick. Let us assume that the physician has arrived and—alert for every sign—may note that the lips are bluish and that the color of the skin near the tips of the fingers is somewhat dusky. He may observe too that the sputum which clings to the tongue and which the patient has so much difficulty in discharging is brownish in color.

With such a picture no question whatsoever is presented in making a diagnosis of pneumonia. Examination will disclose that the inflamed portion of the lung is so filled with cells and clotted material from the blood that it has become consolidated or solidified. No air can enter the affected area and the reaction within the shut off segment is a very active one in which bacteria are throwing off poison [toxin] which in turn is being absorbed by the sufferer.

The disease did not come suddenly although it may have burst into a climax with the chill. The infection was slowly at work and nature probably would have overcome the activity of the bacteria had the victim gone to bed, kept warm, taken plenty of fluid, and raised his reserve.

Thus, all too frequently, we are faced with a full blown example of pneumonia. What is going to happen? Nursing and good medical management will supply the answer. Much, of course, depends upon the resistance and whether a specific serum is obtainable or not. At the very outset it must be understood that everything must be done to relieve pain and to prevent the patient from wasting his energy either in his struggle for air or in thrashing about the bed.

Oxygen gas constitutes one of our best remedies. If a special room is available into which the gas can be introduced so much the better. If not, either an oxygen tent or a nasal catheter may be employed. If the color improves the chances are that the breathing will be far less labored and exhausting, and the temperature may drop somewhat.

Serum may be used if the laboratory report indicates that we are dealing with types 1, 2, 5, 7, 8, or 14. If this substance is given directly into a vein a marked reduction in temperature may follow within 24 hours. This is the only method we now possess which may abort the disease, although it is hoped that a pyridine derivative of sulfanilamide will be on the market within a few months.

Every pneumonia victim needs sodium chloride because there is a marked shortage of salt due primarily to the excessive perspiration and to the increased quantity excreted via the urine. The bowel should receive attention as there is always a possibility that gas will distend the abdomen, press upon the diaphragm, and thus interfere with respiration.

Every sufferer should be watched constantly as delirium may come on rather quickly. If left alone he may rise from his bed and leave the room.

The important task facing every one during the "season" is to so preserve well being that pneumonia bugs cannot grow. Good physical tone and pneumonia are scarcely acquaintances—never companions.

PROBABLY NOT A PHOBIA.

N. M. F. writes: I dread icy streets and walks and am fearful whenever I descend a flight of stairs. Is this just "nerves" or would a slight blurring of vision be responsible? How can I overcome this feeling?

REPLY.

You should have your eyes examined carefully with correction of any visual defect. You may feel insecure because of poor circulation to the lower extremities, with sluggish response on the part of the muscles. It may be that you are merely cautious. You probably do not have a true phobia. Massage of the lower legs and feet will stimulate the blood supply. Some defect of the nervous system is responsible occasionally. A psychiatrist may be able to help.

REST CURE NEEDED.

M. B. writes: My father, 58 years old, was ill recently. Since his recovery he has been weak and he becomes fatigued after walking a few yards or on climbing. Is there any medicine he can take to give him strength?

REPLY.

Convalescence may cover several weeks. After a debilitating illness return to normal may be slow. The chances are that both the nervous system and the muscles—including the heart—suffered severe damage. Rest and nourishing and easily digested foods are advised, and a tonic to stimulate appetite may be helpful. If the heart rate is rapid [100 or more per minute] exercise should be restricted.

MAKES SKIN SOFTER.

H. C. writes: 1. What is the effect of rubbing the body every night with olive oil? 2. Will it increase weight?

REPLY.

1. The effect on a clean skin is to make it softer and more pliable.
2. Some of the material may be absorbed, but probably not enough to produce a gain in weight.

BY METABOLISM TEST.

K. B. writes: How can a person tell for sure that he has a goiter?

REPLY.

Sometimes by looking in a mirror. The best check, however, is offered by a study of the metabolic rate. Two or three readings should be taken.

LETTER WITH A THEME SONG.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—If a movie may have a theme song, perhaps a communication to so eminent a forum as yours may also rate one. The theme song is:

Old Mother Hubbard
To get her poor dog a bone.
When she got there,
The cupboard was bare,
And so the poor dog had none.

It is curious to note how this motif is repeated down through the pages of history—Napoleon's retreat from the empty cupboards of Moscow, Sherman's march through Georgia, or, in more recent times, La Follette's devastation of the Wisconsin treasury cupboard before abandoning it to the enemy.

Your correspondent rises to observe that all of these historic masters shrink into insignificance when compared to the smoldering ruins which will remain to mark the spot once occupied by the United States treasury when the New Deal vultures finally abandon it to the enemy. As the falling leaves of October and the chilling winds of November presage the inevitable approach of winter, just so the current signs of the day indicate the approach of the moment when the needle upon the ship of state's gas tank dial will lean heavily upon the pin on the side marked "empty."

Why should the Republican party be so eager to take over? If Uncle Sam is weary of his jag on easy money and desires to sober up, why not let him organize a coalition party of neutral politics to clean up the mess and put the country back to work? It would seem very doubtful if any political party could survive the sudden shutting down of the dope, pap, and handouts for which the country has acquired a habit, but it also seems certain that the country itself cannot survive an indefinite continuance of the treatment. DAD.

MORE CRUEL THAN UNUSUAL.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Suggestions for punishment for major and minor crimes:

Instead of sending a man to prison for ten years make him ride the Halsted street car to the loop from 79th street in the morning in time to get to a job. He will wait and wait for a car that goes to the loop [the empty cars go to the west side]. When a No. 42 finally comes along he will stand all the way down in a dirty, cold, ill smelling car that stops at every corner for the crowd.

Whoever routes the Halsted street car in the morning should be sent back to the old country, for he would have to hate the American people to treat them so! ONE WHO RIDES THE CAR.

ODD PET.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—My pet peeve: Receiving unsealed Christmas cards from people who can afford a 2 cent stamp. A Christmas card is a personal message, not an ad, and the saving is so small that when people use 1½ cent stamps on Christmas greetings they appear cheap. After all, only 50 cents is saved on 100 cards and usually people who are hard hit are not sending out 100 cards. READER.

TO THE UNKNOWN GOOD FELLOW.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Please let me express my sincere gratitude to you and one of your Good Fellows. He provided the merriest Christmas my four babies ever had and I didn't even get his name and address to write him a thank you note. I would that all poor children were as well remembered. FRANCES L. MUELLER.

BOSS AND HIRED MAN.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 26.—I've started again. Now Hopkins has to be discussed, just as if his appointment meant anything. He's just a hired man and under the Roosevelt system there is less and less commerce anyway, so why not let him take his seat in Uncle Sam's soft chair with less hullaboo. He'll be confirmed and the less noise made about it the less chance of his appointment being the red herring it's supposed to be.

Until we all stop blaming these political appointees and place entire responsibility squarely in Mr. Roosevelt's lap where it belongs, we are just letting ourselves be kidded along. He planned it that way, he's been at it for six years, and he's the boss. So what? Why not let Cohen, Corcoran, Hopkins, etc., alone and ask the "front office" for results? We're paying for them. We Americans are a funny bunch, after all!

H. L. MONARIEF.

LOW NUMBERS FOR DANGEROUS DRIVERS.

Highland Park, Ill., Dec. 26.—Regarding low numbers on automobile plates I beg to offer the suggestion that low numbers be reserved not as a mark of privilege or smartness, but to be forced upon those who have a record for accidents. A hit-run driver would be compelled to carry a low number to enable people to catch his number at a glance. The accident group of drivers are always apt to be repeaters. To force low numbers upon them would help to lead to identification. JAMES O'NEIL.

PUNY MINDS.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—At the Christmas season it is interesting to contemplate the puny minds of Herr Hitler and his splay footed cohorts in their efforts to devaluate the personality and teachings of one whose glory has survived for nearly 2,000 years. ALDEN S. BAKER.
St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church school.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS TREE.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 25.—I wish to express my appreciation of Mr. Orr's cartoon, "The First Christmas Tree," with the text, "The Greatest Wonder of Them All." After all, it takes Christmas to renew faith. We become rather pessimistic throughout the months over the frailties of mankind, the crimes of individuals, and misdoings of society, but the true heart comes to the top at this season. Like the Nile, whose mysterious flood rolls over the valley once a year, coming from an unseen and distant source, is the floodtide of Christmas that concretes itself in loaded Christmas trees, busy shopping, chimes, carols, and general good cheer. It all sweeps dejection and suspicion into the discard. Faith asserts herself beyond denial and the world gets a new start. As long as Christmas lasts society is secure.

E. ROBB ZARING.

CHRISTMAS IN SCOTLAND.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—In his article on Christmas in England your London correspondent, Sam Brewer, states that the pantomime is a type of performance found only in England. In this he is in error, as pantomimes have been popular for many, many years in Scotland.

ALEXANDER LINDSAY.

GRATITUDE.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—I wish to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt appreciation to Inhalator Squad No. 5, under Capt. Thomas Noonan. I owe my life to the excellent work performed by these men on Dec. 1 when I was overcome by carbon monoxide gas. JAMES ERDMAN.

GIVING AND RECEIVING.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Last year the licensing for the automobiles was reduced $2 per car; then they put on a charge of 50c for the certificate of title and this year they get 50 cents for drivers' license. What next? JOHN MARTIN.

JOINT STOCK OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought some stock with another married woman, each of us paying an equal share for the stock. This friend, who had the stock in her name, while I held the stock, died two months ago.

1. Can I sell this stock and divide with my friend's husband?
2. Should I change the stock ownership with the company that issued the stock?
3. Does this stock have to go through Probate court?
4. How can I prove ownership of half the stock as I have no receipt for money paid? T. N.

1. We assume that the stock was not stated to be held jointly, and in such case the transfer officer of the corporation could insist on probate of the deceased person's estate. The best way to ascertain whether they are willing to waive this requirement is to take up the matter with them.
2. If you wish to be in a position to sell, you should satisfy the requirements of the transfer agent.
3. Yes, unless the agent will waive it.
4. The fact that it stands in your name would be enough.

"FIVE DAY NOTICE."

Maywood, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have had a month to month rental, but no signed lease on a home for four years and for one year prior to then had a signed one year lease. My rent has been paid promptly until the last two months, but in these months I fell behind because I lost my job.

1. I have been given a "landlord's five day notice" which is not signed except by a real estate dealer. There is no legal mark or stamp on it whatsoever.
2. What is the value of this? Is it just a dun or reminder of rent due?
3. What is the time element and procedure in putting a tenant out? Can I be forced to vacate without a court order? J. B. A.

1. Presumably a complete and formal notice was served upon you, and the document now in your possession is a copy which was left with you.
2. It seems probable that it is sufficient to the statutory preliminary for a suit for possession.
3. Service of the five day notice, followed by a suit involving perhaps another week for service of the summons, followed by perhaps another week allowed by the judge for the tenant to move.

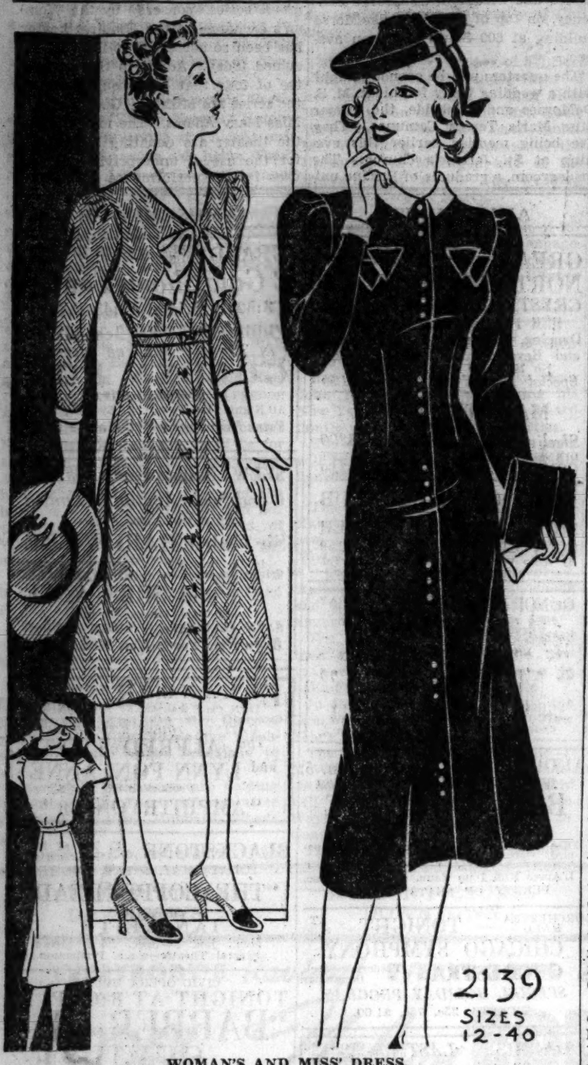
One Pattern—Two Dresses



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Our one pattern today creates two entirely different frocks. Both are tailored to perfection.

Sketched at the left is a model with V neckline, contrasting collar, and matching bow. Buttons are used in a straight row down the front, and a self-fabric belt encircles the waistline. The sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, become snugly fitted and terminate at bracelet length. Cuffs to match the collar are used. The original of this version is in herringbone patterned woolen. The accessories are in piqué.

The other version of the pattern is beltless and more fitted. Buttons are arranged in groups, and the neckline is high, the sleeves long. Two pairs of intriguing pockets are used high on the bodice. The original of this frock is black crêpe, with the accents in white.

Style No. 2139 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

[The lighter side of the year's news.]

Good-by, 1938! We're not sorry to see you go, even though next year may be scarred with events as lamentable as this year's historic happenings. Even so, there will be humorous and diverting phenomena such as characterized 1938.

Good-by, 1938! Year when the citizenry learned to do the Lambeth Walk, celebrated Mickey Mouse's tenth birthday anniversary, mourned the death of the panda Sulin, hailed the swinging of Loch Lomond and Annie Laurie, and read with avidity the Whitney and Coster scandals.

Year when the up hair-do and the problem of who would play the rôle of Scarlett were vital topics of conversation.

Good-by, 1938! Year of frenzied jitterbugs at Carnegie hall and Ravinia, drawn there by Benny Goodman and his band. Year of Toscanini's visit to New York's Cotton club to hear Cab Calloway; of the marriage or engagement of all the Menuhins—Yehudi, Hephzibah, and Yaltah. Year when Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan tickled pink an entire nation; when women looked like daguerreotypes in the evening, or painters' subjects instead of fashion plates.

Good-by, 1938! Year of Thanks for the Memory, A Tisket, a Tasket, and A Pocketful of Dreams. Year that came in with a Snow White furore and goes out with a posy-smelling bull a national figure. Year when a wooden dummy was given a degree by Northwestern university; when a salesman sold an icebox to an Eskimo in Alaska; when a man bit a dog in Paris.

Good-by, 1938! Year when Goldwyn said: "I go to a movie every night. Why not? I got to take my mind off my business." Year when patrician composer John Alden Carpenter's music was verboten in Germany because he was listed as a Jew, along with Danish Lauritz Melchoir and Paul Whiteman. Year when Emily Post spilled a spoonful of lingonberries on a table cloth; when Peggy Fears was down to her last pearl.

• • •

Good-by, 1938. Year of gags about the joining of the most famous feet and hands in connection with the Stokowski-Garbo romance; about the new Heaven on the Hudson being too, too divine.

Year of the revival of Valentino's pictures, of Debussy's Reverie in the revised, popular version, which made more money for the Debussy estate than all his music made in his lifetime.

Good-by, 1938! Year of the rise of the new beauty, Hedy LaMarr, of the marriage of Harry Richman and Hazel Forbes, with three attendants for the bride and seventeen for the man who popularized I Love a Parade. Year that saw Nonspeechmaker Alice Roosevelt Longworth take the lecture platform; King Zog take a half-American queen; the birth of a royal baby in Chicago, and the discovering of John Pierpont Morgan III, working on a farm in Knightstown, Ind.

Good-by, 1938! Hail, 1939!

Concert Attire.

The new air conditioning of Orchestra hall "for winter and summer comfort" must have been responsible for the costume of a little boy of five or six who sat on his father's lap in the fifth row of the main floor to hear Virovai Thursday evening. He wore a summer sun suit, the top part merely shoulder straps. . . . Virovai, as was hoped, wore evening dress, in fact, extra long tails.

New Gift Charms and Gadgets.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke's (he pronounces it Cee-dric) gold pencil with a watch in the top, a Christmas present. . . . Gertrude Lawrence's tiny gold plaque, a facsimile of the plate on table No. 1 at the Pump room which reads: "This table always reserved for Miss Gertrude Lawrence." A going away souvenir from Jerry Freshman.

Italian Movie Fans Gloomy as American Film Imports Cease

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Dec. 30.—Italian movie fans face a gloomy 1939. American films are to disappear from the Italian market. Italians will have to rely on their own production and the little that Britain, Germany, and France can supply.

A decree, published in September, made a state monopoly of the importation of foreign films. This forced foreign producers to close their agencies. The government has announced that, in order to help cut down the outflow of gold, no American films would be imported. The American producers have established a cash basis because they have been unable to take profits from royalties out of Italy.

Watch Parties Will Welcome Gay New Year

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVERY one in this department of THE TRIBUNE wishes every one who reads this column a Happy New Year. May 1939 bring you enough of everything, health, wealth, and happiness to make it a happy new year indeed. And if you are of an age to have romance come into your life, may your engagement be announced during the next year!

The debutantes are being pushed out of the limelight which they have occupied so gayly and cheerfully ever since several days before Christmas by their elders and youngers. There is no debut party tonight. We would think there would be just one thing the buds and their beaux would want to do tonight and that would be to go to bed early. But probably they will go to watch parties instead and greet 1939 with merriment and conviviality just as the aforesaid elders and youngers will do.

Toscanini to Bring His Orchestra to City

Chicagoans who never have seen Arturo Toscanini conduct will have the opportunity to add that to their musical experience as the result of the work of Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, president of the woman's board of the Passavant hospital.

For three years she has been trying to persuade the great conductor to bring his orchestra here to give a benefit concert for the hospital. At last her efforts have succeeded.

Toscanini and his NBC orchestra will appear in the Auditorium theater on Tuesday night, Jan. 31. This will be his only appearance here; in fact, the only one west of New York. "A real one night stand," Mrs. Kirk called it yesterday at a tea given at the Casino for the women of the board.

Toscanini never has visited Chicago, but he is known to all music lovers through his conducting in New York and abroad. A former concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Mischa Mischakoff, is the concertmaster of the Toscanini orchestra of 100.

Mrs. Kirk is general chairman of the benefit with Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Mrs. Bryan S. Reid and Mrs. James R. Offield as box chairmen.

Junior Assembly Will Be Tonight.

The Casino will be filled tonight with young voices and laughter, not childish, though, for no girl not 15 and no boy not 16 is invited to the junior assembly. It annually is THE party of the Christmas holiday season for the subdebs and their youthful beaux, many of whom have their first white ties for the occasion. Boys who go about at all socially usually get their first dinner coats when they're about 15, and some of them begin wearing the more formal tails when they're 16 or 17.

Among the mothers who will chaperone the party are Mrs. John L. Cochran, Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. Kent Clow, and Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. The Clows are giving a dinner party at the Casino before the dance for their daughter, Frances, who is at home from Foxcroft for the holidays. The Everett D. Graffs of Winnetka are other dinner hosts before the party. They are entertaining for their daughter, Nancy, and their son, Robert, both of whom go to the North Shore Country Day school.

Many of last year's debs will greet the new year at a supper-dance Mrs. Emmons Blaine is giving in her East Erie street home for her granddaughter, Miss Nancy Blaine, who "came out" last year.

Saddle and Cycle Dance to Open New Bar Tonight.

The Saddle and Cycle club's New Year's eve dinner-dance will mark the official opening of its smart new bar and cocktail lounge, designed by Alfred M. Shaw.

The newly done rooms are the first of a series of improvements the club is undertaking. There is to be new landscaping on the lake front side; two paddle tennis courts will be built, two championship grass tennis courts will be constructed, and the dining room and card rooms will be refurnished and redecorated.

Mrs. Sydney P. Waud is in charge of the decorations for the New Year's eve party. Mrs. John Root is looking after the entertainment, which will include a surprise midnight ceremony. The Roots are entertaining at cocktails before the party.

Among those giving dinners are the Joseph T. Ryersons, the Robert A. Gardners, the Fletcher Durbins, the Thomas I. Underwoods, Miss Louise Clarke, Col. and Mrs. Ralph James, the Louis C. Sudlers, the Roots, the James Kempers, and Albert D. Erskine.

The Philip D. Armours are giving their usual New Year's eve watch party. It is to be a small dinner in their Lake Forest home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings are giving a dinner-dance at home tonight for her cousin, Mrs. Hugh M. Groves, and Mr. Groves, who are here from England.

Another Lake Forest party tonight is a dinner-dance Col. and Mrs. Charles C. Haffner are giving.

A gay group of young marrieds who give a Dutch treat costume party every New Year's eve will meet again tonight at the Racquet club.

The Edward Hills and the Robert Hills will give a dance tonight in Winnetka for Miss Ruth Tilden and Robert Mitchell Nelson, who will be married on Jan. 16. The party will be at the home of the parents of the Hill brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farwell Ferry.

Several will celebrate the New Year's week-end by giving ballet parties. Mr. and Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr. are giving a ballet party for their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John De Laittre of Minneapolis.

Others will spend New Year's eve at Orchestra hall or in the Civic Opera house, for there will be gala programs in both places.

Clubs Will Hold Parties Tonight.

The Cliff Dwellers, the Exmoor Country club of Evanston, the Sunset Ridge Country club, the North Shore Country club, and the Lake Shore Athletic club are among the clubs having New Year's eve celebrations.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hixon are giving a luncheon and skating party tomorrow at the Winter club in Lake Forest for their subdeb daughter, Barbara.

Mrs. Thomas G. Cassady of Lake Forest is giving a dinner tomorrow night for her nephew, Allan Janney Hill Jr. of Minneapolis, and Miss Jane Waidner of Hubbard Woods, who will be married on Monday.

Several debutantes are being entertained at dinners and hocky parties tomorrow night. Mr. and Mrs. T. Albert Potter and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Carton are entertaining at dinner at the Drake hotel and a hocky party for Miss Jane Cheney and Miss Edith Farwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Dick are giving a dinner at the Casino for Miss Margaret Burrows, and afterward they are taking their guests to the game. The Charles Renshaws are giving a buffet supper in their home and a hocky party for the Misses Margaret Hutchins, Sally Perry and Mary Ryerson.

Gilbert Scribner, president of the Chicago Yale club, and some of the alumni are giving a dinner tomorrow night for the Yale basketball team, and taking the players to the hocky game. The Yale team will play the University of Chicago on Monday night.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

They're Off at Santa Anita

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 30.

The Field—Lionel Barrymore, Bette Davis and Spencer Tracy were the only former academy winners who were impressive during the 1938 season. They came driving into the homestretch neck and neck; Barrymore astride "You Can't Take It With You"; Bette Davis astride "Jezebel" and "The Sisters," and Tracy aboard "Boys Town." They're so closely bunched at the wire that the academy judges will require a photo finish to split them out.

Wendy Hiller—British filly made 1938 history with her grand performance in "Pygmalion." If she runs back to that impressive race, she'll chase a lot of the glamor girls out of the business.

Loretta Young — Formful miss should turn in a better racing record now that she is out of Zanuck stable, where she suffered from bad handling.

Clark Gable—After ten years of campaigning the Ohio veteran is still the No. 1 heart throb of the world and ranks second only to Shirley Temple as a box office grosser. He inaugurates 1939 with two important pictures, "Idiot's Delight" and "Gone With the Wind," which give him the best post position he's ever had on Jan. 1.

Mickey Rooney—With Joe Yule as his father, it's small wonder that the kid found Santa Claus at every turn of 1938. He should add to his laurels this year because he has a very solid technique.

Tyrone Power—Could use a series of younger and lighter parts in 1939. The fact that character parts haven't ruined this handsome juvenile is a tribute to Power, rather than to the astuteness of his studio.

Elsa Lanchester—Sharp as a tack in "Beachcomber," easily her most impressive performance.

Ann Sheridan—Has had a lot of ballyhoo. Must live up to it in 1939.

Joan Crawford—Had a rough journey throughout 1938; was jostled and bumped at every turn and almost knocked out of contention at Reno. However, she's always at her best when the going is tough, so you can look for improvement.

Luise Rainer—The twice winner of the academy trophy never settled into her real racing stride during the last year. Now that she is back in Odet's barn, look for sharper efforts.

Ann Sothern — Minnesota filly seemed freshened up by year's absence from racing circuits. "Trade Winds" should blow her in an easy winner.

Myrna Loy—Good, honest performer at any distance. Always running at the wire. Return of Bill Powell to "Thin Man" partnership indicates fresh burst of speed in next outing.

John Garfield—If he can measure up to first race at Hollywood oval, this youngster can't be overlooked by form players.

Fredric March—No more consistently satisfying performer in the business than the Wisconsin wizard of ostensibility. He is one Jack-of-all-rôles who is master of most of them.

Edgar Bergen—Still up with the leaders, the public not proving at all fickle in its enjoyment of Charlie McCarthy.

Paul Muni—The 1937 academy winner has not gone to post for a solid year, waiting for "Juarez." So his 1938 rating must be no runs, no hits, no errors, no re-takes.

Jean Arthur—Now that she is back to the celluloid races, this talented miss must be tabbed in every start.

Merle Oberon — Disappointing throughout 1938. Can do a lot better if she gets the chance from Goldwyn or Korda.

Gene Lockhart—Veteran came to life with a stirring portrait in "Algiers" and is running neck-and-neck and nose-and-nose with Robert Morley for the academy supporting performance award.

Claudette Colbert—Never seemed to hit her real stride in 1938, due to the fact that the pictures in which she played never quite came off. Look for improvement.

Basil Rathbone—Had one of his best years in 1938. Fans liked him best in "If I Were King"; this reporter liked him best in "Tovarich."

David Niven — After a series of promising efforts, Niven crashed through in "Dawn Patrol" to certify his talent.

Olivia de Havilland — Failed to measure up to the high things expected of her in 1938. Innocuous rôles must be avoided in 1939.

Andrea Leeds — This youngster never has measured up to the promise displayed in "Stage Door." Other directors have not handled her as skillfully as did Gregory La Cava.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. — Enjoyed one of his biggest years in 1938, and his performance in "The Young in Heart" was his most resourceful. He should travel fast from now on.

Danielle Darrieux—French filly is the best foreign performer to come to these shores in too many years. She went to post only once but showed a flash of speed that left the clockers gasping. Tab next time out.

Errol Flynn—Topped off a big season by toppling Aiden Roark, but there is no academy award for parlor thumping.

Fred Astaire — Closed out RKO career and ended partnership with Ginger Rogers. Racing plans uncertain at the moment, but you will see him often, not improbably at M-G-M.

Ginger Rogers—Will groove career along smart comedy lines in 1939, with Ina Claire as a pattern. She is worth a bet any time, as she has ambition, intelligence and talent, a trinity that always can sign checks and have them honored.

The Housewife

If you want an attractive finish for the tops of your bedroom curtains try one of the lovely festoon valances of celanese voile that are available ready made and at an astonishingly low price. These valances are so fashioned that they hang down in rich folds over the curtains and also hang at either end, in points, as they are draped over ivory metal brackets. These brackets are sold with the festoons.

If you wish you can also buy standard sized curtains of the same material to match. Or you can use a powder blue festoon valance over an eggshell curtain, or a rose over beige and the like.

In the collection we saw the following colors are available: Peach, powder blue, beige, eggshell, and rose-beige. The festoons are finished with a silk fringe edge.

EDITH WEIGLE.

Hails Old 1938 for Its Return to Feminine Style

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Looking backward! One of the dizziest revolutions ever staged in fashion history . . . the return of the lady. Because of the new upswept hair-do that revealed the long-ambushed necks and ears we got the doll hats. The pan-lid sized concoctions required a slick sense of balance to wear and an even temper to withstand the concerted gibes of the populace.

Hoop skirts brought consternation to taxi drivers and the escorts of tender years who didn't know how to cope with yardage. Hoop skirts gave all the old beaux a chance to sentimentalize while relaying proper escort etiquet to the young lads. The year 1938 saw the revival of sentimental fashions, ruffles, flounces, petticoats, and even pantalets.

The strapless ball gowns added a new excitement in every ballroom. Flowers nestled coyly in the curls, old-fashioned jewelry was dug out of attic trunks, heavy lockets, stuffed with a lock of hair and a best beau's picture, hung around the throats of nearly all susceptible young belles. Femme fatale earrings dangled down to meet the shoulders. Thick matching bracelets and chest pins were fashioned of such old-fashioned charmers as seed pearls, coral and black onyx. Gold tassels graced the loveliest of waltz gowns, picture perfect Winterhalter copies in stiff brocades and satins and velvet.

The most glamorous of foot fashions walked in to stun the shoppers. Platform soles added a good half inch to the height for daytime. Sandals for gala occasions glittered with jewels embedded in the two inch high soles of colored suede, satin, or metallics.

Equally new were the monastic dresses, those cut with yards of fabric with no more shape than a sack, all to be belted around the middle with a wide barbaric belt. New, also, the picturesque 1938 wool evening coats . . . cut like a guardsman's great coat, complete to gold braid and flashing sequins. Then came the dinner jackets of pale pink flannel, acid green wool, or raspberry red wool, all resplendently afire with silver or gold braid and simulated jewelry.

Ahead, we fervently hope, will come the end of the darn dirndls, the finish of the handkerchiefs you wrap around your head, the complete obliteration of sloppy socks and footgear. We hope for the proper appreciation of a smooth streamline, the kind that is achieved with good control [girdles, corsets or whatever they'll be labeled].

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Chicagoan Is Named Head of Music at Paramount

Louis R. Lipstone, musical director and production head for the Balaban & Katz circuit, yesterday was named head of the music department of the Paramount studio in Hollywood. He succeeds Boris Morros, who resigned. Mr. Lipstone, whose home is at 2920 Commonwealth avenue, joined the Balaban & Katz organization twenty years ago as a violinist at the Central Park theater on the west side.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We haven't tried it, but we're told that the preparation for the "hangover bath," which we mentioned a week ago, is now on the shelves. This, you may remember, is the newest New York offering for relief on the morning after. All those expecting a big New Year's eve, please note!

Another of the excitements around town is a new manicure, developed by people who know the manicure situation inside out. It's offered at various salons and is perfectly wonderful for nails that split, chip, break off, or peel. During the manicure the nails are immersed one at a time in a heated emulsified oil that does for the nails what a facial does for the dry, parched complexion.

The little container used for the oil is thermostatically controled and there is no danger of the oil being too hot or too cold. For very troublesome nails one of these corrective manicures a week is an excellent program to follow. Extremely cold weather, by the way, has something to do with making your nails more dry and flaky than usual.

A taffeta purse kit, daintily sacheted, and costing very little, is a grand little thing to own in these days of pig purses. It holds your compact, lipstick, comb, and half a doen other things in perfect order in its clever compartments. Until you own one you've no idea what a contribution it is to orderliness of the pocketbook.

Debutante Season Ends

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Mary Louise Corley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Corley, made her debut the night after Christmas at a supper-dance at the Casino. Miss Jane Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, made her formal bow to society at the same party.

Miss Corley does not return to her studies at Bennington college until the middle of February, but this does not mean she will be having a vacation until then, for Bennington students have to do field work in their chosen specialty during the long winter vacation.

Miss Corley, who is specializing in international relations, has an intensive reading program mapped out, and now that the debutante season officially is ended she will start on the program. The season ended last night with Miss Mary Ryerson's ball at the Blackstone hotel.

Good Morning!

If pining for uproarious farce
To make ris-i-bles quiver
I fondly recommend the film
That's known as "Up the River."
[A "three star" movie of 1930, with Spencer Tracy, Warren Hymer and Claire Luce then in the leads.]
It is a satire broad and gay
Upon our jails and football,
And kids in an un-us-ual way
That never of-fends AT all.
It treats of crooks—with hearts of gold
Too wicked to mete pardons,
Whose prowess on the grid-i-ron
Makes them the pets of wardens.
It tells of wardens—foxy guys
Who these lads gently treat 'em
[It's not grammar, but it makes sense],
Lest in a game with rival jails
More pampered convicts beat 'em.
It has its fun with prison shows
And through it runs a romance
"Big House; small house in tiny town
Are all giv-en a fine chance
To hold your int'rest, and to make
You hold your sides with laughter.
Which last—as old year turns to new
Is what, I guess, we're after.
The acting? It is superfine.
Direction? It's the berries.
The dialog is sure to make
A guy [or guyess] forget his [or her] worries.
'Tis all around good medicine
For what, my darlings, ails you.
So—take a tip from Auntie Mae
Who with advice ne'er fails you.
See you next year.

Children's Play and Bathing Suits Simple to Knit

X—165

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Lucky the youngsters who are traveling southward with their parents to catch the rays of the sun during the winter months. They must have knitted bathing and play suits for their wardrobes. The 2 and 3 year olds may rate as many changes as their mother in the line of bathing suits, because only a small amount of yarn is required for each suit. Made of cotton, they are ideal play suits for hot summer days.

For instructions for knitting the play and swim suits for the 2 and 3 year olds, No. X-165, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright, 1938, By Elizabeth York Miller.]

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy receives a letter from India from her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heartbroken Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob. Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy, a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob, hoping he'll call off the wedding, but Bob goes through with it. Their wedding night Bob tells Nora he married her for convenience, too. They agree their marriage will be in name only. Bob and his sister's husband, David Longton, are in the aircraft armament business for the government. Clesy Longton tells Nora that Mrs. Almy, who used to work in their office, is suspected of giving away the firm's secrets to a rival. Nora dismisses the housekeeper, Mrs. Cooper, when she finds her conspiring with Mrs. Almy. Bob is in danger of being arrested for double crossing his country. A government man, Capt. Grew, arrives at Fairways and Bob invites him to stay for an informal party. He tells Bob he is investigating Mrs. Almy, Bob's suspected mistress. Nora hears him. Mrs. Almy is plotting with Jim to steal plans that night from the Fairways Tower room safe. Pearl faints just after Jim has pretended to leave, but Mrs. Callender sees him going through the housekeeper's quarters. Bob takes Pearl home and returns to Nora with lipstick on his face. He doesn't explain that Pearl forced her Judas kiss on him. He thinks Nora gave Jim a duplicate key to the Tower room, but she convinces him otherwise. Frightened, Pearl and Jim make a hasty getaway.

INSTALMENT XXX.

UNDER ARREST.

Beals was told to show Capt. Grew up to the Tower room.

"Everybody's at church except me," said Bob. "Glad you came along early. I've been shoveling snow. It may be a healthy exercise, but it's a bit strenuous. Wait a minute, Beals. What would you like, captain? A whisky and soda or ——"

"Nothing at all, thank you," Grew replied very firmly.

"Well, perhaps you're right. Nothing, Beals. . . . What do you think of my little lookout?"

Capt. Grew said it certainly gave a very fine view of the countryside, but couldn't they get down to business?

Bob seemed to hestitate.

"We could," he said, "only unfortunately ——" He left the sentence unfinished.

"You mean you still can't give us proof that the plans for the bomber are intact and in your possession?"

Bob inclined his head. "They were in my possession, and quite intact—but not at the moment. I mean, I can't deliver them to you until tomorrow morning, as I promised I would."

The man from the home office had expected something like this.

"I understood that you had them here, in this house," he said.

Bob drew aside the tapestry curtain that concealed his secret safe.

"I had them right here," he said.

He twiddled the combination and opened the safe door.

"It seems a reasonably secure hiding place, although I now realize that perhaps it isn't."

"Are you going to tell me those plans have been stolen?" Capt. Grew demanded. "Is that your story?"

"Does it matter about that if I turn up with them tomorrow morning, as I told your men I would do?"

"I am afraid," Capt. Grew said firmly, "that you must consider yourself under arrest until you do produce them. You seem to think this is some sort of a game."

Bob was staring out of the window, and a fine bead of perspiration gathered around his mouth and damped his forehead.

"Eh? What's that? I thought I was only 'under observation'."

He turned and reached for a pair of field glasses that lay on the table, and returning to the window again trained them on Pearl Almy's cottage.

"So Bonzo goes too," he muttered under his breath.

Bob came back and dropped the field glasses onto the table again.

"Can't you give me my freedom until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning?"

"I'm afraid not."

"I have guests in my house."

"I can only suggest that you put up with one more."

"O, that's what you mean! Why, with pleasure, my dear fellow. Move in, by all means. I will tell Beals to make up a bed for you in my dressing room if you want to be near me. I thought you meant handcuffs and no option."

"I don't trust you any further than I can see you," Capt. Grew said darkly, "but I don't mind taking a chance. If I don't give an order to have your telephone calls tapped, or send for a couple of our men to patrol the house, will you give me your word not to attempt to move from Fairways without me, or to use your telephone without my knowledge?"

"At a pinch I can promise all that, but you are making it dashed awkward for me," Bob said doubtfully. "Well—I am at your service. May I take the liberty of suggesting that as it is nearly lunchtime we might go downstairs now?"

Capt. Grew ignored the irony.

The churchgoers were already grouped in the lounge hall and Beals was passing sherry.

It was unfortunate for Bob that David Longton gave him a haunted look of inquiry and that Nora, too, most obviously had something on her mind.

"O, Bob ——" she began, and then broke off, as all eyes were turned on her. But she was conscious most of Capt. Grew's quick interest.

"It's . . . nothing," she added quickly.

Cissy, with no ulterior motive, was trying to engage the captain in lively conversation, but he wasn't letting his attention waver.

Nora maneuvered a position near Bob.

"There's something I've got to tell you," she said under her breath.

He gave her a sharp look, but his voice was casual.

"It will have to keep, I'm afraid," he said.

Beals was just announcing lunch.

The meal had hardly begun when Bob said: "Capt. Grew tells me he is in the home office. . . ."

This was no news to David and Nora, but everybody else seemed pleasantly surprised. Even Cissy didn't seem to realize what a personal bearing the remark had upon her brother, and the fortunes of her husband.

The captain, himself, betrayed what was probably his modesty by a deep blush, but it might have been strangled annoyance.

"Tell me, captain—I've always wanted to know," Bob went on. "When you chaps are sleuthing some poor devil—I mean, when you still haven't got the goods on him—is he allowed a reasonable amount of liberty?"

The harassed young man darted him a spiteful look.

"O, I know he'd be allowed to see his lawyer privately—at least, I suppose he would. But how does he stand where his wife is concerned, if she happens to be more or less in the same boat with him? Could he, for instance, see her alone, or perhaps take a little afternoon stroll with her out of earshot of the johnny who was shadowing him?"

The Rawlings were plainly puzzled, but Cissy was beginning to understand and her pretty face registered acute dismay.

"Certainly not," Capt. Grew rapped out.

"Ah, I thought not," Bob said regretfully. He made a little gesture. "I believe Beals wants you to have some hors d'œuvres."

The disgruntled captain turned abruptly.

And then the tinkle of the telephone bell was heard from Bob's study.

Everybody sat to attention until Beals came in and said the call was for Mr. Rawlings.

Mrs. Rawlings dropped her knitting and exclaimed, "O, I wonder. . . ?"

And sure enough it was so, for in a moment her husband came bounding back with the air of a frisky old ram.

"You'd never guess, Ettie!" he cried.

"I would so," she retorted. "Is it a girl or a boy?"

"Ah, ha, I knew you wouldn't guess. It's a girl and a boy!"

"Twins!" shrieked Mrs. Rawlings. "Well, I don't know that I'm surprised at that. How's Joan?"

"All doing fine. Johnny rang me up, himself."

"Our daughter," Mrs. Rawlings explained to Capt. Grew. "We didn't expect this for another week or two."

There were exclamations and congratulations, and Bob ordered up the inevitable champagne.

Then it developed that Mr. and Mrs. Rawlings felt they had to return home immediately, and could they get a train?

Bob placed his car and chauffeur at their disposal and as soon as they had packed they were off.

Bob came back from saying good-by with a look of immense relief.

Fashion Tricks Lend Hips an Illusion of Slimness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Every so often a woman will approach us with a look in her eye we recognize now, and exclaim: "What can I do for my hips?" Often we look and inquire, where are they? What's the matter with them?

Men don't like hiplessness. They admire the figure with hips, because it makes a woman look like a woman.

However, if hips have spread beyond the admiration stage they should be streamlined. There are a few tricks of dress to aid, while you are getting them planed down in the natural way, meaning by the diet and exercise route.

Because the wide hips complained of usually are found with a slender waist which exaggerates the hip width, camouflage is effected by raising the waistline of the frock. The trick is to give a smooth, sloping line instead of showing the suddenly outjutting shelf of the actual hips. Take the tip given by Margaretta Byers, author of that clever book, "Designing Women" [Simon & Schuster], who gives you another hip planing dress help:

"Flare the skirt from the hips and wear it about an inch longer than the prevailing style. No hobble skirts to grip you around the knees, and throw the hips into relief. Then, the longer you wear your gored skirt, within reason, of course, the more fullness you have at the hem to belittle your hips."

Build up the bust and shoulders with detail. Wear padded or epaulet shoulders. Never wear raglan sleeves. Elbow length capes will broaden the shoulders, too. All these devices minimize the hips.

Use diagonal lines below the waist, you also are told. Set the skirt onto the bodice in an upward point or set pockets in the skirt slantwise. And never outline the hips at their equator by wearing a hip length jacket squared off at the bottom. Lines pointing away from the hips, leading the eye upward toward the bodice, are your basic motif.

Scolding and Haste Snarl a Baby's Routine

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

It isn't until you stop and think, or until some night you're asleep on your feet and can hardly get undressed that you realize how largely the care of small children is physical care.

If we think in terms of percentages, I really believe we might say that 90 per cent of the care of our children when they're little consists of doing physical things for them, teaching them certain physical habits, and watching over them to prevent bodily harm.

Because of this it is tremendously important that we carry out this physical program in the happiest and most skilful way. Tied up with this is our whole relationship with our children. But it is because so many young parents don't realize this, because they think of a child's bath as just a bath, his meals as food to be eaten as quickly as possible, his going to bed a mere business proposition that they handle these routines so unsuccessfully.

So, are you having trouble with your baby's or little boy's or girl's eating habits? Is his or her sleeping schedule for night or nap shot to pieces? Does his toileting seem to be a total failure? Do you feel, on the whole, a sense of inadequacy in the way you are handling his routines? Does it seem that you are getting no results?

Or, worse, does it seem as though you are getting bad results—such as crying and resisting, and stubbornness, for all your effort at training?

Naturally, there are various reasons why you may be unsuccessful, but just now there are two that I know you would do well to consider.

The first is the matter of praise and blame, and pleasantness and unpleasantness. The baby's and the little child's happiness depend greatly upon you; your praise and pleasantness are something they love and try to win. If their sleep, their eating, and their toileting are associated with pleasantness, if their efforts are regarded with praise, you are on the road to success. Blame and disapproval are disconcerting and discouraging to them, and are often the chief obstacles to success.

The other reason for your lack of results in training may be because these routines are for the baby associated with rush and hurry, and the impatience which follows in their train. The sense of ease and repose that comes with a leisurely, quiet handling of routines paves the way for success and for actual pleasure in the doing. And this applies to all the routines: To eating, bathing, getting ready for nap, and night sleep, to dressing and to toileting. "Hurry!" is a devastating word to use to a young child.

Try out these two suggestions and see if they don't help a lot.

Senator Sheppard Gives Dry Debut for Daughter

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Senator Morris Sheppard's daughter, Lucile, 18, made her début tonight—without benefit of alcoholic refreshments. Most capital débuts this year have meant champagne or cocktails or spiked punch, but there was none tonight. "It's our custom," explained Mrs. Sheppard. Senator Sheppard, Texas Democrat, helped write national prohibition into the constitution.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I felt like the star quarter back who not only calls a spectacular play but actually catches the pass that wins the game. I was playing in a team-of-four match, before kibitzers three deep, when the following hand came up:

"South, dealer.

"Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q 6
♥ J 7 2
♦ A K J 8 4 3

WEST
♥ 9 6 5 3
♦ 10

♥ Q 10 8 4
♦ Q 7 6
♣ K 10 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠ A K J 10 8 7 5 3
♥ A K
♦ 9 5 2
♣ None

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 no tr'p	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
6 spades	Pass	7 spades [final bid]

"I think my partner [North] bid very well in taking me to seven, not that I feel there were any flies on me.

"West opened the club ace [with any other opening lead the contract could not be made, but not to open it would be double dummy, I think]. I ruffed and drew two rounds of trumps, played over to the ace of diamonds, and reëntered my hand with the heart ace. I then cashed the king of hearts and played three of my trumps, discarding diamonds from dummy.

"At this point dummy held heart jack, diamonds K-J, club queen. I held spades 7-5, diamonds 9-5. I had to decide how to play the diamonds. Cashing dummy's diamond king would win if each of the opponents had one [this occurs half the time]. If West had both it would lose. If East had both it would lose if I played the diamond now.

"But I saw a way to make the hand [without hurting my chances if the diamonds were divided] even if East held both diamonds, provided that he also held certain other cards. East probably held the club king in view of the opening lead. If he also held the heart queen and the diamond queen-seven, a trump lead [on which I would discard the diamond jack] would squeeze him. If he discarded the high heart or club dummy's heart or club would be good. If he discarded a diamond I would lead to dummy's king, dropping the queen, reënter my hand by ruffing with my last trump, and cash my diamond, which would now be high. If the diamonds were evenly divided the two diamonds would fall as I played to dummy's king and my cards would be good.

"East did hold all these cards, as you can see. He discarded the low diamond and I made the hand. Some of the kibitzers humorously [I hope] remarked that I must have peeked, but since they had trouble understanding the play even after I explained it, I'm sure you will agree that it took much more than good eyesight.

"S. S., New York."

There isn't much that I can add to this description of a beautifully bid, played, and analyzed hand. Declarer used a variety of trump squeeze combined with a Vienna coup. It will be noted that though it was unlikely that West should hold all the key cards in view of his opening lead, the squeeze would have operated against him if he had held them, as well as it actually did against East.

Rich Girl and Poor Man Find Love a Tangle

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Steve admits to extreme bashfulness but proceeds to tell how he has done pretty well on the girl problem. He has had three in his life already. One he gave up because she was always doubting his word. The second one just asked to be let go free as she didn't want to have her name tied to one young man yet. The third and present girl is a social maid and she means business. She has broached the subject several times about their getting married. Their courtship has extended into a year period now. Steve feels that the girl is out of his class, socially and financially. He has made long and repeated visits at her father's country estate. All the year he has been seeing her. The expense to him has been less than twenty dollars, the girl insisting upon footing the bills.

"She knows I work for a very small wage and she won't let me spend a cent on her. I just buy her flowers when we go out. I insist on that. I hate the idea of being a sponger, yet I like the girl a lot. I can't see how, when, and where we'll ever be able to marry. She has been used to everything. She has the most indulgent father on earth. She says he will provide for us in case we can't see ourselves through, but I couldn't bear to be dependent on any one like that.

"Please don't think I am kidding. I am dead earnest about the whole thing. What's your idea? STEVE."

Our idea, Steve, is that bashfulness is not one of your failings. Nor an inferiority complex, as your postscript suggests. Which we are glad of, of course. You are merely up against a problem in love that is enormously difficult to solve.

You like a girl whose life has been steeped in easy money. You see yourself as unequal to the strain of keeping it up. You are simply using your head, and your character is not wanting to be made a mendicant of or a stooge in place of a self-respecting husband is admirable.

You would enjoy being the man who could provide. You hate being on the receiving end always. Wouldn't it be a sane idea to tell the girl frankly and for the last time that you have to pull out until such time as you are earning enough to hold up your end in a self-respecting manner. If you go on accepting and accepting you eventually will become a victim of the easiest way out, which is the most character eroding fate you can wish on yourself.

Army and Navy Club to Hold 15th Annual Ball on January 28

The quarters will be opened tonight with a wedding party for Lieut. M. S. DeMoraes and his bride, the former Miss Maria Teresa Camunas. They are being married earlier this evening at St. Jerome's church. The bridegroom, a graduate of Purdue university, served with the 144th Engineers in the world war and now is a member of the Brazilian army, residing in Chicago. His bride is from Porto Rica.

Many At Homes Will Be Held on New Year's Day

Tomorrow will be a day on which every one who is not receiving in her own home will do much gadding about, for there are dozens of New Year's at-homes planned.

The largest is the reception President and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago are giving in their south side home. They have invited 1,000 of the faculty and their families. Assisting will be the wives of about twenty of the faculty members, including Mrs. Frederic Woodward and Mrs. Emery T. Filbey, whose husbands are vice presidents of the university.

The William S. Monroes will be at home for the 28th consecutive time on New Year's day in their apartment in East Elm street. They and their son, Henry Stanton Monroe, will receive and serve eggnog from 4 to 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank's New Year's day reception will be for their son, Benjamin Ayer Fairbank, and his bride, who returned from a honeymoon in Arizona to spend the holidays with the Fairbanks and her parents, the Ralph H. Hobarts of Winnetka. Ben Fairbank and his wife will live in Boston.

The Stanley Fields are giving a buffet luncheon at their home in Lake Forest tomorrow.

The Henry S. Buntings will serve eggnogs from 12 until 2 o'clock, also at home in Lake Forest.

The Charles Y. Freemans are having their usual eggnog party. Many of the men attending the Chicago club's annual New Year's day luncheon will return to the Freemans' to join their wives.

The Calvin Fentresses are holding their usual New Year's at-home after 5 o'clock in their Hubbard Woods home.

ENGAGEMENTS

Prof. and Mrs. E. Preston Dargan of the University of Chicago announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie, to Albert Howard Carter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Carter of Oak Park. Miss Dargan is a graduate of the Art institute. Mr. Carter is an instructor in the English department of the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Charles W. Popper of 547 Surf street announces the engagement of her daughter, Louise, to Max Hess Weinberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Weinberg of the Park Shore hotel. Mr. Weinberg is a graduate of the University of Michigan and of the Harvard Law school. The wedding will take place in March.

Mr. and Mrs. William Joseph of 907 Winona street announce the engagement of their daughter, Harriet, to Irving Winner, son of Morris Winner of St. Paul, Minn.

David H. Annans will serve at their home from 4 until 7 tomorrow.

For the first time in many years John R. Leonard is not giving his New Year's at home, and the Leonard family will scatter to other parties.

The John L. Fortunes' eggnog party will be for their son, Peter, and his fiancée, Miss Charlotte Hubbard.

The Onwentsia and Indian Hill clubs are holding open house tomorrow, and the Glen View is serving a New Year's day luncheon. The James A. Cathcarts and the Samuel J. Walkers are entertaining at luncheon and winter sports at the Onwentsia tomorrow for Debutante Molly Hill.

The Wirt Mortons have invited their friends to drink to the new year with them at their home in Lake Forest from 12 to 2 o'clock.

In the same north shore town the Glen Samples are giving a New Year's party from 4 to 7 o'clock.

The David McDougals and the J. McWilliams Stones will receive together as usual. This year the party will be at the Stones' home in Wayne. The McDougals live in Geneva.

The Ralph Davises and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Scott, will be at home from 3 until 6 o'clock in the Scotts' home in Geneva.

The William Burdett Johnsons will be at home in Evanston from 5 to 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sommer Vested, who were married in Winnetka last April, are giving an eggnog party from 3 o'clock in their apartment on Cedar street.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Sheldon, who returns this morning from Memphis, Tenn., where she has been visiting, and her brother, John, are giving a tea tomorrow from 5 until 7 in their home in Glencoe.

Dr. and Mrs. Augustus Hollands are giving a tea to introduce their daughter, Miss Phyllis Elsa Hollands, to their friends in their home in Kenilworth tomorrow afternoon. Dr. and Mrs. Hollands gave a tea-dance for their daughter's friends at the North Shore club on Sept. 9.

Following a custom they established many years ago, Mrs. Nicholas Martin, her daughter, Mrs. George Millard Willetts, and Mrs. Willetts' daughter, Miss Anne Ward Willetts, will be at home on New Year's day.

Mr. and Mrs. Hymen Lewis Raclin, who are spending the winter at the Belden-Stratford hotel, will open their home in Winnetka for a New Year's day reception.

Thousand Employes of Tribune Join Plan for Hospital Care

Nine hundred and ninety-two employés of THE TRIBUNE and 1,243 members of their families now are enrolled in the Plan for Hospital Care as a result of a new enrollment. It represents an increase of membership among employés of 45 per cent, and among members of their families 73 per cent over the original enrollment in December, 1937.

During the year 123 employés or members of their families entered hospitals and used more than 1,000 days of care.

The new plan, providing full benefits for the entire family and permitting inclusion of relatives not in the immediate family, was announced Nov. 1.

"Eggless, Etc." Cake May Have Fruits Added

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

For thirty years a reader of ours has made her Christmas fruit cakes using the old "eggless, butterless, milkless" cake recipe, adding candied fruits to her own liking. This year she lost her recipe and telephoned for ours.

It is such an inexpensive sort of thing that I thought other readers would be interested in a reprint of the recipe, even though the official fruit-cake baking season has passed.

Eggless, Butterless, Milkless Cake.

1 cup brown sugar
1-3 cup lard
1 1-3 cups water
2 cups raisins
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-8 teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda

Put brown sugar, lard, water, raisins, and spices in a saucepan and boil for 2 minutes, timing after the mixture has come to a full boil. Cool to room temperature and stir in the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder and soda. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes.

A man reader has this to say about a recent column on coffee-making: "Regardless of past experience [he makes a hobby of coffee brewing] I tried your method. Ouch and yet again wow! Shades of aspirin and quinine. Too, too strong, Miss Meade, too strong. Using your advice and a coffee that is worthy of the name, the resultant brew will just about take off from within the cup."

I never have written a story about coffeemaking without at least one or two protests. We all like our coffee in our own way! In this case, the gentleman objects to my recommendation of 2 tablespoons coffee per cup of water. He uses "one heaping tablespoon." The old-fashioned "heaping tablespoon is the approximate equivalent of 2 level tablespoons, the accurate measure. Of course, if one prefers coffee weaker than that, a smaller amount should be used. All I want to say is that this is the average, the measurement recommended by the majority of coffee manufacturers and makers of coffeemaking utensils. But I appreciate Mr. M's interest nevertheless. A representative of a coffee maker called on us the day his letter came, to express gratitude for a "sensible story" about making coffee. It's all in how one likes the brew!

OTHER INTERESTING READER LETTERS: The one from a woman who has been confined to her bed for three years, but makes a hobby of cooking in spite of that. Her husband has bought her many electrical appliances which she is able to use, and she spends many hours preparing foods and pasting recipes in her cookery scrapbook. . . . The one from "an old man who likes to eat and read of cooking." He wants "to exploit the lowly pancake" and suggests that there are numberless possibilities in varying pancakes by adding extra ingredients to the batter. He's right. But he says that when he tried on his niece pancakes with ground meat she replied, "Nurtz, uncle. I don't think much of it."

BOVINE GLOBE-TROTTERS

By CALEB

A COW'S personality perishes with the cow herself. But her ghost, so to speak—that serviceable portion of her anatomy which was once her hide—lives on and on, continuing the usefulness of man's most useful animal.

For cowhides become leather goods, and leather goods become travelers—even unto the ends of the earth. And as one enters our first-floor luggage section, his amazement at the versatility of manufacturers is well warranted. For ingenuity here has kept abreast of Travel itself—in the variety, durability, beauty and convenience combined to meet every purpose of those who board car, train, plane or ship for Elsewhere.

Time was when all animal skins were tanned before using to make luggage, and thus became leather. The great majority of travel goods not made in fabrics still appear in that form. But today a new and interesting note greets the Field visitor in a score of hand-luggage styles, with full complement of trunks to match, which are still cowhide—but not leather! For distinction's sake the maker refers to them as "Rawhide," which is actually what the material is. Supplied in three finishes—Natural, Sorrel and a rich Antique Brown—bags, suitcases and other articles of this type achieve a "character" never before associated with travel goods.

Thanks to a special process which renders tanning unnecessary, the individual markings and dark-or-light areas peculiar to each skin in its natural state are preserved instead of lost. No two pieces are precisely alike, yet a group of such pieces is distinguished by "family resemblance" that definitely enhances ownership satisfaction.

As for the ingenuity of luggage makers aforementioned — it seems to cover every travel requirement to perfection. Here a "Skyrobe," enabling its possessor to fold four or six dresses in the top, without wrinkling, and then use the entire case for other packing needs . . . yonder a massive trunk with built-in turntable at bottom, five floors, and twenty hangers—suggest the coverage offered modern travelers, whether for over-night or round-the-world.

Luring news of tour and cruise already in the air finds traffic to and through our Luggage Section logically on the rise. But it is characteristic of Field policy that style and quality in line with the discriminating needs of its patrons were never better represented on our floors than they are now.

MILK CO-OP HEAD SEEKS U. S. HELP TO ESCAPE TRIAL

Dickers with Wallace in Trust Suit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Arthur H. Lauterbach, general manager of the Pure Milk Association of Chicago, today discussed with Dr. E. W. Gaumnitz, chief of the dairy division of the department of agriculture, the association's petition for a milk marketing agreement and license for the Chicago area. No definite agreement was reached.

The association, a farmers' coöperative supplying most of the fluid milk for the Chicago area, is a defendant in the federal government's anti-trust suit against Chicago milk interests. Last week the association filed a petition with the secretary of agriculture for a license which would permit the same practices for which the association was indicted. The explanation was that it would save defense costs.

No Promises Made.

After the conference, which began this morning and extended into the afternoon, both sides agreed that the discussions dealt only with details of the petition and the Chicago milk market in general.

Agriculture officials said that no promises were made that the secretary of agriculture would order a hearing on the petition, at least soon. They said that it mostly depends upon the attitude of the department of justice, since it is prosecuting the association.

Before boarding a train for Chicago this afternoon, Lauterbach said:

"There have been no definite results. We are still talking. I think this is purely a matter between us and the secretary of agriculture. If he feels that he has something to work on and wants to take it up with the justice department, that's up to him."

Trial Likely to Proceed.

Lauterbach did not discuss the situation with justice officials and said further that he had no intention of doing so.

Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust operations, said yesterday concerning the petition that: "Frankly my attitude is that they can work out anything they want to but it won't do them any good to come in here."

Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general, in charge of the Chicago milk case, is now en route from California to Chicago and it is considered likely that he will discuss the case with agriculture officials.

So far it appears the Pure Milk association and union officials, who visited here yesterday, have reached an impasse in their efforts to escape prosecution.

Up to Justice Department.

Agriculture officials told the Chicagoans that the milk case is "the baby of the department of justice" and approval by that department must first be given before any definite action can be taken on the petition, which would allow public hearings and then give the secretary of agriculture dictatorial powers over the Chicago milk area, if the result of the hearings is favorable to the petition.

Justice officials are careful to give the impression that they are not dickering for a consent decree, which would avoid prosecution of the defendants in return for a promise to do as the government dictates.

As the situation now stands the defendants will stand trial, but discussions on the pure milk petition will continue and if Secretary of Agriculture Wallace sees a chance for getting a marketing agreement and license through he will intercede with justice officials.

SCHOOL BUDGET OF $80,000,000 GOES TO BOARD

$4,284,306 Increase in Building Fund.

The board of education yesterday received a tentative draft of its 1939 budget providing for expenditures of $80,715,553, an increase of $6,386,839 over the amount for this year. A $4,284,306 boost in the building fund to continue the construction program started this year accounts for most of the difference.

Included in the building account is a federal grant of $3,687,000 which is set up as part of the revenue and as an appropriation. Increased taxes in this account amount to only $678,877. These are necessary to help match the grant, according to the board's financial experts.

Enrollment Shows Shift.

Next year's estimated appropriation for the educational fund is $55,895,416, which is $1,700,536 more than was appropriated in 1938. Board officials explained that the increase is necessary to provide for the normal growth of the school system.

School enrollment is shifting from the elementary grades to the high schools, records show. The number of pupils in the lower grades has declined because of a drop in the birth rate. But with the high school enrollment at an all time peak it is costing more to operate the schools.

In its present form the budget does not provide for any increases in salaries or lengthening of the school term, which is now two weeks short of what it was before the depression. A tax levy of $47,375,000 replacing the $45,000,000 pegged levies of 1938 and 1939 is necessary to keep the schools operating in line with this year's policies.

Need Approval of Legislature.

Increased taxes for the education expense must be approved by the legislature. The additional tax money will replace $1,500,000 which was diverted from the board's share of the motor fuel tax for relief purposes.

The following table shows the tentative appropriations by funds for next year compared with the actual appropriations for 1938:

Fund—	1939.	1938.
Educational	$55,895,416	$54,194,880
Building	16,282,400	11 998,145
Free text book	854,556	1,002,879
Playground	664,314	473,723
Teachers' pension	1,659,181	1,565,543
Bond redemption	3,066,666	2,905,000
Bond service	798,010	780,874
Spec. funds income	95,000	50,670
Lunch room	1,400,000	1,357,000

The report of Howard P. Savage, business manager of the board, shows resources for 1939 amounting to $80,881,784, which is slightly in excess of the appropriations. The budget draft was accepted by the board pending public hearings which start on Jan. 11.

JUDGE PROTESTS DEPUTIES NAMED TO INDIANA JOBS

The scheduled appointments of Benjamin Schwartz of East Chicago as new chief deputy prosecutor of Lake county, Ind., and of Fred Stults of Gary as new chief deputy sheriff were attacked yesterday by Judge T. Joseph Sullivan of the Circuit and Juvenile courts at Crown Point.

Schwartz and Stults are expected to take office this afternoon after Prosecutor Elect Felix Kaul and Sheriff Elect John Knotts, who were elected last month, are sworn.

Judge Sullivan wrote duplicate letters to Kaul and Knotts on Dec. 12, protesting the appointments. He made the letters public yesterday. In them he said he felt duty bound to protest the appointments as being against the public interest. He refused last night to amplify his objections.

Sheriff Elect Knotts said his appointment of Stults would stand. Prosecutor Elect Kaul had no comment.

SHRINERS' HUGE CHARITY CIRCUS OPENS TONIGHT

The second annual Shrine winter circus will open at 8 o'clock tonight in the International amphitheater. It is open to the public. Proceeds will go to Shriners' charities for crippled children, orphans, and the aged. After tonight, two performances will be given daily through Jan. 15. It is sponsored by Medinah temple.

Clyde Beatty and his Bengal tigers and Nubian lions, including his spinning and rolling tiger, are among the headliners in a long list of acts recruited from all the big tent shows. The Flying Concellos and Antoinette head the aerial stars. Antoinette is the only woman of the big top who does a triple somersault to a catch in midair.

The program consists of sixty-four acts in three rings. There will be sixty clowns. Scores of acrobats and aerial stunt artists will perform.

JAIL FATHER WHO GAVE FAMILY OF 6 ONLY $12 IN 7 YRS.

Because his former wife said he had contributed only $12 toward supporting her and their five little children in seven years, Otto Hoffman was sent to jail yesterday for six months. Judge Joseph Sabath, veteran of the divorce courts, said in sentencing him, "This is the worst case of nonsupport that has come before me."

Mrs. Catherine Hoffman, 33 years old, told the judge she divorced Hoffman last week. She lives at 2733 Lawrence avenue. Her family would have starved, she said, except for help from her relatives. Hoffman, sought since May, was arrested at 6101½ South Kedzie avenue.

Pardon French in Spain Who Ignored Call to Arms

PARIS, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies voted pardons today to all French members of government Spain's international brigade who failed to respond to France's mobilization during the Czecho-Slovak crisis in September.

CAT IS 'SHAH' IN FRENCH, SO IRAN SHAH IS ANGRY

He Severs Relations with France.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 30.—Because of a headline and picture caption in a Paris newspaper on Nov. 3 with reference to the annual cat show, the shah of Iran [Persia] today broke off diplomatic relations with France.

The Shah of Iran. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The shah's indignation, it was revealed, was aroused over the fact that "shah" and "chat," the French word for "cat," sound alike.

There was some talk in diplomatic circles tonight that the French government may send an official French translator to Teheran, the capital of Iran, in an effort to smooth the ruffled dignity of the shah, Riza Kahn Pahlevi, and try to end the diplomatic rift.

Objects to Confusion with Cats.

Sepah Bodi, the Iran minister to Paris, called at the foreign office today and declared the shah did not like being confused with cats and that the breach between the two countries was the result.

The trouble all came over the Paris paper's news story and captions for a layout of pictures of the cat show. The headline said:

"S. M. Le Chat Recoit en Son Salon," meaning "His Majesty, the Cat, receives in His Drawing Room."

The caption for the pictures said: "Quand Le Chat Est Roi," meaning "When the Cat Is King."

Recall Former Breaks.

This was not the first time that the shah has been angry at France. Two years ago the shah protested and called his minister home and canceled Iran participation in the Paris exposition, all because of a Paris newspaper quip based on an old proverb:

"La nuit tours les chats sont gris" [All cats look alike in the dark].

The shah has had his troubles with the United States, too. This was the result of a trafic accident on Nov. 27, 1935, in which Gaffar Kahn Djalal, Iran minister, was embroiled with police in Elkton, Md. They charged him with speeding and arrested him after a scuffle. He was called home. In the next year the American embassy in Iran's capital was closed.

In November of this year President Roosevelt sent Wallace Murray to Iran in an effort to end the diplomatic rift. A formal announcement of the outcome has not been made.

TAX WARANT SUIT HELD UNJUSTIFIED BY APPEAL COURT

Holders of $10,000,000 worth of unpaid 1929 board of education tax warants are not justified in bringing a so-called representative suit to recover, the Appellate court ruled yesterday. The court reversed a temporary injunction by which Judge Michael Feinberg restrained the prosecution of individual suits in the case June 17.

The representative suit was filed by Charles B. Scoville Jr. and the Southeast National bank, warant holders. It asked that warant holders who received $53,000,000 when the bulk of the warants were paid in numerical order be forced to return the money, that it might be distributed on a prorata basis to all holders. Judge Feinberg officially designated the action a representative suit and banned other warant holders from filing separate suits.

ICKES TO SPEAK AT COMMUNIST FRONT CONGRESS

Plans to Discuss Dies Red Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Shortly after congress convenes on Jan. 3 the American League for Peace and Democracy, a communist front organization, will hold a congress of its own in Washington. One of the promoters of this congress is Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party of the United States.

The League for Peace and Democracy, in congress assembled, will pay its respects to the Dies committee of the house of representatives which has been investigating un-American activities, including those of the League for Peace and Democracy. The official speaker at the congress on the subject of the Dies investigation will be Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Ickes Announces Speech.

Mr. Ickes announced today that he would discuss the Dies investigation in an address before the League for Peace and Democracy on Jan. 6. The subject of his address, he said, will be, "Playing with Loaded Dies."

Mr. Ickes has had many things to say about the Dies investigation. After the committee exposed his membership in the American Civil Liberties union, a communist front organization, he called Chairman Martin Dies [D., Texas] "the outstanding zany in our political history."

Matthews Quits Communists.

The League for Peace and Democracy, according to the sworn testimony of its organizer and first chairman before the Dies committee, is a communist front organization, one of many such promoted by the communists in their united front movement. The witness was J. B. Matthews, a former "fellow traveler" of the communist party—that is, a sympathizer and fellow worker who, for strategic reasons, does not carry a membership card. He said he organized more than 20 communist front organizations on direct orders from Moscow.

The League for Peace and Democracy was called the American League Against War and Fascism until its name was changed at its annual meeting in Pittsburgh last winter. Browder, the head of the communist party in this country, was vice chairman of the league under its old name.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—The University of Michigan basketball team rallied in the final quarter to defeat Butler university in the Butler fieldhouse, 40 to 31, tonight.

Charles Pink, Michigan forward, and Lyle Neat, Butler substitute guard, were the stars in the second half bombardment.

Butler led, 15 to 14, at half time. Six of its points were scored by Jerome Steiner, who was injured when he fell heavily just before the end of the period. The teams were tied four times during the half. Pink gave Michigan a one point lead at the outset of the second half, but Butler quickly ran the score to 25 to 16. The Wolverines then came back to take a 30 to 29 lead and, after Butler had matched the next basket, scored four times from the field.

Capt. Chuck Kellogg of Peoria, leading the Yale five, played well, but his teammates couldn't stop the Tech attack. Dar Hutchins, Tech center, led the scoring with twelve points, followed by Forward Carl Schunk and Guard Ken Olson, both of whom had eleven.

Yale kept in the game during the first five minutes, then Bradley speeded up to roll to its sixth victory in eight starts.

LOS ANGELES PREP ELEVEN DEFEATS CHICAGO, 7 TO 0

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—An eighty-nine yard touchdown drive gave the Los Angeles high school All-Stars a 7 to 0 victory over the Chicago All-Stars tonight before 20,000 in the Memorial Coliseum. Mel Bleeker, all-Southern California full back, sparked the fourth quarter drive and blasted over from the 6 inch line.

The drive started when Ray Woods caught a punt on his goal line and carried the ball to the Los Angeles 11. From this point the home team scored in sixteen plays. Bleeker and Woods did most of the ball carrying, the former breaking away for dashes of seventeen, sixteen, and eleven yards. Al Cole provided the extra point with a drop kick.

MIAMI DOLLS UP FOR TENNESSEE, OKLAHOMA GAME

It's Powerfully Proud of Orange Bowl Teams.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30.—Miami tonight began to add the finishing touches to its greatest football classic—the game between unbeaten and untied Tennessee and Oklahoma in the Orange bowl stadium Monday afternoon.

Visitors continued to troop in by train, auto and air. Hotels in Miami and Miami Beach are packed. Along the streets of downtown Miami palm branches, dipped in silver, are tied to every available post. Flying banners extend a welcome to fans from the southwest, the central west, and the eastern seaboard states.

It's Warm All Right.

Members of the two teams got their first glimpse of the Orange bowl stadium this afternoon, drilling under the warm sun which sent the temperature near the 80s. The Volunteers, champions of the Southeastern conference, took the field at 1:30 o'clock and departed at 3, when the Sooners, Big Six conference title holders, showed up for their practice session.

The two practices were secret. Police patroled the gates and only newspaper men were allowed to enter.

U. S. C., DUKE SLOW DOWN

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 30.—(AP)—The Duke and Southern California football teams slowed down today in preparing for their encounter Monday in the Rose Bowl.

The rival coaches, Howard Jones of the Trojans and Wallace Wade of Duke, speaking at a luncheon, paid compliment to each other's teams but were wary about picking a winner.

Later both coaches said their players were in good condition. Tony Tonelli, Trojan right guard, who until this week had been nursing a knee injury, "is rarin' to go," Jones said, but he added that he probably could start Bob Fisher in Tonelli's place.

T. C. U. IS FAVORITE

New Orleans, La., Dec. 30.—(AP)—The power of its line and its superior passing attack installed Texas Christian a 7 to 5 choice tonight for its Jan. 2 Sugar Bowl football game with Carnegie Tech.

From the training camps came conservative comment by the coaches—Dutch Meyer of the Horned Frogs and Bill Kern of Carnegie.

"Give us a break in the weather and the Frogs will do some scoring," said Meyer, who loaded his squad of thirty-two onto a special train at Fort Worth tonight for the jump to New Orleans.

Kern held another morning blackboard drill and an afternoon secret practice without scrimmage at Bay St. Louis. He said he was glad Texas Christian's ailing center, Ki Aldrich, would be able to play. Aldrich is suffering from an eye ulcer.

TECH GIVEN HEAVY WORK

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Coach Pete Cawthon gave his Texas Tech squad hard work today just when they expected things to come a little easier for their Cotton Bowl date Monday with St. Mary's Gaels.

For three hours this morning the raiders toiled on offensive and defensive maneuvers and then Cawthon brought them back in midafternoon for defensive work that lasted until nightfall.

Dallas, emblazoned with Cotton Bowl signs, prepared to welcome the Galloping Gaels tomorrow. Coach Slip Madigan and his squad of thirty-eight will arrive by train in the morning.

Clearing skies helped ticket sales, officials said, and indications were the aggregate would hit 30,000 by Saturday night.

Coaches Urged to Refuse to Predict Game Results

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

College coaches were urged in the final session of their eighteenth annual convention yesterday to refuse to predict winners of games as a means of combating gambling. The public relations committee of the National Coaches association, presenting its report in the Sherman hotel, termed gambling intercollegiate football's No. 1 parasite.

L. P. Jordan of Amherst, chairman of the public relations committee, said the widespread distribution of odds cards was harmful to the sport but admitted that "there is very little that we can do about it other than to refuse to predict winners."

Two other committee reports accused the coaches of "callous indifference." One studying the problem of injuries charged athletic officials in a few localities were not exerting the proper diligence in caring for injuries and recommended that coaches consult with athletic directors on the possibility of subscribing to a disability insurance.

Seek New Revenue.

It also was recommended that five coaches be chosen to do a series of articles on football next fall. The proceeds, it was suggested, should go into the association's treasury.

The Zuppke case was cited in the report brought in by Glenn Thistlethwaite of Richmond university, chairman of the association's stabilizing committee, in which Thistlethwaite said the University of Illinois trustees' action in turning down the resignation of Robert C. Zuppke indicated that universities were taking long and faithful service into consideration.

Thistlethwaite complained that the coaches' indifference made it difficult for the committee to make any headway in the study of means to make coaches' positions more secure. Only twelve of fifty coaches polled sent replies to a questionnaire. There is a general conviction, Thistlethwaite said, that the increased number of faculty ratings given coaches in recent years has led to a decrease in dismissals.

Will Go to Rules Meeting.

Lou Little of Columbia university, who succeeded Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin as president of the association, was installed in office. Little, Stuhldreher, Matty Bell of Southern Methodist, and Tiny Thornhill of Stanford will go west today to the national rules committee meeting at Colorado Springs, Colo., on Monday. They do not expect the committee to make any radical changes in the code, although they hope to persuade it to adopt suggestions made by the coaches' association.

The board of trustees of the association voted to honor Coach A. A. Stagg's fifty years of service to football by dedicating next year's meeting to him. A committee composed of Coaches H. O. Crisler, of Michigan, Elmer Layden, Notre Dame, and Dana X. Bible, Texas, was named to arrange a program which will pay fitting tribute to Coach Stagg.

The National Collegiate A. A. will pick the site for its 1939 gathering in March. It probably will be held in California. The coaches' association usually meets at the same place as the N. C. A. A.

TONY CANZONERI WINS DECISION FROM EDDIE ZIVIC

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Tough Tony Canzoneri, looking like a pocket sized Tony Galento instead of the sleek champion he once was, battered out a ten round decision over Eddie Zivic of Pittsburgh tonight in the Hippodrome. Canzoneri weighed 141¼, a quarter of a pound more than Zivic.

Embarked again on the comeback trail he has trod frequently in the past, Canzoneri controled the bout at his own pace and won every round except the fourth, which Referee Arthur Donovan took away for low blows.

Three months ago when he started a comeback Zivic won a disputed ten round decision from him at Scranton, Pa.

Expect 50,000 for Santa Anita Opening Today

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Expecting a crowd of 50,000, Santa Anita park tonight stood in readiness for the opening of its fifth meeting tomorrow.

Feature race on the program will be the $10,000 added California breeders' championship at one mile. Twelve California bred candidates were named for the race, with John Crowell's spirited filly, Valley Lass, and Neil McCarthy's Dear Diary and Morning Breeze, and Norman Church's Plucky Flight as top favorites.

Since Santa Anita closed last March, $300,000 or more has been spent on improvements.

GAMES TONIGHT.
Notre Dame at Northwestern.
St. Louis at Iowa.
Indiana vs. Michigan State at Detroit.
Santa Clara at Marquette.

Northwestern's basketball team will seek to reverse last week's defeat at the hands of Notre Dame when the two teams clash in their annual New Year's eve game in Patten gymnasium tonight. The game is expected to attract a capacity crowd of 6,000.

Tonight's game will be the twenty-fourth in a series which started in 1927 and finds the Irish holding a lead of thirteen victories to ten for the Wildcats. Notre Dame broke a ten to ten tie by winning both of last year's games and capturing the first game this year by a score of 48 to 30.

Irish Hit Stride.

After a shaky start in which they lost close games to Wisconsin and Michigan, the latter by two points, the Irish hit their stride in last week's game with the Purple. In that game Eddie Riska, Ed Sadowski, and Paul Ducharme led the attack by scoring thirty-five of their team's points. Riska led the assault with fifteen points on five field goals and five free throws. This trio, along with Mark Ertel, center, and Capt. Earl Brown, complete Notre Dame's starting lineup.

Coach Dutch Lonborg has reshuffled the Wildcats' starting lineup for tonight in an effort to snap a four game losing streak which has extended since the Pittsburgh game. Principal changes in the Wildcat battle front involve two positions. Bob Shepard, sophomore reserve guard, will start at forward in place of Bernie Davis, a senior, who injured a shoulder in the first Notre Dame game. Shepard, who has turned in a good performance whenever he broke into the lineup, is expected to inject more scoring punch into the Wildcat attack.

Voigts Unable to Practice.

The other lineup change finds Jim Currie, a forward, starting at guard in place of Bob Voigts, who has been unable to practice this week because of a foot injury. He may be able to see action during a portion of the game. The other Wildcat starters consist of Bob Koble, senior center, who is the team's leading scorer with forty-four points; Les Harman, junior forward, who has scored thirty-four points, and Ad Vance, veteran guard.

LEONARD DODSON SCORES 69 IN HOUSTON GOLF

Houston, Tex., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Leonard Dodson slammed out a 69 to take the lead in the first round of the 54 hole Houston open golf tournament today.

Dodson, who won the Hollywood open in a playoff with Horton Smith last year, barely nosed out Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Boston, winner of the Miami open, who sank a 10 foot putt on the last green for a 70, one under par.

Dick Metz of Chicago, who burned the course yesterday with a 64, found the back nine rough today and limped in with a 73 after going to the turn with a 34, one under par. Two others, Ben Hogan, Fort Worth, and Jimmy Morgan, San Antonio, completed the first round with 72's.

Jimmy Hines, New York Metropolitan open champion; Sam Byrd of Philadelphia, former baseball player; E. J. Harrison of Chicago, and Art Clark of Summitt, Pa., shot 73's to take places high among the leaders.

HAWKS BRACE UP AFTER DEFEAT; CANADIENS NEXT

Reversals of Form Jolt Club Officials.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Hocky fans, earnest hocky fans, who have been getting headaches trying to dope out the so-called world champion Blackhawks, should pause in their confusion and shed a tear for three nervous men, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, President Bill Tobin, and Manager Bill Stewart. There are three men who really suffer after each and every foldup, such as the 4 to 1 collapse in Detroit Thursday night.

If the Hawks were always good or always bad the shooting pains perhaps wouldn't be so acute. But, as you know, the Hawks have a way of lifting their sponsors into the warming sunshine of success just before dunking them into the freezing pool of ignominious defeat. This hot and cold stuff is what's crushing the major and his two Bills.

Canadiens Are Next.

This morning the Hawk sponsors should be full of gurgling optimism, though we suppose they are still in deep mourning over the persistence of the Detroit jinx. Tomorrow night the Hawks will receive the Montreal Canadiens in Chicago Stadium. The Canadiens, in case you have forgotten, form the only team in the National league which has been consistently kind to the up and down Hawks. The Chicagoans have defeated the Montreals in all three meetings of the two outfits, 3 to 2 on Nov. 6, 4 to 3 on Nov. 13, and 4 to 1 last Tuesday night in Montreal.

Despite the Hawks' misery yesterday over having taken their third defeat by the Red Wings Thursday night, they had to take to the ice for a drill shortly after arriving from Detroit. Four injured players—Bill Thoms, Mush March, Phil Besler and Art Wiebe—were excused from the workout and it is expected rest will have them ready to play tomorrow.

Shill Returns to Lineup.

Jack Shill, who has been out of the lineup since suffering a spine injury in the second game of the season, on Nov. 5, will be in the lineup tomorrow night. His return to service had been planned even before misfortune befell the players excused from yesterday's rehersal.

Thursday night's game in Detroit balanced the Hawk calendar at 10 games on the road and 10 at home. They will play three games at home before again taking to the rails, the Canadiens tomorrow night, the league leading Boston Bruins next Thursday night, and the Toronto Maple Leafs the following Sunday night, Jan. 8.

Duncan, Maher Win at Madison Club Ring Show

Boxers from East Chicago and Chicago each won two bouts in an intercity amateur boxing show held in Madison Athletic club last night. Chicago winners were John Duncan and Ray Maher. Duncan knocked out Stanley Ketchell of East Chicago in the second round and Maher beat Ziggy Zartowski in three rounds. Walter Schramm, East Chicago heavyweight, defeated Luke Baylark, Chicago, and Mike Sopko, East Chicago middleweight, conquered Joe Marshall, Chicago. Each of these fights went five rounds. In other matches Earl Merritt beat Ray Brown, Vincent Pellegrini beat Lou Owen, and Frank O'Brien stopped Mike Terlak.

The Leo Rodak-Leone Efrati fight show in the Coliseum Thursday netted a $600 profit, Matchmaker James C. Mullen said yesterday.

The show, which attracted more than 5,000, the fourth largest boxing attendance of the year in Illinois, drew net receipts of $8,189, revised box office figures revealed. Expenses were $7,589. Of this sum $5,075 was paid Rodak and Efrati and the contestants in the four other bouts. Rodak received a $1,250 guarantee and Leone collected $1,000.

Rodak was angered because spectators booed the decision, and Efrati was furious because he thought the worst he should have received was a draw.

Rodak, who said he injured his elbow in the fight, told friends fans treated him unfairly. He indicated he would confine himself to fighting outside of Chicago unless Chicagoans changed their attitude toward him.

Rodak is booked to make his next appearance in New Orleans, La., against Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Jan. 16. Efrati may meet Pete Lello in the Park Casino on the west side Jan. 11.

Matchmaker Mullen last night was undecided as to whether he would present his next show on Jan. 19 as previously announced. He intimated the next Coliseum program would be offered in February with Tony Canzoneri as one of the headliners.

VETERAN RINGS IROQUOIS FIRE ALARM AGAIN

Memorial Honors 575 Theater Victims.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan turned back the years yesterday. At exactly 3:32 p. m. in the council chambers in the city hall he pulled the lever of an alarm box that tapped out the numbers 2-6.

Thirty-five years ago at that moment he was pulling the lever of the original box 26. It was in Randolph street near Dearborn street. The alarm brought the first fire companies to the Iroquois theater fire in which 575 persons lost their lives.

Yesterday's services were held to commemorate the anniversary of the tragedy. They were sponsored by the Iroquois Memorial association, consisting of survivors and their relatives.

Speakers recounted the scenes of horror; told how an open arc lamp set a bit of gauze afire, how this ignited a velvet drape, how the flames were fanned by a draft from backstage, and how the actors tried heroically to avert the panic.

Memorial music was furnished by the Jubilee singers.

LAST RITES FOR ZONA GALE HELD IN PORTAGE, WIS.

Portage, Wis., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Zona Gale Breese, Pulitzer prize novelist and beloved "first lady" of Portage, was buried in Silver Lake cemetery here today as the city suspended business and paid silent tribute.

Hundreds of friends and neighbors crowded into the First Presbyterian church where the funeral service was read. Hundreds more from other cities sent messages of condolence. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, wired her "deepest sympathy."

The entire front of the church was banked with flowers. Among the congregation were several Winnebago Indians of the family of Susan Swan, whom Mrs. Breese had befriended.

Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, said she would have been a "supremely great woman if she never had written a book" and was "greater than anything she ever wrote or did."

Mrs. Breese, 64 years old, died in Chicago Tuesday night of pneumonia.

IDENTIFY WOMAN SUICIDE AS SISTER OF OAK PARK MAN

New York, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—A woman who shot herself to death in a hotel here on Christmas day was tentatively identified today as Mrs. Ruth Lutkins, 47 years old, widow of Col. Clifford Lutkins of Olathe, Kas. Identification was made through a hat purchased in Chicago. Mrs. Lutkins has a brother, Arthur Ellers of 122 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

BROTHER GOES TO NEW YORK.

Arthur Ellers of 122 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, left last night for New York upon receiving information that a woman who committed suicide there Christmas day had been tentatively identified as his sister, Mrs. Ruth Lutkins.

He said that Mrs. Lutkins had lived with him from January, when her husband died, until Thanksgiving and then had gone to New York. Her husband, Col. Clifford Lutkins, was an ardent sportsman and had hunted tigers in India.

NEIL SATTERLEE, VETERAN COURT REPORTER, DIES

Neil Satterlee, head of Satterlee & Binns, shorthand reporters, died in the Illinois Research hospital Thursday, it was learned last night. He had been ill several months. He was 63 years old, and lived at 820 Addison street.

Mr. Satterlee was one of the best known shorthand reporters in Chicago. He was official reporter, at times, for the state's attorney's office, and other state, county and federal offices. At his death he was official reporter for the United States district attorney's office and the commerce commission. He also covered local presidential addresses for Chicago newspapers and national news agencies.

His widow, Hannah, survives. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue. Burial will be at Oakridge.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The hog market was uneven yesterday. Selected light weights, 190 pounds and below sold actively at steady to 10 cent higher prices. The supply of these was short. Other hogs ran into a slump after a steady opening and finished 10 to 20 cents lower.

Wholesale markets for fresh pork were weaker, some cuts selling 50 cents lower.

Practically no changes occurred in the markets for other live stock. Supplies were small, in some instances too light to put prices to a fair test.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

CUT IN FEDERAL SILVER BUYING PRICE EXPECTED

But West Cries Loud for Subsidy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—The capital tonight was expecting another cut in the price of 64.64 cents an ounce now paid by the government for newly mined domestic silver.

Senator Pittman fights to keep silver subsidy.

President Roosevelt tomorrow will issue a proclamation for release in Sunday morning newspapers announcing the administration's policy on silver for the next year. The current price expires at midnight tomorrow.

The cut is expected despite the knowledge that the President is between two fires in the decision he is to make. Treasury officials on one hand acknowledge the dismal failure of the administration's silver program and advise a price reduction. Equally firm—and a lot more vicious—in their demands for at least the present price, if not a higher one, are the politicians from the western mining states.

May Heed Call of West.

Those who expect a cut, however, will not be unduly surprised if Mr. Roosevelt heeds the call of the wild west and continues to roll good silver after bad. The treasury is now paying 64.64 cents for silver that in the open market is gauged worth approximately 43 cents an ounce.

The present price is a reduction of about 13 cents from the 77.57 cents that the government was willing to pay for the metal prior to last Jan. 1. That price had been in effect for two years. The administration made its retreat last year with as little notice as possible. It issued the bare proclamation, fixing the new low price. No explanation was offered by the treasury.

An official of the treasury tonight said that there will be no press conference tomorrow. The "announcement will tell its own story." This lent credence to the belief that the administration will attempt another graceful retreat in an ill-fated policy.

West's Cry Is Loud.

Those who are more cautious in their opinions, however, recall that it is extremely difficult to foretell any of Mr. Roosevelt's actions. The cry from the western senators is loud and heavy, and prominent Democrats are among them.

These include Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the important foreign relations committee and head of the congressional silver bloc. Mr. Roosevelt will have to lean heavily on the foreign relations committee, especially since there is increasing sentiment for having his reciprocal trade treaties referred to the senate for approval.

Pittman says that his group will continue to fight for a $1.29 price. This is the price at which the treasury carries on the books the silver it bought at 64.64 cents an ounce. The difference, less minor coinage charges, is entered as profit. Pittman criticizes the treasury's taking this profit and is all for paying up to the statutory price of $1.29. Senators William H. King [D., Utah] and Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] support Pittman in this fight.

Falls Far Below World Price.

The $1.29 price was originally intended by congress to set the example for a world price of the same. But this has fallen far short as the world price also averages around 43 cents an ounce. Under the present silver purchase program this is also the price paid by the treasury for foreign silver. Mexico and China are still finding this a profitable market.

The treasury recently announced its willingness to grant the Chinese credit on gold earmarked in the federal reserve banks for them. The gold was given the Chinese in exchange for silver. Just as the high gold price of $35 an ounce invited a flood of the metal to this country, so has the silver price been a magnet. Total holdings of about 2½ billion ounces have proved so bulky that the construction of special vaults was required to house the metal.

Millions in Subsidies.

It is estimated that the government has paid more than 60 million dollars in subsidies to American producers, and speculators have taken in more than 800 millions for foreign silver transactions.

The silver policy has gradually built up in Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., a bitter distaste for subsidies of any kind. He has thus expressed himself often. Treasury officials no longer conceal their belief that the silver program has neither aided employment nor raised commodity prices, two of the virtues praised by the original silver sponsors. It will be their counsel versus the ballyhoo of the silver west in determining the content of tomorrow's silver proclamation.

Jason Whitney Purchases Minnesota Cheese Concern

Palmer Seeks Data on Fire Insurance Costs

Fire, casualty, and other lines of insurance other than life are being asked to disclose costs of doing business in Illinois. This and other information is asked in a questionnaire sent to them by Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance, it was disclosed yesterday.

The purpose of the questionnaire is to determine whether Illinois policy holders are paying equitable rates, the Chicago office of the insurance department said yesterday.

It was stated that questionnaires were sent to several hundred insurance firms.

Authority Is Explained.

The department, under its rate making powers over the fire insurance and casualty companies, has the authority to request information from firms doing this type of business.

Palmer's office said the survey is being made to learn the cost of acquiring business, the amount of commissions paid, agency costs, home office costs, and other items.

The questionnaires cover business written in 1937 and 1938. The 1937 data is to be turned into the insurance office by Feb. 1 and the 1938 data by March 1.

Casualty information is required to be given separately for each line of insurance. In addition, automobile liability and property damage information is to be divided into two groups, one covering public passenger carrying risks and long haul trucking risks and the other covering all other automobile risks.

Seek Burglary Figures.

Figures on burglary insurance are to be between policies covering thefts on the premises of the "assureds" and "all other forms."

Fidelity and surety figures are to be divided into three classes. These are: "Depositary bonds, commercial blanket fidelity and blanket position bonds, railroad, primary blanket fidelity, culpable negligence bonds; bankers, brokers, building and loan blanket, securities blanket, blanket forgery and alteration bonds; all other bonds."

Detailed information is requested concerning marine insurance and the many special lines covering such items as jewelry, furs, theatrical, transportation, and others.

Some Other Questions.

Among the questions asked are:

Do agencies individually listed report business to a general agency, branch office, or home office?

Tell whether policies are issued by agents, branch office, or company home office.

Give details as to arrangements whereby agents are allowed commissions in excess of acquisition cost rules, or for companies not subscribing to such rules, in excess of their normal commissions.

MAKERS PREDICT 3,500,000 AUTOS TO BE BUILT IN '39

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 30.—(AP)—The Automobile Manufacturers' association predicted tonight that automobile production in 1939 would be about 3,500,00 units. This is approximately one-third more than this year. The A. M. A. is composed of all major automobile manufacturers except Ford.

The association set production for 1938 in the United States and Canada at approximately 2,635,000 cars and trucks, or 47 per cent below 1937. The wholesale value was estimated at $1,616,000,000. Value of parts, accessories and replacements added $980,000,000. The total value of $2,596,000,000 was 41 per cent below 1937.

World registration of motor vehicles was set at 42,900,000, of which 68 per cent were in the United States. Of the latter total, 25,150,000 were passenger cars and 4,250,000 were commercial vehicles.

GERMANY OUSTS U. S. FROM TOP POSITION IN STEEL CONSUMPTION

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The United States in 1938 lost to Germany its world leadership in per capita consumption of steel, the trade publication Steel reported today.

Use of the metal in Germany, the magazine said, rose to 706 pounds a person from 548 in 1937. In the United States it dropped to 470 from 844 in 1937, putting the country in third place. Great Britain was second with 496 pounds, against 548 in 1937.

In gross tonnage produced, however, the United States remained first with 29,183,000, despite a decline from 51,526,000 in 1937. German output was placed at 22,900,000, against 19,531,000 in 1937. Russia was given third place with 18,000,000, against 17,535,000 in 1937.

Total world output was calculated at 107,523,000 gross tons, compared with 133,616,000 in 1937. The drop in the United States largely accounted for the world decline.

Steel authorities noted that armaments probably took much of Germany's metal. The German figures included Austrian production since March 15.

BRITISH STERLING CONTROL FUND SHOWS BIG LOSS

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The British equalization fund, used for stabilizing the pound sterling, had a net loss in gold of about £145,000,000 [approximately $674,000,000] between Sept. 30, 1937, and the same date this year, a treasury announcement disclosed today.

The announcement said that 21,684,000 fine ounces of the metal were held in the account Sept. 30 and that the amount in the issue department of the Bank of England totaled 76,844,000, or a total of 98,528,000. At $35 per fine ounce the holdings were $3,448,480,000, compared to $4,075,000,000 a year earlier.

The fund held only a "trifling" amount of foreign currency, the announcement said.

The value of the British pound fell nearly a cent on international exchange transactions yesterday. It closed in New York at $4.64⅞, the lowest level it has reached since before the first Munich conference last September.

NEWFOUNDLAND PULPWOOD LANDS SOLD TO BRITISH

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Dec. 30.—The government today ratified the purchase of five thousand square miles of timber lands by Bowaters Lloyd of London from the Reid company.

The board of trade and city council had opposed the contract because it provided for no paper or pulp mill in the Gander area but only for an increase of the Cornerbrook mill production by 30,000 tons of sulphite annually.

Under the agreement, Bowaters is permitted to export, and is only obliged to cut 50,000 cords of pulpwood annually.

It was hinted that an immediate appeal would be made to King George VI. to disallow the contract.

The commission denied a request for an additional $11,000 compensation made by William E. Walling II., executor of the estate.

Loss for Year Is Reported by Kuppenheimer

B. Kuppenheimer & Co., Chicago manufacturer of men's clothes, yesterday reported to stockholders that operations for the year ended Oct. 29 resulted in a loss of $136,377. In the preceding fiscal year the company had a profit of $75,666.

Bertram J. Cahn.

Bertram J. Cahn, chairman, said that advance sales of spring merchandise are running ahead of last year and more satisfactory results are indicated this year.

Business Is Restricted.

Adverse economic conditions prevailing in 1938 seriously curtailed the volume of business done by the company, he said. The restricted business and heavy federal taxes combined to make the year's operations unprofitable, he said.

Lower earnings were reported in interim statements issued by several other corporations.

United Gas corporation had consolidated net income of $5,388,314 for the twelve months ended Nov. 30. It had net income of $10,789,310 in the preceding twelve months. For the three months ended Nov. 30, net income was $767,125 against $2,153,113 in the November quarter of 1937

Utility's Income Lower.

STORES' SALES IN WEEK WELL ABOVE YEAR AGO

Department store sales in the week ended Dec. 24 exceeded those in the corresponding week of 1937 by 13 per cent. The 1937 week's sales, however, were reduced by Christmas holiday closings, the federal reserve board announced.

Of the twelve federal reserve areas, Boston, Atlanta, Richmond, and Minneapolis sales made the largest gains. Trade in the first two districts rose 20 per cent over the last year's volume. Richmond's sales climbed 16 per cent, and the Minneapolis, 15 per cent.

In the seventh federal reserve district [Chicago area], sales rose 12.8 per cent over a year ago, the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago said. Chicago's sales were above the average, making a 14.1 per cent gain. Detroit gained 9.4 per cent, Indianapolis 10.6 per cent, and Milwaukee 13.2 per cent.

Treasury Again Obtains Profit from Borrowing

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Treasury officials said today that for the second time in two weeks the treasury had made a profit by borrowing money. Buyers of $50,000,000 of an offering of $100,000,000 ninety day bills purchased them at a premium amounting to $557. A week ago the premium on a small part amounted to $10. It was explained that banks are eager to convert deposits into bills in order to avoid taxes on the deposits.

MARKET HOLIDAY

The New York Produce exchange, Savannah naval stores market and all principal cotton exchanges except in Chicago will be closed today for the New Year holiday. Trading will be resumed Tuesday morning. The world's principal commodity and security markets will close Monday and will reopen Tuesday.

NEW YEAR'S EVE STOCK STRONG (AND LOUD) ON NEW YORK'S EXCHANGE

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—An advance issue of New Year's eve, preferred, was oversubscribed on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange today. The issue was floated at 1:30 p. m., the traditional time for the exchange's holiday celebration. For the next one and one-half hours of trading, there was more floating than trading.

When the closing gong rang at 3 p. m., it was just as well. Business was falling off in leaps and bounds. The closing tone was strong—loud and strong, particularly on the part of the baritones.

A notable demand for market guidance was noted in a pool formed on the Broad street side of the floor. The theme was, "Show Me the Way to Go Home."

In-and-outers displayed some surprise at the fact it not only was not New Year's eve, but was still afternoon. However, experienced Wall Street observers pointed out that "the street" constantly deals in futures and that nothing it does should surprise any one.

Just to make everything official, two orchestras blared out lots of swing music.

WEEK'S FREIGHT TRAFIC RECORDS DROP OF 5.2 PCT.

Railroad freight loadings in the week ended Dec. 24 slackened to 574,462 cars, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. The decline was less than seasonal. The total was 31,852 cars below the volume for the preceding week, a drop of 5.2 per cent.

Compared with the similar week in 1937, when loadings were reduced by the Christmas holiday, trafic last week was 116,641 cars or 25.5 per cent larger.

The volume last week also showed the first increase in recent months over the total for a corresponding week in 1936. Loadings rose 11,884 cars, or 2.1 per cent, above those for the comparative week two years ago.

The association's classified report of commodity loadings follows:

Everyday Economics

Soft Drinks.

Consumption of nonalcoholic beverages—soft drinks—has more than doubled since the repeal of prohibition, according to figures by the bureau of census of the department of commerce. This indicates that, regardless of the effects of beer and "hard" liquor consumption on the popularity of soft drinks by themselves, the use of carbonated waters as mixer in alcoholic drinks has given a big boost to the total use of nonalcoholic drinks.

Soft drinks bottled in the United States in 1937 had a total value of $276,780,000, or 149 per cent more than the output of $111,297,000 in 1933. For 1935, makers of these beverages bottled $160,000,000 worth of drinks. The figures do not include production of fruit and vegetable juices.

The largest single item in the cost of bottling soft drinks is the cost of materials. Last year, the cost of the raw products, supplies, containers, and fuel amounted to $112,380,000, or about 40 per cent of the total value of finished products. The industry's wage bill was $30,980,000, or about 11 per cent of the total. The number of wage earners in 1937 increased to 27,979, compared with 15,123 in 1933.

COMMON STOCK IS WIPED OUT IN NEW HAVEN PLAN

Fixed Charges Cut in Proposals.

Equities of the common stockholders are wiped out in an amended plan for reorganization filed by the New Haven railroad in the United States district court at New Haven, Conn., yesterday.

The plan, which was filed also with the interstate commerce commission in Washington, D. C., makes another drastic cut in fixed charges.

In the original reorganization plan the common stockholders were to have received one share for each five held. The preferred stock holders were to have received five shares of new common stock for each four shares of preferred held. The exact amount of common to be distributed among the preferred shareholders will be determined later.

Fixed Charges Scaled Down.

The amended plan provides that fixed charges be scaled down to approximately $6,402,000. In the plan filed in 1935 fixed charges were $19,531,323, and in the June, 1937, plan, later amended, charges were $9,267,909.

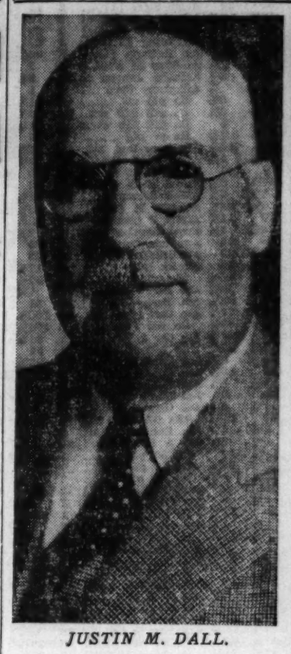
Fixed charges and guarantees under the amended plan would include $455,012 of equipment trust interest; $296,880 of underlying bond interest; $262,500 of prior lien bond interest; $4,503,281 of fixed interest bond interest, maximum rent for leased roads of $787,829 and $96,000 in guarantees. Contingent interest on income bonds would be $4,311,627.

Reorganization securities proposed in the amended plan vary in some details from those proposed in the railroad's original plan. Changes include a small issue of short term bonds, either a prior lien bond or a special series of fixed interest bonds for the purpose of raising cash. The second preferred stock proposed in the original plan has been eliminated. The new preferred stock will have exclusive voting rights until its first dividend has been paid, and thereafter so long as any cumulative dividends remain unpaid.

Capital Structure Provisions

Capital structure under the amended plan would include $12,872 of equipment trust certificates; $7,422,000 of 3½ per cent underlying mortgage bonds, $7,500,000 of prior lien bonds due in 1954; $112,582,032 of fixed interest bonds, 4 per cent, maturing in 1975; $95,813,924 of income 4½s, maturing in 1985; $71,656,886 of 5 per cent preferred stock par value $:00, cumulative to the extent of 25 per cent and an estimated $77,000,000 of common stock.

Counsel Retires



JUSTIN M. DALL.

TITLE & TRUST COUNSEL WILL RETIRE TODAY

Justin M. Dall, special counsel of the Chicago Title and Trust company, will retire today after fifty-three years of service with the company and its predecessor companies. He will continue a director.

Dall started work as a clerk for the old Cook County Abstract company on July 17, 1885. This company later was consolidated with other abstract firms and became the Chicago Title and Trust company. After his clerkship Dall became a title examiner and then moved successively to the positions of assistant secretary, secretary, and vice president. He was made vice chairman of the board in 1931 and in 1937 he was made special counsel.

Dall's work embraced the entire history of real estate title guarantees in Illinois because it was in 1888 that the first title guarantee policy was written in Chicago. He lives in River Forest.

STOCKS CLIMB; RAIL AVERAGE SETS NEW PEAK

Buying Again Active in Special Groups.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 30.—The stock market made further progress today in the face of year-end adjustment of operations and last minute cash tax sales. After backing down from a firm start, prices rose again to approach their best for the day at the close. Sales totaled 1,400,010 shares.

At the outset large blocks were traded with prices holding their own. The pace slowed after the first half hour and cross currents developed. Some good buying persisted in special groups, however, as attempts were made to continue the advance.

Rails gave a good performance, with the Dow-Jones average for the group rising 0.44 point to 33.60, new 1938 peak. Union Pacific climbed 2 points. Illinois Central was among the weak exceptions, losing 1 point.

Chemicals Move Higher.

Chemicals also made headway. Allied, du Pont, Union Carbide, and Monsanto rose 1 to 3½ points. Amusement shares advanced on reports of unusually heavy holiday attendance at theaters. Loew's pushed one point higher at one time, but then slipped on news that the company and its affiliates had lost an important infringement suit. It closed fractionally higher.

Aviation shares were beset by selling in the morning. An attempt to bring them to the fore in the afternoon proved futile. Glenn Martin moved counter to the trend, gaining 1¾ points in active trading.

Leading industrial issues held to a narrow course and closed mostly fractionally lower. Included were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, and General Motors. Coppers and merchandising issues also closed fractionally lower. Most power and light shares dipped after early steadiness.

Miscellaneous Issues Rise.

Several miscellaneous issues gave good accounts of themselves. Continental Motors added a fraction in the best volume of the day. Loft also was active and higher. Minor gains predominated in the oil group. Most machinery stocks gave ground.

The dollar value of sales on national securities exchanges in November amounted to $1,446,052,343, a decrease of 16.9 per cent from October and 2.9 per cent from November, 1937, the Securities and Exchange Commission reported today.

Stock sales, including rights and warants, had a value of $1,306,290,839, a decrease of 17 per cent from October. Bond sales totaled $139,760,400, a decrease of 16.2 per cent.

Stocks, Bonds

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks continued their climb yesterday in lighter trading. Sales totaled 53,000 shares, compared with 78,000 shares Thursday and a 1938 peak of 81,000 shares Wednesday.

THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks finished at 11.55, up 0.16 from the preceding close. Most volume leaders made gains.

Aviation and Transportation closed at a new 1938 high mark of 3¾, up ⅝. Aviation corporation touched a new peak of 8⅛, then closed at 8, up ¼. Bendix Aviation, however, finished ⅛ lower at 29⅞.

Middle West was among the gainers, advancing ⅛ to 7½. Midland United preferred moved up ¼ to 4, Commonwealth Edison gained an equal fraction to 27¾. Chicago corporation closed at 1⅞, up ⅛. Marshall Field lost ⅛, and Butler Brothers closed unchanged.

Today the stock exchange will admit to trading 14,218,835 shares of common stock, no par value, of the Consolidated Oil corporation. In addition, 1,998,769 shares of common stock, no par value, and 300,000 shares of $5 dividend convertible preference stock, no par value, of the Gillette Safety Razor company will be admitted.

Tuesday the registration of 1,032,945 common shares, $5 par value, of the General American Transportation corporation will become effective.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Rail and utility issues vied for leadership today as the bond market forged ahead fractionally to about 3 points. Foreign dollar loans were strong. Transactions totaled $9,468,725, par value, against $9,437,250, par value, yesterday.

With Wall street believing that there will be a general reinvestment demand for bonds when the new year begins, demand for a number of utilities and industrials pushed these issues to new highs for the current upward movement.

Western Union loans featured the utility group. The 5s of '60 ended at 60½, up 3½, and the 5s of '51 at 61, up 4. Loans of American and Foreign Power, Columbia Gas and Electric, and Utilities Power and Light also scored substantial gains.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas bonds were outstanding in a higher rail list. U. S. governments were steady, with closing prices 4-32ds of a point higher to 2-32ds lower.

Bank Stocks.

Several leading Chicago bank stocks advanced 50 cents to $3 in a fair volume of trading yesterday, dealers said. Shares of the Chicago Title and Trust company gained $1 to $140 bid, $144 asked; Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, 50 cents to $79.50 bid, $81.50 asked; the First National bank, $3 to $226 bid, $230 asked.

"Profits Out of Wall Street," by H. Wilder Osborne. [Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., New York City. Price $1.29.]

"It isn't prices that matter, it's the trend they are in that counts." That theory, orginally observed and classified by Charles H. Dow, is the gist of a new book for the investor. This volume, which is to be published Jan. 3, is written for those who have had some stock market experience and wish to guide their own affairs.

No panaceas, get rich quick schemes, or foolproof systems are offered. Instead, the author explains the law of the price trend and tells how to detect its operation by consulting the averages and constructing one's own charts. The book is short only 51 pages and is written in simple and direct language.

INVESTING FIRM ASKS DISMISSAL OF RECEIVER SUIT

Denies All Charges of Illegal Acts.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 30.—[Special.]—Dismissal of a receivership suit filed in federal court here was sought in an answer made today by the Fidelity Investment association.

Declaring it was a solvent corporation, the association denied charges it had operated its accounts recklessly, carelessly, and wrongfully."

The answer said that the firm "has at all times honestly, carefully, prudently, lawfully, and in good faith managed the affairs of this corporation and its accounts, finances, and funds." Fidelity sells investment contract certificates and bonds providing for lump sum or monthly payments by contract purchasers. It has sold more than $600,000,000 of securities and has offices in 56 cities, including Chicago.

Pennsylvania Halts Activities.

The association's reply to the petition closely followed an announcement by the Pennsylvania securities commission that Fidelity's operations had been halted in that state. The Pennsylvania commission said it had refused to renew the association's registration for 1939 pending a hearing to show why the registration should not be revoked.

Nine contract holders in Philadelphia filed the receivership petition on Dec. 21, basing their action on moves by the Securities and Exchange commission for an injunction to stop alleged fraudulent practices by the company.

Agrees to Injunction.

The firm denied such practices, but accepted a permanent injunction in federal District court at Detroit. It later registered with the SEC. Moves to bar the company from interstate commerce and use of the mails then were dropped.

Federal Judge William E. Baker announced he would hold a hearing here Jan. 6 on the receivership matter.

The Philadelphia contract holders charged the company operated eleven reserve funds with deficits "so as to impair" the company's obligations, and "recklessly, carelessly, and wrongfully" handled the company's finances.

Investors' Guide

Universal Leaf Tobacco.

Investors' Guide: I want a stock for investment purposes. How do you rate the shares of Universal Leaf Tobacco? Has their business in China been affected much by the fighting there?—Mrs. W. W. K.

Answer: Stability of earnings has been shown by Universal Leaf Tobacco, Inc., in recent years, including the big depression. The company deals throughout the world in leaf tobacco used in the manufacture of cigarets. Its headquarters are in Richmond, Va.

Sales and profits are running higher now than in the boom days before 1930. The company in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1938, did a gross business of $24,916,000 and had net income of $1,537,562, or $7.14 a common share. Gross sales in the preceding year totaled $27,361,000, compared with $20,973,000 in the 1936 fiscal year and $21,254,000 in 1929.

The company's peak profit was made in the year ended June 30, 1937, when net income was $1,636,000, an increase of $5,000 over the preceding year. In only one year since 1925 has net income fallen below a million dollars. This was in 1932, when net income was $861,851, or $2.51 a common share. Profits in the 1938 fiscal year were reduced by $220,000 by the destruction of a warehouse in Shanghai, China. About 60 per cent of the total business is export trade, and offices and agencies are maintained in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, Australia, and Canada.

Dividends were paid on the preferred and common stocks throughout the depression. The 62,500 preferred shares at $100 par bear a cumulative dividend rate of 8 per cent.

The regular rate on the common was boosted from $3 to $4 a year with the declaration early this month of a $1 quarterly dividend payable Feb 1 to holders of record Jan. 17. Including extras, common dividends for 1938 will amount to $5 a share. Payments have ranged between $3 and $6.25 a year since 1928, except for 1932, when $2.50 a share was disbursed.

The company is in a strong current position. Current assets on June 30 totaled $10,728,000, including cash of $2,730,000, against current liabilities of $976,000.

The preferred stock is high grade, and the common is a business man's risk—good grade now, but should be watched closely.
